No other industry, in time of depression, is spending money to give public service as is the newspaper press. When news breaks newspapermen go and get it and play it, whether advertising is "in" or "out."

POLICE ADMIT BEING BLOCKED BY KIDNAPERS

CRIMINALS BELIEVED WAITING FOR LULL

Most Tangible Clew Comes in Strange Vanishing of Two Servants.

Hopewell, N. J., March 16 (A.P.).—Although police still are convinced the kidnaped Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., is alive, a high police official said tonight they are no nearer a solution of the strange case than they were two weeks ago.

The statement was made by one of the authorities directing the hunt for the famous flier's son, but he refused to allow the use of his name.

Although he characterized the work of investigators as clever enough to rival the best efforts of Scotland Yard and of the fictional Sherlock Holmes, he said they had thus far been unable to form a theory, even about what type of criminal was responsible.

It still was a matter of conjecture, he explained, whether a professional gang, a band of amateurs or maniacs were responsible.

"Go-Betweens" Unsuccessful.

He said Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz, who were named by Col. Lindbergh as his "go-betweens," and Morris Rosner, who has acted on at least one occasion since the kidnaping as the aviator's emissary, were believed to have made little headway in their endeavors.

While he explained that police had no definite ground for suspecting any of the Lindbergh servants, he said none was free from suspicion.

The police conviction the child is still alive, he said, is based on a belief the kidnapers would not dare to slay the infant. He said officials were inclined to discredit the frequently advanced argument the abductors might kill the child if the hunt pressed too close. It would be easy for them to leave the baby in a hotel room, he added.

A general impression persisted in some circles that as soon as the frenzied search has quieted down further, new word may come from the child-stealers. This theory was based on a supposition that the curly-haired child is still alive and is being well cared for, but that those who made off with him are biding their time—waiting until they consider it safe to complete negotiations.

Most Tangible Clew.

As the fifteenth day since the abduction drew to a close, the investigators were tracking down vaguer clews than ever before—queer anonymous letters, stories of old kidnapings and wild rumors that would not remain silent.

The most tangible lead was based on the story of Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Lightfoot, of Franklin Park, N. J., who told how their two German servants, a butler and a maid, took a long automobile ride the night of the kidnaping and gave up their jobs the next day.

"Our investigators are checking the story," State police officials said, "but

Dr. Abbot Better After Operation

Charlotte, N. C., March 16 (A.P.).—Dr. Charles G. Abbot, noted in the scientific world for his discoveries regarding the solar system and secretary of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, was reported recovering in a hospital here today from an operation performed yesterday.

The scientist was understood to have placed himself under the care of physicians here Monday while on a Southern tour for a rest.

Dr. Abbot was for many years associated with the Astrophysical Observatory in Washington, and is widely known for his invention of numerous instruments for such work, as well as for several books on the subject.

Ship at Sea Reported In Flames and Sinking

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The Radio Corporation of America reported tonight that it had intercepted a message from the steamer Sunoil reporting an unidentified ship in flames and sinking about 52 miles south of Penwick Light, off the Delaware capes.

The message said the Sunoil was unable to identify the blazing ship, and was proceeding on her way "because many small boats were in the vicinity."

Mrs. Norton to Seek "Limited Franchise"

Soon Will Introduce Resolution in House for Revision of Laws and Allowing District Representation in Congress.

Such perennial problems as District representation in Congress, local governmental reorganization and revision of antiquated District laws, would be settled once and for all under a resolution to be introduced by Mrs. Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District committee.

Following a meeting of the committee yesterday Mrs. Norton announced she will ask Congress to name a committee comprising Senate and House District committee members and heads of outstanding local civic groups to study problems of District government and report back to Congress.

Mrs. Norton believes the District should be given a "limited franchise"—that is, representation in both houses of Congress. Complaints that have swamped her committee have convinced her something is wrong with the present form of government.

Last Saturday she voiced her ideas in a radio address, but decided only yesterday to seek a solution through congressional action. Under her plan, numerous pending issues, including proposed election of school board members, would be submitted to the special commission for review.

Mrs. Norton asked early action on the street car merger bill at yesterday's committee meeting. Hearings before the utilities subcommittee were ordered printed, and Mrs. Norton announced she will confer with Representative Loring Black, jr., subcommittee chairman, with a view to reporting the consolidation project favorably. The Senate District committee will vote on the Senate merger bill tomorrow afternoon.

Nine District bills will be presented to the House for action next District day, March 28, Mrs. Norton said. The group decided to hold hearings on the old age securities bill, to provide a pension of $9 a week for District residents over 60, and to take up the Bowman bill to regulate securities.

The committee favorably reported the Comptroller of the Currency's bill for more rigid regulation of local banks, trust companies and building and loan associations, and the Senate bill for extending to nearby Maryland counties additional District water privileges. A bill to require insurance companies to maintain principal records in Washington, amended by the corporation counsel's office, was approved.

LIMIT PENAL TERMS GIVEN 5 KIDNAPERS

(United Press.)

While the world awaited developments in the two weeks' old kidnaping of little Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., public demand for severe penalties in abduction cases resulted Wednesday in the sentencing of five kidnapers, in widely separated cities of the United States, to the longest prison terms that the law would allow.

Samuel Leffer, convicted in New York of the kidnaping of a Brooklyn butcher, was sentenced to 50 years.

Ralph Sheldon, Louis Frank and Jesse Orsatti, who kidnaped an Agua Caliente race track official, were sentenced in Los Angeles to from 10 years to life, with the maximum term recommended.

"Kidnaping is the worst of all crimes. It is becoming too common. An example must be made to discourage such things," Judge Lynn B Griffith, in court at Warren, Ohio, said in sentencing Hargraves to life imprisonment.

Judge Charles C. Nott, jr., New York, fixed Samuel Leffer's penalty at 50 years' imprisonment in Sing Sing for participating in the snatching of Sidney Mann, from whom he and two other men extorted $69 after holding him prisoner several days. Leon Golden and Max Lipsky, Leffer's co-conspirators, already had been sentenced to life imprisonment and 20 years, respectively.

Judge Charles S. Hurnell, in Los Angeles, recommended that Sheldon, Frank and Orsatti serve the maximum of their ten years to life sentences. They were convicted of kidnaping "Zeke" Caress and his wife and holding them for ransom. Caress was an official at the Agua Caliente Race Track.

Another kidnaping was reported at Huntington Beach, Calif., when a young man wrested Orpha de Busk, 18-year-old beauty, from her escort and held her prisoner several hours.

Miss de Busk was driving with Clarence Double, 21, when the kidnaper stopped the car, robbed Double and forced the girl to accompany him in a stolen automobile. She was freed, unharmed.

Honduras Again States Guatemala Ignores Pact

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, March 16 (A.P.).—The foreign office has sent a new protest to Guatemala alleging that Article XVI of the Washington Arbitration Treaty of 1930 has been violated.

Honduras' complaint is that Guatemalan authorities and citizens are again performing official acts on Honduran territory of Manguito and Chachahualia.

Former Senator Reed, Better, Still in Peril

Rochester, Minn., March 16 (A.P.).—James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri, continued to show improvement, his physician said late today, but was not yet out of danger.

LEAGUE INQUISITORS JOIN PEACE EFFORTS

Decision Boosts Hopes for Armistice; Two Forces Clash in Manchuria.

Shanghai, March 16 (U.P.).—The League of Nations inquiry commission agreed today to participate in peace negotiations at Shanghai, where municipal authorities estimated 6,000 persons were killed in the recent warfare between Chinese and Japanese.

The authorities placed the number of wounded at 2,000; the missing at 10,040, and property damage at $385,000,000. It was estimated that 160,000 families were affected.

The peace negotiations continued unsuccessful, but new hope for an armistice was raised by the announcement that the league commission would participate in conferences, delaying its departure until March 26.

The Japanese Minister, Mamora Shigemitsu, disclosed that he had held a secret conference with Dr. Wellington Koo, former Chinese foreign minister, but as yet has not reached any truce decision. Another meeting will be held immediately, after which it is hoped a truce will be arranged.

Harbin, Manchuria, March 16 (U.P.).—The first clash in a new drive against rebels in Manchuria occurred today near Kirin, where Chinese forces opposing the new pro-Japanese government of Henry Pu-Yi were scattered with heavy losses.

A Japanese brigade under command of Gen. Hamano attacked the "rebels," who had been reported menacing a wide district south of the Chinese Eastern Railroad. The Japanese lost three dead and a few wounded.

While the Japanese were crushing resistance in the central and eastern

Ohio Governor to Call Assembly to Help Poor

Columbus, Ohio, March 16 (A.P.).—An extraordinary session of the Ohio General Assembly will be called by Gov. George White to consider the enactment of unemployment and poor relief legislation, the governor said tonight.

The date for the special session has not been fixed but probably will be decided upon tomorrow. He indicated it may be called next week.

Market Suspends Trading in Kreuger

Stockholm Exchange Votes on Course for Opening on Monday.

Stockholm, March 16 (U.P.).—The board of governors of the Stockholm Stock Exchange today voted to suspend transactions in Kreuger & Toll shares on Monday when the exchange reopens.

The market has been closed since the suicide of Ivar Kreuger, head of the giant match industry centering here and extending into every country of the world save Russia. The closing was voted on Saturday to protect the various Kreuger companies which were affected by Kreuger's death.

Berlin, March 16 (U.P.).—It was reported here today that Oscar Rybeck, director of Swedish Match Co., Kreuger & Toll subsidiary, would succeed the late Ivar Kreuger in the general management of Kreuger interests.

SALES TAX FOES FALTER IN FIGHT TO BLOCK MOVE

Lack of Unison Detracts From Attacks Made Before House.

IN SESSION TONIGHT TO SPEED UP DEBATE

Test Is Expected Tomorrow When New Revenue Bill Study Is Started.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Opponents of the manufacturers' sales tax provision of the $1,096,000,000 tax revision measure yesterday played a somewhat weak and discordant tune in lieu of the triumphal march they had promised.

To carry the figure farther, the gatherings of the opponents might be likened to the fervent gatherings of earnest citizens with music complexes who came all prepared to play beautiful masterpieces but without agreement on a leader who should decide what they should play.

Debate dribbled along in the House, with only a few members paying attention to the numerous others who got up to talk for five, ten or more or less minutes which had been yielded them from the Democratic or Republican dictators of debate timing.

Opponents of the sales tax sought to detract from the significance of the determination of party leaders to close debate tonight and the acquiescence of the House membership to meet in night session to end general debate.

Sponsors Have Different View.

But the leaders sponsoring the tax thought differently. They pointed to an attendance of 26 at the meeting called by Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, and to an attendance of something like 45 to 50 at the Democratic rally of opponents held in the caucus room of the House Office Building last night at the behest of Representative Robert L. Doughton (Democrat), of North Carolina, and Representative John E. Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi.

The fighting Rankin, however, refused to accept such an estimation

17 Fishermen Marooned On Erie Ice Floe Saved

Buffalo, N. Y., March 16 (A.P.).—Marooned on a derelict ice floe drifting in Lake Erie, seventeen fishermen were saved today by United States Coast Guardsmen who rowed through more than a mile of ice-clogged water to rescue them.

The men were members of a group fishing through the ice which forms on the shore of the lake. Without warning a huge floe broke away from the field and started to drift across the lake toward the Canadian shore. Four men who were on the edge nearest the shore managed to reach land by jumping from one small floe to another, but the seventeen others were carried out into the lake.

GAS TAX BOOST WINS APPROVAL OF U.S. BUREAU

Auto Weight Levy Plan Is Revamped in Report of Efficiency Group.

SPECIAL ROAD FUND FOR DISTRICT URGED

Program Would Put Burden of Highway Work Cost on Motorists.

The Bureau of Efficiency yesterday completed dissection of two more of the Mapes taxation measures, reporting them back to the Senate District committee in a form far different from the auto weight and increased gasoline tax bills that passed the House.

Unexpectedly the bureau approved a 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax and sanctioned, in part, House automobile weight tax recommendations. But, as it rewrote the Mapes estate tax, so the bureau completely revamped the second phase of the Mapes $4,000,000 tax program.

First, the weight feature was deleted from the auto weight tax bill, so far as it concerned pneumatic-tired cars under 6,000 pounds and solid-tired machines under 4,000 pounds.

Highway Fund Proposed.

Second, the personal tax on automobiles, thrown into the discard by the Mapes committee, was tacked on to the bill by the bureau, to make up some of the revenue lost from the weight tax revision.

Third, a special "highway fund" was proposed, to which would be credited all collections from motor vehicle operators' permit fees, motor fuel taxes, motor vehicle registration fees, title fees and assessments made against abutting property for paving purposes, under the Borland law.

Fourth, the entire cost of construction and maintenance of highways, and one-half of the cost of bridge construction and maintenance, would be charged to this highway fund, under a plan to tax motorists according to their use or damage to streets.

Puts Burden on Autoists.

"This plan would place almost the entire burden of street construction and maintenance upon motor vehicle owners, and would relieve the general taxpayers of the District of any share of this obligation," Director Herbert D. Brown of the Bureau of Efficiency told Chairman Arthur

110 Believed Drowned As Japanese Ship Sinks

London, March 16 (U.P.).—The Japanese coastal steamer Choan Maru, of 2,812 tons, struck a submerged rock near Chefoo in a dense fog Saturday and was believed to have gone down with the loss of 110 passengers and crew, the Daily Herald correspondent reported today from Kobe.

Americans, in Dire Need, Are Ordered to Quit Russia

Several Hundred Destitute and Stranded in Moscow Because of Failure to Find Jobs in Soviet After False Promises of Red Functionaries.

Moscow, March 16 (U.P.).—Several hundred Americans who came to Russia looking for jobs, homes and other benefits of the Communist state were informed tonight that they must leave the country without delay. The government has decided suddenly on a general tightening of its regulations affecting foreigners.

Many of the Americans sold all of their belongings and invested virtually all of their money in transportation to Russia. Most of them are now stranded and penniless.

They have no living quarters and almost no food. For the most part they are subsisting on charity. Soviet authorities have attempted to make some arrangements for them, but the city of Moscow already is overcrowded and the recent influx of foreigners has made conditions worse. Some of them are sleeping eight and ten in one room.

In addition to the Americans there are many Germans and other foreigners who came to Russia because they could not find work in their own countries.

It was understood that Soviet functionaries abroad told them they were assured of jobs, visas and homes when they arrived in Russia, but they have received none of these benefits.

They entered as tourists, and for that reason were not legally allowed to accept jobs. However, some of them found work and were busy for months. Others arrived recently looking for jobs, but the influx caused the Soviet authorities to tighten their enforcement of laws affecting foreigners. It was indicated that some exception to the laws might be made in favor of some of those in distress.

The plight of the Americans is most serious because they are so far from home. Furthermore, they have no regular consular protection in Moscow because of absence of diplomatic relations between Russia and the United States.

M. Borodin, former adviser to China, who recently was appointed a member of the presidium of the commissariat of labor, is attempting to straighten out the situation. He organized a special office to register the stranded foreigners, and it was understood that special privileges might be granted foreigners already here or en route here. Thereafter, however, all foreigners will be obliged to leave when their tourist visas are terminated. Arrangements for employment in Russia must be made in advance.

Borodin's effort may develop into the first organized attempt of the Soviet Union to deal with the immigration problem.

Gov. Roosevelt Victor In North Dakota Vote

New Yorker Is Given 33,660 Ballots in 1,350 Precincts.

Fargo, N. Dak., March 16 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt won the North Dakota Democratic presidential preference contest in yesterday's primary on the face of returns tabulated by the Associated Press election bureau tonight from more than one-half of the State's 2,235 precincts.

Returns from 1,350 precincts tonight out of 2,235 gave Roosevelt 33,660; Murray, 19,431.

With 48 of the State's 53 counties reporting partial returns, Roosevelt held a lead in 40, while the others gave Murray the margin, none, however, particularly impressive.

Incoming returns added to the Roosevelt lead, which has run close to two to one throughout the tabulations.

The amazing number of Democratic ballots cast in this normally Republican State set an all-time record for that party's vote in a presidential primary. The highest previous vote was around 13,000.

Already 52,000 Democratic ballots have been tabulated, and indications were that the total from the State would exceed 60,000.

Win in West, Following Last Week's in East, Hailed by Friends.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York has cleared another hurdle and damaged the prestige of another foe in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

He has decisively defeated Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma in the preferential primary in North Dakota, where the prize was ten delegate votes in the national convention.

Thus, in the space of one week, the New York governor has been victorious in both the East and the West, his triumph over Murray coming seven days after he had administered a smashing defeat to Alfred E. Smith in New Hampshire.

On the basis of returns from a little more than half the North Dakota districts, Roosevelt was leading Murray by a margin of almost two to one. The districts still to be heard from were rural ones, and consequently were expected to give Murray more votes than Roosevelt. However, politicians conceded that Roosevelt was too far ahead to be in danger.

The North Dakota voters went to the polls Tuesday, but so slow were

ARLINGTON'S SCHOOL BOARD CLERK QUITS

F. J. Hallock Resigns as State Audit of County Records Proceeds.

Resignation of F. J. Hallock, clerk to the Arlington County School Board, was announced yesterday from the office of County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp. The announcement was brief, stating he had resigned and that his resignation had been accepted by the school board.

His action follows closely that of E. Wade Ball, county treasurer, after the reporting of an alleged shortage in the accounts of the county by the county board. This shortage has been placed at more than $250,000, according to reports. Ball resigned February 26 at the request of the company which bonded him.

While the chairman of the county school board and county school superintendent refused to make any statement as to the cause of the sudden resignation of their clerk, it is learned that it came following a conference on Tuesday night between the county school board and the State auditor, T. Coleman Andrews.

The State auditors are now making an investigation of the records of the school board as well as the county's books, and it is rumored that there is a shortage in those accounts also.

Mr. Hallock, who could not be located around the county courthouse yesterday, held the position as clerk to the county school board for the last five years. It pays $1,500 a year. He was formerly in the Navy Department. He is a past master of Cherrydale Lodge, No. 42, A. F. and A. M., and also secretary to the Arlington County Democratic committee.

Democrats Will Submit Filipino Freedom Plan

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic leadership has decided to submit to the House the Hare bill providing for Philippine independence.

The measure probably will be brought before the House next month. It has been approved by the House insular committee and provides for freedom of the islands within eight years after establishing of the new government.

2 Dead, Many Hurt In Strike in Poland

Walkout Comes as Protest Against Labor Bills Is Passed by Sejm.

Warsaw, Poland, March 16 (A.P.).—Two persons were killed today and many injured in disorders attending a general strike of some 26,000 workers throughout Poland. Labor unions proclaimed the walkout in protest against labor bills recently passed by the Sejm. Although Warsaw was not seriously affected, various points in the provinces had disturbances.

Newspapers were suppressed at Krakow, and when police there forcibly dispersed a demonstration one was slain, one injured, and 120 arrested.

One was shot to death and three were wounded when police fired into demonstrators at Zywiec, who attempted to attack the local administration.

Some 20,000 men struck at Lodz. A Socialist newspaper was suppressed and several radicals rounded up here. Public meetings were banned.

FRENCH FRUIT EDICT LABELED 'EMBARGO'

(Associated Press.)

An assertion by an Agriculture Department official yesterday that France's fruit regulations amounted "virtually to an embargo," was countered at the Commerce Department with the prediction that a satisfactory arrangement would be worked out by that country and the United States.

In regulations governing fruit imports, the French Ministry of Agriculture last night stipulated "A certificate of inspection delivered by the competent authorities of the country of origin guaranteeing absolutely that the fruit does not carry San Jose scale."

Apples, exported to France in quantities worth millions of dollars, are one of the principal commodities affected.

E. R. Sasscer, foreign quarantines division chief at the Agriculture Department, said it would be "practically impossible to guarantee" freedom of the shipments from the scale and that such a requirement amounted "virtually to an embargo." Scasscer said the view he expressed was personal rather than official, "but it is obvious he could not inspect every apple and that would be necessary for us to issue a guarantee."

The Commerce Department was inclined to minimize the stringency of the regulation. Henry Chalmers, foreign tariffs chief, said he did not believe it would be an "insuperable barrier" and predicted a satisfactory arrangement would be worked out by the Washington and Paris agriculture departments.

At the Agricultural Department it was said a meeting of several bureau chiefs which Secretary Hyde might attend would probably be necessary before an official announcement could be made regarding the department's part in carrying out the French requirements.

Darrow Off to Hawaii To Aid Accused Slayers

Chicago, March 16 (U.P.).—Clarence Darrow left for Hawaii tonight to become chief defense counsel in another of the famous murder trials which have brought him world-wide renown.

He will lead the defense of Mrs Granville Fortescue, Washington society leader; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two United States sailors. They are charged with slaying a native who they accused of attacking Lieut. Massie's wife. Mr Darrow said he was attracted to the Hawaiian case because of the climate, a "suitable fee" and because he believes the defendants are not guilty.

Mexican Mine Walkout Requires Federal Guard

Mexico City, March 16 (A.P.).—Federal guards have been thrown about the property of the Fresnillo Corporation silver mines at Fresnillo, Zacatecas, in the wake of a strike by 3,000 workers. The walkout came as a result of an attempt by the company to readjust personnel and reduce salaries. The mines are controlled by English capital.

The federal troops are preserving order and preventing sabotage while Americans and English employes are manning the pumps to keep the mines clear.

MELLON SLATED TO RENEW DEBT TALK IN LONDON

Reparations Work to Be First on Program of New Ambassador.

FINAL AGREEMENT ON ISSUE HOPED FOR

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon will reopen negotiations on the debt situation, particularly with regard to the British debt to the United States, as soon as he has presented his letters of credence to King George, it became known here yesterday. The former Secretary of the Treasury will leave for Pittsburgh today to wind up some details of his business and then will sail for London the end of the month.

The next few months will see what is hoped to be the final and definite adjustment of the decade-old debt question. The postponed Lausanne Conference will meet in June. France, England and Germany will sit around another council table in a final effort to determine just how much Germany will pay the former allies. The reelection of President von Hindenburg as a foregone conclusion will tend to create an atmosphere of "sweet reasonableness" instead of the hitherto uncompromising chauvinism that has prevailed.

In the entire history of the debt question the former Secretary of the Treasury has been most intimately connected. Ever since he entered his first Cabinet, Ambassador Mellon has successively treated with the British, the French and the Italian governments in the funding of their wartime borrowings from this country. He is therefore in a privileged position to advise on the best possible method of solution.

Attended Moratorium Session.

Last summer while he was Secretary of the Treasury he was requested by President Hoover to attend the conferences of governmental chiefs in London which decided on the application of the Hoover moratorium.

The Hoover moratorium expires next June. While the present temper of Congress very definitely indicates a positive refusal to an extension of the debt holiday, some form of financial adjustment will be necessary. Several European nations, fortunately not the most important debtor nations of the United States, have shown alarming signs of financial insolvency. Hungary and Austria are virtually in a state of financial default. Bulgaria, one of the former German allies, only raised herself yesterday from impending collapse by an all-night session of the cabinet which endeavored to find ways and means of postponing payment of the small sum of $266,000 in national interest charges.

For the month of February Germany's favorable balance of trade amounted to $20,000,000 and the fixed charges on her indebtedness amounted to $40,000,000. The British pound is still vacillating below par and paradoxically enough its recent rise was deplored, not applauded, by British financial authorities.

Sympathetic to Britain.

The new American Ambassador to Great Britain is very sympathetic to the financial straits of the British. Mr. Mellon believes Great Britain is under a very great hardship in being forced to pay its war time and post-war obligations in a depreciated currency. Last December while he was still Secretary of the Treasury, he declared:

"Take the case of Great Britain, our best customer, which even in the depression year 1930 took $678,000,000

BARRETT LOBBYIST, WILBUR'S CHARGE

(Associated Press.)

Charles S. Barrett, former president of the Farmers Union, yesterday was accused by Secretary Wilbur of lobbying against the Interior Department appropriation bill in the Senate to influence the War Relief Commission.

Wilbur spoke in a letter put into the Congressional Record by Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah. It was an answer to an article by Barrett urging abolition of the department, which was put into the record Tuesday by Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

Starting with the remark, "an effort is being made by a lobby conducted by Charles S. Barrett" against the Interior bill, Wilbur's letter asserted it was "to influence the Administration and quasi-judicial functions of the War Relief Commission."

It was the second time in a week the Secretary had answered critics with the declaration they were lobbyists. The first was a reply to an attack in the Senate upon the Indian Bureau, which he said was supplied fuel by John Collier, secretary of the American Indian Defense Association.

Claim Involving $622,000.

About a week ago, Wilbur's letter continued, as his first contact with the department for years, Barrett "injected himself into the adjudication of a war minerals relief claim involving $622,000, filed by the Chestatee Pyrites & Chemical Corporation (of Atlanta), now before the department."

Barrett, Wilbur said, asked on March 10 about the status of the claim and demanded "payment of the $622,000 that afternoon." He left the Department after being referred to an assistant secretary, Wilbur said.

Later Barrett called an employe in the Secretary's office, Wilbur said, threatened to block the Department's appropriation bill and said "Skullduggery existed in it, and that everybody knew we could not stand the light of day."

Barrett From Georgia.

This, Wilbur termed "threats to unduly influence the adjudication of this case."

Barrett, who is from Georgia, said in his article "A distinct service to the country will be rendered by abolishing the department."

Barrett, whose home is in Union City, Ga., said he had headed the farm organization for about 25 years. Upon being shown Wilbur's letter, he declined to comment, asserting he probably would answer today.

In his article, Barrett said, "A distinct service to the country will be rendered by abolishing this Department," adding:

"Frankly, I shudder to think of the iniquities growing out of the Interior Department."

Elizabeth Asher To Wed in Boston

Washington Girl Will Be Bride of New Yorker at Harvard.

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, Mass., March 16.—Peyton Leshure Hinkle, 24, a student, who gave his address as 1819 Broadway, New York, and Miss Elizabeth Asher, 20, also a student, whose home is at 2501 Upton street, Washington, D. C., appeared together at City Hall here and filed marriage intentions.

Hinkle is the son of Eugene E. and Emily MacFarlane Hinkle, according to data contained in the intentions, and Miss Asher is the daughter of Clyde B. and Lois Strickler Asher. According to the New York Social Register, the Hinkles make their home at Southport, Conn. Peyton Hinkle's address is given as 41 Adams House, Cambridge. Another member of the family, Eugene, Harvard, '23, is at the American Embassy at Istanbul, and William M., Yale, '27, is in Berlin. Peyton L., according to the Harvard catalogue, is a senior, and lives in Randolph Hall of Adams House.

Miss Asher is the daughter of Clyde B. Asher, a prominent civil engineer, who maintains offices in this city. She is a popular member of Washington's younger set and a student at Radcliffe College.

More Sleep Anticipated In Extra-Less Annapolis

By JOHN J. DALY

OLD Annapolis town, through action of its City Council, has run the newsies off the street—the boys who shatter the silence of the night with their raucous cries of "Wuxtra!"

Any old hour, but preferably at midnight, when all the good folks are in bed, the boys with the barytone voices like to get out on the streets and sing those sad songs, "Wuxtra, Wuxtra!"

Nights filled with hideous cries, yells, pandemonium—no wonder the peacably inclined citizens of a peaceful old town complain. So, the next "Extra" in Annapolis, on the Severn, will be published under police supervision.

* * * *

THE time had come:
Just as the presses stopped their run,
A youth stepped up and grabbed a bundle of the papers, hot with news,
And started wearing out his shoes,
Shouting "Wuxtra!"
Papers tucked beneath his arm,
Fleeing, as it were, from harm,
Into the midnight air he dashed
And shouted out, quite unabashed:
Wuxtra, Wuxtra!
He raced like fury through the town,
Awakened sleepers, knocked 'em down,
And sent them flying to their beds,
Frightened, burying of their heads,
From hearing "Wuxtra."
It sounded in the distance, dim,
As if the gods tormented him,
The lad who ran far down the street
Thrusting in each face he'd meet,
Wuxtra, Wuxtra.
Old ladies fainted, feared the worst,
And prayed for all the world accurst,
Down on their knees, the while a boy
Created bedlam, as in joy
He thundered "Wuxtra!"

* * * *

THE lights went up as heads went down
And consternation gripped the town
While fathers, mothers, old and young
Were shocked to hear the words he flung:
Wuxtra, Wuxtra.
It chilled the blood, and shocked the mind,
And people, reading, near went blind
To find out what 'twas all about,
Such front page news that raised the shout,
Wuxtra, Wuxtra!
And then, alas, though sad to tell,
The boy from sheer exhaustion fell;
But in his aching hand he kept
An unsold paper, torn, yclept,
Wuxtra, Wuxtra.
The firemen, and policemen too,
Who knelt beside him, hid from view
The tell-tale headlines that they read;
For there was nothing quite that said,
Wuxtra, Wuxtra.
The only startling piece of news
That readers found, outside of views, was this: "Tomorrow warm, and fair"—
And that's what made the boy declare,
"Wuxtra, Wuxtra!"

MOB INVADES STATE HOUSE DECRYING TAX

Mississippi Crowd Calls for Governor in Protest on Proposed Sales Levy.

Jackson, Miss., March 16 (A.P.).—An all day demonstration here against the administration's proposed 3 per cent retail sales tax was climaxed this afternoon with a march on the State Capitol, where protesters sought to force an entrance into Gov. Sennett Conner's office.

Friends of the governor, who filled the antechamber of the executive offices, informed the crowd that the governor was at a downtown hotel.

Representative Sam Lumpkin, of Tupelo, who was carrying a walking stick, spoke sharply to the group pressing near the door with a warning not to attempt a forced entrance, and an unidentified man in the crowd drew a pistol.

The man was hustled away after Miss Lena Brock, secretary to the governor, who refused to move from the door during the demonstration, screamed "don't do that."

The crowd of demonstrators, who had attended a downtown mass meeting where resolutions condemning the sales tax were adopted, milled about the corridors outside the executive offices with cries of "We want Mike" (the governor's nickname), for an hour. Then they dispersed after placing placards against the sales tax in the Senate chamber and on the State house grounds.

150,946 HOMES SOON TO GET FREE FLOUR

(Associated Press.)

Free flour, milled from huge stores of Government wheat, soon will be in the homes of more than 150,000 needy families.

Acting swiftly, the Red Cross has approved applications for 113,709 barrels of flour, which will be distributed among the unfortunate as quickly as milling and transportation are arranged.

These applications came from 121 Red Cross chapters in more than 22 States. Officials here estimate this flour will aid 150,946 destitute families.

Congress donated 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat for this relief work. The day after he signed the bill, President Hoover approved the release of the first five million bushels.

It is estimated that 523,663 bushels will be required to make 113,709 barrels of flour. Red Cross headquarters here has forwarded the approved applications to its temporary office in Chicago, which will place all orders for milling the wheat or crushing it for live stock feed.

A large portion of the wheat supplies will be sent into Western drought States to feed live stock until springtime comes. Thus far orders have been placed in Nebraska and South Dakota for 730,000 bushels.

In addition application also has been made for 22,450 barrels of flour to feed needy farmers in the Northwest drought area. Millers will be paid in wheat for grinding the cereal.

POLICE IN LINDBERGH CASE ADMIT THEY ARE BAFFLED

they have not reported results as yet to this office. There is a great deal of investigating to be done on the story and we do not anticipate any report for a day or so."

The Lightfoots said they reported their suspicions to police the day after the kidnaping. They said the butler and maid asked for the use of the family car, a green sedan, about 7:30 p. m., on March 1, the night of the kidnaping, and came back about 9:30 p. m., after having driven 60 miles, which is approximately the distance to the Lindbergh home and back. Before the couple left, the Lightfoots said, they borrowed a flashlight.

Chisel Also Disappears.

The next day the Lightfoots went to New York. When they returned, they said, the butler asked if he could see the New York newspapers, a request he had never made before.

Half an hour later, Mrs. Lightfoot said, he told her he had received word his mother was dying in Germany and that he and his wife had to leave at once.

After they had left it was discovered that a chisel and some crating had disappeared from the estate. Later police reported a chisel had been found under the window of the Lindbergh baby's nursery. The Lightfoots also said they discovered an Army blanket in the garage rolled in a bundle and covered with mud.

The following Monday Mrs. Lightfoot received a telephone call from a man who said he was the butler, but whose accent, she explained, did not sound like the butler's. The man said he had received later word about his mother and asked if he could have his job back. He was informed the place had been filled.

"Pete the Barber" Sought.

The Lightfoots also recalled that while working for them the butler had built an extension ladder. The missing wood was North Carolina white pine, the same material of which the kidnapers' ladder was built.

The name, "Pete the Barber," cropped up again when State police received an anonymous message that a man known by that appellation was on his way to Albany, N. Y., with the Lindbergh boy. The information was forwarded to New York State police, who reported back the man had not entered Albany and that no one by that name was known there.

Early in the hunt, police surrounded a house in Albany on a tip the baby was held there by "Pete the Barber."

A New York police officer found the following note in the vestibule of an uptown house:

"Sorry, Mr. Lindbergh, your child is out of the city. We won't be able to deliver the child until tomorrow nite at 11 p. m."

Several house numbers followed and on the reverse side were the words:

"We want the money if it's o. k. to you."

An investigation at the addresses given was begun.

Nerve Specialist Called By Lindberghs, Report

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The Evening Post says a nerve specialist, Dr. Alfred Ballis, of Trenton, N. J., was summoned to the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J., today. Authorities working on an investigation of the kidnaping case have established a policy of not answering questions about the health or personal affairs of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, and they declined to discuss the reported call.

The Post said the assumption was that Mrs. Lindbergh, who is again to be a mother, was suffering under the continuing strain of anxiety and sleeplessness.

Kidnapers Menace Small Children of Culbertsons

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The New York American says that the two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson, bridge experts, have been threatened with kidnaping and that the parents have surrounded them with unusual precautions.

Warning letters have been received over a period of two months, the paper says, and Mr. Culbertson cut short a hospital treatment in order to guard Fifi, 3, and Bruce, 2. He is said to have provided their nurse with a police whistle and to have moved into a room adjoining that of the children.

Brown May Take Place Of Maschke in G.O.P.

(Associated Press.)

A belief prevails in Republican circles here that Maurice Maschke will not seek reelection in June as national committeeman from Ohio, but will give way to Walter Brown, Postmaster General.

Chairman Fess denied yesterday that Maschke has resigned.

39 GOVERNORS DENY STARVATION EXISTS

(Associated Press.)

Telegrams from 40 governors asserting—with a single exception—that they knew of no starvation in their States were exhibited in the Senate yesterday by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, in opposing the Democratic road construction relief bill.

From Pennsylvania's Governor, Gifford Pinchot, came the lone affirmative reply to Senator Bingham's inquiry as to whether people are actually starving.

"We know starvation is widespread, but no one has enumerated the starving," said Gov. Pinchot, in a fiery message assailing "standpat Democrats and Republicans" for "refusal to give relief to suffering people."

Question Is Resented.

The replies of some of the governors—notably Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland—not only denied most emphatically that any of their people were starving, but indicated resentment that such a question should even be asked.

Two governors estimated unemployment in their States at 1,000,000 or more. They were Pinchot and Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois.

On the basis of the replies received Senator Bingham estimated the total number of jobless in the Nation at 6,000,000. Arguing against the $132,000,000 emergency highway construction bill passed by the Democratic House, he said the number of unemployed had been greatly exaggerated in the Senate by some of his colleagues, who placed the total at 10,000,000.

Taking issue with him, Senator Bratton (Democrat), of New Mexico, said "despite the figures given by the senator from Connecticut * * * I reaffirm the belief that there are 10,000,000 out of employment and it does present a very serious problem to the thinking people of the country."

Basis of Distribution.

The highway construction bill was not up for consideration yesterday and no action was taken on it. Senator Bingham advocated amending it to provide for distribution of the funds on the basis of population rather than of area and highway needs. He said he would vote against the bill even if his proposal were adopted.

He contended it is too great an expense to undertake at a time of a heavy Treasury deficit and argued that in its present form a relatively small share of the fund would go to the industrial States which have the largest number of unemployed.

Under the bill, he said, Nevada's unemployed would get 124 times as much per capita as those of Illinois. Enactment of the road bill was urged specifically in the telegrams received by Senator Bingham from the governors of Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Virginia and Nebraska.

No replies were received from Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Washington or New Jersey, while New York, Alabama and others reported accurate statistics were not available.

Hoover Sees Advisers On Reconstruction Plan

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover conferred late yesterday with his two principal financial advisers, Secretary Mills and Gov. Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board, upon the activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Mr. Meyer took with him to the White House George Roberts, a member of the legal staff of the finance corporation. Although reticent as to the subject of their conference, Mr. Meyer said it had touched not only upon reconstruction activities, but also the work along this line of the Federal Reserve Board.

DAY IN CONGRESS

MARCH 16, 1932.

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5 p. m. until noon Thursday.

Considered Interior appropriation bill.

Foreign relations committee decided to call Secretary Stimson next week to give his views on the world court.

Mineral rights should go with surface rights of public lands transferred to the States, Western senators insisted as hearings continued before lands committee.

Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, denied he was holding up confirmation of Judge Wilkerson after hearing appeals for his confirmation as an answer to gangdom.

Senator Schall (Republican), of Minnesota, said attacks on the Farm Board were inspired by the private grain trade.

Senator Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, proposed abolition of Interior Department and transfer of most of its duties to other agencies.

Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, opposing Democratic road aid bill, said that canvass of governors of the States had failed to disclose starvation because of depression.

Senator Bratton (Democrat), of New Mexico, took issue with Senator Bingham and said at least 10,000,000 persons were out of work.

Foreign relations committee favorably reported nomination of Charles H. Sherrill, of New York, to be Ambassador to Turkey.

Banking subcommittee agreed on terms of the Glass banking revision measure.

SENATE TO RECEIVE BANKING BILL TODAY

Glass Measure to Speed Aid for Depositors Approved by Subcommittee.

(Associated Press.)

A Senate banking subcommittee reached an agreement yesterday on the terms of the Glass banking revision measure, including provision for speeding payments to depositors of closed banks.

The measure will be formally introduced today by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, on behalf of the subcommittee and made public then. Some modifications in the original bill proposed by the Virginian were agreed to.

Senators Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, and Townsend (Republican), Delaware, members of the subcommittee, conferred yesterday with President Hoover. General administration support for the legislation was predicted.

The bill proposed to encourage branch banking but to curb chain banking. It also is aimed at restricting the use of Federal Reserve facilities in speculation. Senator Walcott said that as soon as the bill is out of the way the banking committee will begin a determined inquiry into stock market operations.

The Steagall bill, opening Federal Reserve discount privileges to notes indorsed by intermediate credit banks and permitting these banks to pledge such notes by their debentures, was approved yesterday by the House banking committee.

The notes so discounted may have maturities up to nine months. To further guarantee debentures, funds of the various intermediate banks are made transferable in the system.

The committee also approved another measure by Representative Steagall authorizing national banking associations to give the security necessary to receive deposits of public funds of States, counties and municipalities.

After these actions, the committee divided into two subcommittees and opened hearings on President Hoover's home loan bank bill and the Goldsborough measure to stabilize the dollar.

Representative Luce (Republican), Massachusetts, said the home loan bill would fill an imediate need. Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, urged stabilization of the dollar to restore commodity price levels.

WORLD COURT PLAN FURTHER ENTANGLED

(Associated Press.)

The revised plan for American adherence to the World Court was buried deeper in the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday under a confusion of views on its interpretation.

The committee is at odds on whether the court under the new protocol will have advisory jurisdiction over the United States—an authority which was banned by the Senate in voting adherence six years ago.

After another round of argument, the committee called Secretary Stimson to give his ideas on the new formula for American adherence. He will be heard next week, probably in open session.

Friends of the court themselves are divided on the controversy and so ensnarled has the whole issue become that leaders are expressing much doubt that the Senate will vote on the issue this session.

Resolution by Pittman.

Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, proposed at yesterday's committee meeting a resolution stipulating the President shall ascertain through diplomatic correspondence before adherence is voted upon if the other nations agree that the revised protocol protects America's ban on advisory opinions.

This proposal and another by Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, to defer consideration until the conclusion of the Geneva arms conference, did not come to a vote in the committee yesterday.

Elihu Root, statesman and jurist, headed an international commission three years ago which revised the court rules in an effort to meet the disagreement between the United States and the other powers over the right of this country to deny advisory opinions relating to this government.

Mr. Root was quoted in the committee yesterday of the belief that the revised rules amply protected America's views in that regard.

Adherence Stipulations.

Senator Pittman said Secretary Stimson "conveys the opinion that the court would have jurisdiction under said protocol to render advisory opinions touching any question in which the United States has an interest which has not reached the point of a dispute between the United States and some other government, without the consent of the United States, and even against its expressed refusal to agree thereto, and that the only remedy available to our Government in such a case would be withdrawal from adherence to the court."

Senator Pittman's proposal provided: "That the President is respectfully requested to ascertain through diplomatic notes or otherwise, if the signatories to the protocol agree that the protocol does not impair or affect the fifth reservation and the court can not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

French Explorer Dies at Hongkong

Georges Marie Haardt Is Eulogized Here by Geographic Society.

(Associated Press.)

Officials of the National Geographic Society expressed regret yesterday at the death of Georges Marie Haardt, leader of the Citroen-Haardt trans-Asia expedition in which the society participated.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the society, said the French explorer had accomplished three major geographic achievements.

"He was the first to cross the great Sahara Desert by motor," he said. "He was the first to traverse the length of Africa by motor. He has just completed his historic crossing of Asia by specially built tractor cars, visiting places that have not been studied since the days of Marco Polo, and entering Himalaya Mountain areas that never before saw a wheeled vehicle.

"I feel a deep personal loss at the death of a great leader, an able explorer and a loyal friend."

The expedition moved in two units from Beyrouth, Syria, to a rendezvous at Sinkiang in Chinese Turkestan, whence it moved to Peiping and Tientsin. It sailed from the latter place February 23 for Hanoi, French Indo-China.

LLOYD GEORGE BACK IN POLITICAL ARENA

Labels MacDonald Regime "Sham" and Asks Support for Own Drive.

London, March 16 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George reentered the political arena today with a challenge to progressive men of all parties to rally round him and save Great Britain from what he declared would be four years of reactionary rule by the "sham" national government.

The 69-year-old Liberal leader, who has been recuperating from an operation, signaled his return to activity by a slashing attack against the MacDonald government in a speech before the Junior Liberal Club.

"The national government is a sham—a naked sham, or, if not a naked sham, it wears but the meanest of loincloths," he declared.

The crowd jamming the Junior Liberal Club cheered lustily and there were cries of "Lead us! Lead us!"

Mr. Lloyd George taunted and flayed his party colleagues—Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir John Simon, Walter Runciman and Sir Donald MacLean, all cabinet members—on the score that they had betrayed the principles of free trade, electoral reform and national reconstruction upon which the Liberal party platform was based when he was stricken with illness last summer.

He made it clear that he intends to exert the utmost pressure on the MacDonald government, instead of allowing it to have a free legislative hand such as it has enjoyed.

MINISTER MICHAEL MacWHITE.

MICHAEL MacWHITE first came to the United States with a battle-scarred squad of the French Foreign Legion. He accompanied Gen. (Papa) Joffre on one of the French propaganda missions to the United States before American entry into the war. Every one thought this gallant sergeant was French, and even members of his squad took him for a Breton until St. Patrick's Day. Under the medals and decorations which regulations forced him to wear he had tucked a shamrock, and a keen-eyed "sob sister" picked it out.

The Minister from the Irish Free State belongs to the gorgeous and dangerous age of the Medici, when the men of action were all diplomats and all the diplomats had first to be heroes. He was sent to London by his parents to learn banking, and went to Constantinople on one of his holidays. He came back in 1914 and was routed out of his train at Lyons, while en route to Paris, one fine August morning to find that war had been declared. So he signed up in the French Foreign Legion before it had been glorified and when it still was known as the toughest outfit in the entire French army. After the war he came out a captain.

He was one of the Irish delegation that met Lloyd George in Paris to discuss the terms of the armistice in 1920 between the British and the Irish. He is essentially a patriot, and in the storms of partisan illfeeling he has always kept his interest national and not political.

Three days before St. Patrick's Day in 1929 he presented his letter of credence to President Hoover. He likes America and the feeling is infinitely reciprocal. H. J. T. H.

Many of those who attended the gathering in the caucus room, he said, represented others in their State delegations.

"Any statement about the meeting," Mr. Rankin said, "will have to come from Representative Doughton. But the number of persons attending the meeting tonight represented a much larger vote. I believe that two-thirds of the Democrats will vote against the sales tax. Many of those attending represented their State delegations."

Representative Rankin said that the reason the House leaders had moved to close general debate was because they had found the longer it ran the more votes they lost for the sales tax. But it is probable that in making that statement Mr. Rankin was expressing a hope rather than a true estimation of the situation. The test will come after the House ends general debate—which has been extended to give all the boys a chance to set themselves right on the record—and begins tomorrow consideration of the ways and means committee tax bill for amendments.

The meeting of the Democratic opponents of the sales tax last night was the second gathering of the opposition in the day. Republicans and some Democrats gathered earlier in the day under the leadership of Representative LaGuardia. At the conclusion of that meeting Mr. LaGuardia issued the following summarizing statement:

"The allied Progressives held their final meeting on the sales tax provision of the revenue bill. The group again declared its unalterable and uncompromising opposition to the tax. The group is thoroughly organized and fully understands the sugar-coated amendments that will be offered on the floor, and will act accordingly. From now on our meetings will be devoted to substitute taxes suggested. Some believe that after the sales tax is stricken from the bill the ways and means committee should take it back for hearings when we will appear and suggest substitutes. I believe a majority of those present at the meeting believe in levying taxes to balance the budget."

Substitute Is Lacking.

The defect in the program of the opposition is the lack of a substitute for the manufacturers' sales tax proposed by the ways and means committee.

Opponents of the tax, in general, already have committed themselves to the principle of balancing the Federal budget immediately. Those voices which have said perhaps the balancing could be spread out a little bit have been lost in the din of the battle.

Indicative of the doubt and uncertainty surrounding the fight over the sales tax—certainly the most uproarious and hectic fight the House has seen in many a moon—is that those attending the Doughton-Rankin opposition meetings last night refused to accede to a proposal by Representative Allard H. Gasque (Democrat), of South Carolina, to calling of a Democratic caucus.

Leaders Still Worried.

Despite these indications of the might of leadership, however, Democratic leaders were still worried. They were not certain that Representative Rankin wasn't right when he said that two-thirds of the Democratic membership was opposed to the sales tax provision.

Reasons for their fear might have been found in the results of their first poll, which shocked them. It showed that only 60 Democrats were willing to vote for the sales tax.

The Democrats have more votes now. How many more nobody knows. Some leaders estimate this number and others another number, but out of their distress about the matter the Democratic leaders are finding considerable comfort.

The Democrats are depending on Republican votes to save the sales tax and without Republican votes the tax can not get through the House.

U.S. ARMS PROPOSAL ADOPTED AT GENEVA

American Plan Will Speed Work of Limitation; Session Adjourns.

Geneva, March 16 (U.P.).—The general commission of the Disarmament Conference adjourned for the Easter holiday tonight after adopting an American resolution designed to speed up work toward limiting the world's war machines.

The resolution, proposed by Hugh Gibson, head of the United States delegation, provided that the conference concentrate on questions of principle when it reconvenes, April 11, and that the political and general commissions sit continuously in the mornings and afternoons, with the work of technical committees subordinated.

"This is the only way to give effective reassurance to the public that we are really and actively working on the fundamental problems before the conference," Gibson said.

Report on Strength Sought.

Arthur Henderson, presiding, suggested that the delegations amplify the detailed application of some of the more extreme proposals which have been submitted to the conference, such as abolition of private manufacture of arms and abolition of chemical warfare. A final session of the budgetary limitations committee set up a technical committee and asked the powers to answer questionnaires giving the total amounts of military budgets.

The steering committee of the conference adjourned until April 11, although officially the date of adjournment will be March 19. The naval commission will meet tomorrow.

The clerks and stenographers of the American delegation were far from pleased by the arrangement in effect during the recess. Their expenses are paid at Geneva and they must remain here or pay their own way.

Subject to Recall.

They also were instructed not to travel more than two days from Geneva, as they are subject to recall at any time. Thus they will not be able to visit Paris, although they may make excursions to the various resorts in Switzerland and southern France.

Mary Dingman, of New York, headed a disarmament committee of fourteen, which was sent by the women's international organizations to present a disarmament policy statement to Henderson. The organization includes some 45,000,000 women.

Henderson received the statement in his office. It called for disarmament on the basis of equal rights and security for all nations and made specific proposals for abolition of military, naval and aircraft, prohibition of chemical and bacteriological warfare, destruction of existing stocks of gases and abolition of "aggressive" weapons.

ROOSEVELT'S NORTH DAKOTA VICTORY HAILED BY FRIENDS

the returns that it was not until last night that Roosevelt men here were sufficiently confident of the result to issue statements of exultation.

Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), of Washington, said that North Dakota had "stopped the 'stop Roosevelt' movement with a vengeance."

"Victory is becoming a Roosevelt habit," said Dill, thus paraphrasing a remark that Roosevelt made about Al Smith at Houston.

What interested the Republican Progressives even more than the Roosevelt victory was the tremendous vote. It was a record-breaker, more than twice as large as ever before. It could only mean that thousands of erstwhile Republican voters had gone into the Democratic primary.

Nye Makes Statement.

Noticing this, Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican Progressive, of North Dakota, gave a statement to the Associated Press in which he said that the increased vote indicated "growing displeasure over the failure of the Republican administration to forward any program looking to the restoration of agriculture."

Nye, though a Progressive, was not quite so progressive as to join Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, in campaigning for Al Smith in 1928. He took the stump for Herbert Hoover.

Nye has been gradually edging his way off the reservation, however, and his statement last night was regarded as the prelude to an actual bolt—that is, assuming that the Democrats nominate a so-called progressive, or liberal, and President Hoover is again the Republican nominee.

It was suggested at the Capitol by Republican regulars that perhaps one reason for the big Democratic vote was the fact that President Hoover was not entered in the Republican primary. The answer of the Progressives was that he was afraid to enter the primary, afraid that he might be defeated, or, at least, badly crowded by the two self-starters in the Republican contest—Joseph I. France and "General" Jacob Coxey.

Senator Dill said the North Dakota result showed that Roosevelt would be strong throughout the Northwest. He predicted that if the New Yorker were nominated he would carry every State in that region with the possible exception of Iowa.

Roosevelt's popularity in such States as North Dakota is one thing the more conservative Democratic leaders hold against him.

Hotbed of Dissatisfaction.

From their standpoint, there is something wrong with an Eastern politician who can arouse enthusiasm in an area whence come the men Senator George Moses calls the "sons of the wild jackass."

North Dakota right now is a hotbed of dissatisfaction and of what the conservatives would call radicalism.

That is why Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray went into the State, and that is why he was so sure he would win. He personally stumped the State. He talked a language the North Dakotans could understand. He promised to rescue them from the present state of affairs, and, with their cheers ringing in his ears, he went back to Oklahoma and predicted that he would win over Roosevelt, 2 to 1.

At one time, according to reports received by Roosevelt's friends at the Capitol, Murray appeared to be a certain winner.

Then the regular Democratic organization, abetted by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, who was rushed out to North Dakota to save the situation, began using the biggest argument in the Roosevelt repertoire.

Roosevelt could win the nomination, they told the voters; Murray could not. Why, they asked, waste votes? Was Murray a liberal? Well, so was Roosevelt. There was his position on water power to prove it.

Expect Further Victories.

It was this argument—the argument that Roosevelt could win—that brought him the votes in North Dakota, so his friends here say, and they expect it to be just as effective elsewhere.

Nobody in this region has ever believed that Gov. Murray was a dangerous contender for the nomination. Had he won in North Dakota, however, it would have helped him to pick up delegates elsewhere. Now it is difficult to see where he can make any headway.

If North Dakota's ten delegate votes be added to those Roosevelt already has (there is nothing mandatory about the North Dakota primary law), the New Yorker now has 58 convention votes, the other 48 having been won in Washington, New Hampshire and Minnesota. Before the end of this month he expects to pick up 24 more in Georgia and 26 in Iowa, giving him a total of 112.

Massachusetts Vote Soon.

Gov. Murray has 22, these having been pledged to him at a Democratic convention in his own State of Oklahoma.

The most exciting battle confronting Gov. Roosevelt will take place in Massachusetts, April 26, when the New York executive again will enter the lists with Al Smith, regarded as the pivot man in the movement to "stop" him.

The prize in Massachusetts is 36 delegate votes, and so strong is this Smith sentiment there that Roosevelt will claim a victory if he gets as many as a dozen of them.

The campaign opened in the Bay State last night with Mayor Curley of Boston, the Roosevelt leader, using the same argument that was used in New Hampshire, namely, that Roosevelt ought to be chosen because Roosevelt can win. "Why," he asked, "join the wreckers of the Democratic party in the movement to deadlock the convention and prevent the nomination of Roosevelt?"

33,660 ROOSEVELT BALLOTS COUNTED

Returns available were incomplete tabulations from almost every county in the State.

Roosevelt consistently kept in the lead in a majority of the counties reporting incomplete returns, and with his margin of a nearly two to one vote appeared to have safely outdistanced his opponent. Murray forces, however, look to a heavy rural vote for him, but although the rural returns came in in lesser number than from urban centers, there were sufficient reports on rural votes to indicate Murray had waged a losing battle.

Senator Walcott Fails Fair Luncheon Guests

(Associated Press.)

Senate colleagues of Senator Walcott, of Connecticut, are convinced of his absent-mindedness after a recent experience, when the senator forgot a luncheon engagement with Ethel Barrymore and Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Miss Barrymore and Mrs. Longworth and several other guests came to the Capitol at the invitation of Senator Walcott for luncheon. After waiting for Senator Walcott for a while the party, at the suggestion of Mrs. Longworth, proceeded to the dining room and ordered.

Leaving the Capitol, they met the senator coming to the Senate chamber. He greeted the group heartily and expressed surprise and pleasure at meeting them.

Mrs. Longworth informed the astounded senator why they were there, assuring him he need not worry, for she had signed the luncheon check in his name.

OLD EMPLOYES FILE BY EASTMAN'S BIER

Rochester, N. Y., March 16 (A.P.).—Gray-haired friends of George Eastman, his veteran employes, filed slowly past his rose-flanked bier at the Eastman mansion here today, while the world joined them in tribute to the renowned inventor and philanthropist.

The privilege of viewing the body today was for men with 30 years or more of service in the Eastman Kodak Co., the $200,000,000 corporation Eastman organized after beginning his business career as an office boy at $3 a week.

Mr. Eastman died by his own hand Monday after giving away five-sixths of what would have been his $120,000,000 fortune.

More than $6,000,000 of Eastman's fortune went outright to his employes eight years ago. He dispensed other millions for schools, colleges and dental clinics for their children.

The body will lie in state until 3:30 o'clock tomorrow, when it will be taken to St. Paul's Episcopal Church for a public funeral service.

Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President of the United States and Ambassador to the Court of St. James, was announced today as one of the honorary pallbearers tomorrow. Another will be Gen. John J. Pershing.

TOCORNAL CHOSEN FOR CLAIMS POST

Is Selected to Preside Over Meeting of Commission Here on April 1.

(Associated Press.)

Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal, Chilean Ambassador to the United States, has been agreed upon by the Governments of the United States and Panama as the neutral presiding commissioner of the general claims commission to be established under the claims convention between the two governments signed July 28, 1926.

Joseph R. Baker, assistant legal adviser, Department of State, has been designated by the United States as American commissioner, and Senor Don Horatio Alfaro, Minister of Panama to the United States, has been designated by Panama as its commissioner.

The commission, which is to meet here on April 1, has jurisdiction over the unsettled claims of citizens of each country against the other arising since the independence of Panama was declared November 3, 1903.

The so-called Colon fire claims of 1885 and claims falling under article 6 of the Panama Canal treaty are not to be passed upon by this commission.

Debayle Denies Moncada Questioned Canal Treaty

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Louis M. Debayle, Nicaraguan charge d'affaires, yesterday denied that President Moncada in a recent public statement had questioned the constitutionality of the Bryan-Chamorro treaty by which the United States obtained exclusive rights to construct a Nicaraguan canal.

Dr. Debayle quoted from the text of President Moncada's declaration received yesterday at the legation in which he said, in part:

"I must and do, maintain the validity of the Bryan-Chamorro treaty which, on the other hand, constitutes a vital tie between the United States of America and Nicaragua."

In another part the president was quoted as saying:

"The Bryan-Chamorro treaty can not be submitted to new discussions of constituents or national congresses, to courts of arbitration or to the League of Nations. It is obligatory for Nicaragua and for the United States."

LEAGUE INQUISITORS JOIN PEACE EFFORTS

areas, the uprising in the north, along the Soviet Russian frontier, continued to gain momentum. Chinese "rebels" were reported active in Hailin, Tahelho, and Manchouli.

The city of Hailin, at the end of the railroad line extending north from Harbin, was under a state of siege after it was reported that anti-Japanese forces were advancing to attack. The local authorities made extensive preparations to resist the advancing column.

The rebels continued to hold control of the Tahelho district, on the northern border, opposite the Soviet city of Blagovestchensk, and at Manchouli the situation appeared to be more serious than before.

Rebels Are Reinforced.

Sixty-six Japanese women and children arrived in Harbin from Manchouli, but 250 Japanese men remained at the city, which is on the western border. The rebels were reported to have been reinforced and well equipped with machine guns and mortars. They continue to threaten the 12,000 inhabitants of the city, where all business has been suspended.

Japanese authorities ridiculed reports that the Soviet air force on the frontier had brought down a Japanese plane which flew over Russian territory. They said there were no Japanese planes on the frontier.

Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, the pro-Japanese governor of Heilungkiang province, was understood to be organizing an expedition to suppress the rebellions at Manchouli and Tahelho.

Views of Japanese On Province Given

Dr. T. H. Healy Declares Manchuria Matter of Life or Death.

The Japanese-Manchurian situation, particularly from the Japanese viewpoint, was discussed today by Dr. Thomas H. Healy, assistant dean and professor of international law at the Georgetown Foreign Service School, at the luncheon-meeting of the Washington Optimist club in the Hamilton Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The Japanese, Dr. Healy said, look upon Manchuria as a matter of life and death and feel that China has no legal right to it. His view was that Japan, which has shown the greatest progress of any nation in the world during the comparatively short time it has been opened up, feels it has and should exert an interest in the country of contention.

Dr. Healy pointed out that twice Japan, despite its being outnumbered many times in manpower, was willing to go to war over Manchuria and each time was victorious. The first conflict was with China in 1894 and the second with Russia, and, it appears it would be willing again to fight.

6 DEAD, SCORES ILL AS GAS FILLS HOMES

Mysterious Fumes Leakage in Pennsylvania and New York Investigated.

Newburgh, N. Y., March 16 (A.P.).—A family of six persons was killed by gas as they slept in their home at New Windsor, N. Y., near here, early today.

In another house, across the street, a father and his three sons were overcome by the fumes and were reported in serious condition. The source of the escaping gas was not immediately determined. All mains in New Windsor were shut off when the tragedy became known.

The dead are:

John Lucas, also known as John Lukaszewski, 60, the father; Mrs. Helen Lucas, 58; Mrs. Mary Sitkiewicz, 33, a daughter; Jeannette Lucas, 21, a daughter; Lola Sitkiewicz, 11, granddaughter, and Irene Sitkiewicz, 9, another granddaughter.

Four Near Death.

The four others might also have died had not Mrs. Charles Weygant, mother of the boys, returned home early today, after an all-night vigil with her sick mother, to find her own home filled with gas and her husband and sons unconscious. She immediately threw open all windows in the house. The husband, Charles Weygant, and the sons, Andrew, Harry and Arthur, were revived by firemen.

Noticing that gas fumes lingered about the neighborhood, Mrs. Weygant wondered if gas could be in other homes nearby, and observed that windows in the Lucas house were closed. Leaving her own home, she ran across the street, succeeded in entering the Lucas house and found all members of the family in bed. Her efforts to rouse them failed and physicians who arrived later found them dead.

County Starts Inquiry.

An investigation was started by Orange County authorities and by the gas company. New gas mains were laid in the village last fall.

County authorities asked that George Jones of the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh, Pa., be sent to locate the break they believed had occurred in the main.

Authorities pointed out that gas from a broken main would not penetrate frozen earth at the surface, but would travel under it, and might have entered the homes by following the usual service pipes.

An investigation showed that all gas fixtures in the two houses were properly closed.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 16 (A.P.).—With three children dead and five other persons still in serious condition, investigators continued today their efforts to identify the gas which overcame nine members of the Claus K. Laning family in their home yesterday.

Belief was expressed that marsh gas may have seeped into the house through the basement. All vents in the gas stove were closed.

70 Ill in Wilkes-Barre.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 16 (A.P.).—More than a score of persons were overcome by escaping illuminating gas at Nanticoke today, while at least 50 others were made ill by fumes from a broken gas main that followed water pipes into two dozen dwellings.

Excitement prevailed for more than an hour in the thickly populated section of West Ridge street, when presence of the gas was discovered by early risers. They rushed from house to house arousing sleeping occupants and warning others who had not yet traced the powerful odor that permeated their homes.

Woman's Tonsils Taken During Hypnotic Trance

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—Dr. A. P. Lenzen, of the Cook County Hospital, today reported that he had operated on Miss Ruth Morrison, 29, for removal of her tonsils while she was under a hypnotic trance.

Miss Morrison, who was hypnotized at the hospital yesterday by Dr. Louis Shapiro, said that she felt no pain during the operation.

Realty Man Wins In Alienation Suit

C. W. King, Jr., Cleared in $250,000 Bierly's Balm Case.

Charles W. King, jr., real estate man, yesterday was given a directed verdict by Chief Justice A. A. Wheat in a case in which he had been named defendant in a suit for $250,000. The suit charged that King had alienated the affections of Mrs. Verdie Bierley, the wife of Herman M. Bierley.

In directing the verdict at the request of the defense attorney, George D. Horning, Chief Justice Wheat said that there had been no showing that there had been any alienation, or that Mr. King had been a party to alleged alienation. The case had been on trial two days and at the conclusion of the plaintiff's testimony, Attorney Horning asked that his client receive a directed verdict.

After lengthy arguments from defense and prosecution attorneys, the Chief Justice said that he did not believe a case had been made against King, and the directed verdict was entered.

Columbus U. Wins Over Debate Foes

Defeats John Marshall in an Argument Over Jury System.

Columbus University last night defeated John Marshall College, of Jersey City, N. J., in an intercollegiate debate at the Carlton Hotel.

The affirmative of the subject, "Resolved, That a tribunal of three judges shall replace the present jury system," was upheld by the Columbus team. Judges in the contest were Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey; Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins.

The Columbus team was composed of Vincent A. Sheehy, jr., and Jerry J. O'Connell, while Harold J. Ruvoldt and Patrick A. Kiley represented the Jersey City school.

INDIAN'S ADMISSION IN SLAYING IS BARED

Brother-in-Law of Accused Man Says He Confessed to Killing Girl.

Globe, Ariz., March 16 (A.P.).—Robert Gatewood, Apache brother-in-law of Mac (Golney) Seymour, testified today in the Indian's murder trial that Seymour told him late on the night of July 18 "I killed a white woman."

Seymour is on trial for the slaying of Henrietta Schmerler, Columbia University student of anthropology.

Seymour, Gatewood declared in sputtering Apache through an interpreter, said he had been intimate with the white woman and she had threatened to make trouble, so he killed her.

Gatewood said Seymour washed blood from his hands and told him "If you say anything about this I will do same to you."

The testimony of Gatewood followed evidence offered by the Government in an effort to prove that the body found near Fort Apache in July was that of Miss Schmerler.

William Maupin, special officer, testified he believed a suitcase he found in a canyon on the east fork of the White River belonged to Miss Schmerler and that the body he saw in the ravine was the body of the girl he met as Miss Schmerler.

Jack Perry, Apache, told of seeing Seymour and Gatewood at the cabin of the woman on the afternoon of July 18, the day she was killed.

The Columbia University coed was killed while visiting the Apache Indian reservation to obtain material for a thesis for a master's degree in anthropology. She was found beaten to death not far from the lonely cabin she occupied.

Vacant Fire Station Destroyed by Blaze

Concord, Mass., March 16 (A.P.).—Fire starting in the unoccupied West Concord fire station, today destroyed the station, several pieces of fire apparatus, two nearby business blocks and spread to at least four other structures before being checked.

A church, next door to the fire house, was saved by the prompt arrival of apparatus from surrounding communities.

BIGGEST EXPLOSION IS HEARD FOR MILES

441,000 Pounds of Dynamite Are Set Off by Signal From Annapolis.

Manistique, Mich., March 16 (A.P.).—Shooting of 441,000 pounds of dynamite 8 miles from here late today made a big noise, but gave rather a poor imitation of a natural earthquake. The biggest commercial blast on record was set off at 4:02 p. m. at a quarry of the Inland Lime & Stone Co. It was heard 10 miles away, and caused an earth shock for a mile and a half. In Manistique, however, the "quake" was barely perceptible.

The witnesses nearest the scene were officials of the Inland Co. and photographers who lay under steel railway cars, 300 yards away.

The blast was carefully timed, being set off at a radio signal from the Naval Observatory at Annapolis. The entire 441,000 pounds, divided into some 5,000 charges, went off at once. Seven miles of TNT fuse were used. The careful timing was for the purpose of aiding scientists who desired to record the blast on their earthquake-measuring instruments.

Officials of the Inland Co., a subsidiary of the Inland Steel Co., said it would be several days before it could be determined whether the blast dislodged the desired 1,250,000 tons of limestone, a year's supply.

Georgetown Seismographs Record Dynamite Blast

(United Press.)

Georgetown University seismographs yesterday recorded the explosion in upper Michigan. The repercussions here were extremely slight, Georgetown scientists said, but might prove of value in the future study of the velocity of sound waves.

It will be several days before any reports can be made on the importance or extent of their findings, it was said.

Georgetown seismologists said the record for "picking up" sound waves of this description was established at a laboratory in Oppau, central Europe, several years ago, when a munitions factory 900 kilometers away blew up.

8 Miners Believed Dead in Fire.

Brueh, Czechoslovakia, March 16 (A.P.).—Eight miners employed in the Kohinoor lignite mine near here were believed to have died in a fire at the 1,000 foot level today.

THEATERS PROTEST BOOKING METHODS

Owners' Convention Adopts Resolutions to Correct Trade Conditions.

Marked by a stormy debate over the question of booking short subjects with feature pictures, the closing session yesterday of the Motion Picture Theater Owners convention at the Mayflower, saw a dozen resolutions adopted, all pertaining to subjects which have been before the group for three days.

Probably most important of these resolutions was that authorizing the executive board to negotiate with distributors toward an elimination of the practice of exhibitors being forced to buy short subjects in order to obtain features. If such negotiations fail, the board is then authorized to resort to legal action to bring about its aims.

Other Reforms Sought.

M. A. Lightman, president of the association; Fred S. Meyer, of Wisconsin; Earl Van Hyning, of Kansas; H. Hellman, of Albany; Fred Wehrenberg, of St. Louis; A. G. Johnson, of Connecticut; Walter Vincent, of New York, and Ed. Kuykendahl, of Mississippi, were prominent in the debate on the resolution which was amended twice before adoption.

Other resolutions adopted included one asking refunds to exhibitors where the scale of prices charged has been varied; one asking that activities against poster advertising agencies be discontinued; one declaring the tying up of features with reissues as unfair practice; one expressing a desire for arbitration between distributors and exhibitors; one requesting a reduction in sound equipment and service from one of the larger companies; one opposing distributor employes entering into opposition to established theaters and another expressing a desire for outside arbiters to decide problems of zoning in various districts.

Family Pictures Wanted.

Of interest to the theatergoing public was a resolution expressing the sense of the convention, that producers be asked to prepare more pictures suitable for "family nights." It was made plain that children's pictures were not the only requirement, but rather films with box-office value, yet suitable to the demands of the entire American family. It was pointed out that establishment of "family nights" has in many instances reduced censorship and secured for the films the support of better films councils.

The convention also adopted a resolution of tribute to the late George Eastman as one who had done much for the motion picture industry. Resolutions also were adopted thanking the members of the press for their cooperation and congratulating members of the Washington committee on the success of the convention. A. Julian Brylawski, Harry M. Crandall and Sidney Lust headed this committee.

St. Louis, Kansas City and Pinehurst submitted bids for the 1933 convention, but no action was taken. The place of next year's meeting will be decided by the executive board. Most of the delegates last night had departed for their homes in the 34 States represented at the meeting.

Iowa Bank Thieves Given Life Terms

Four Who Took $106,000 Are Taken to Prison Day After Holdup.

Clinton, Iowa, March 16 (A.P.).—Swiftly moving justice today wrote the closing chapter in Iowa's most spectacular bank robbery of recent years when four men were sentenced to life imprisonment for yesterday's $106,000 robbery of the City National Bank.

The men, Clifford Edwards, 22, of Clinton, and Guy Edward Morris, 19; Earl Jeffries, 19, and Lester Stanley, 28, all of Louisville, Ky., pleaded guilty before Judge A. P. Barker.

"We might as well admit it was a foolish thing to do," said Edwards, after Judge Barker gave them a brief lecture on the futility of crime.

It was their first venture in crime, they said, after making complete confessions.

High Mass in Thousands of Catholic Churches to Mark Reverence for Ireland's Beloved Patron Saint; Lighter Celebrations Are Rule Elsewhere.

"Wearers of the green" will celebrate today the anniversary of St. Patrick, who rid the Emerald Isle of pestilence and won the gratitude of Erin's sons, a heartfelt thanks that is now expressed in every country whose native tongue bears the mark of an Irish accent.

Observances of the holiday will vary throughout the world from the singing of high mass in thousands of Catholic churches, from the solemn dedication in County Down in Ireland of a giant statue of St. Patrick, marking the spot where he first set foot on the country's shores, to lighter celebrations here and elsewhere punctuated chiefly by parades and songs and music and dancing.

At Saul, in County Down, on the mountain of Slieve Willin, 400 feet above the shore where in 432 A. D. Ireland's patron saint landed and commenced his missionary work, sod will be broken for a statue and an altar to mark forever and fervently the spot.

A solemn high mass will be sung here at St. Patrick's Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, at 10 o'clock this morning, with the Ancient Order of Hibernians and ladies' auxiliary sponsoring the service. In the evening the organization will give a banquet in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel. Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, will deliver the principal address.

The New England States Society will hold their annual St. Patrick's Day party and dance tonight at the Willard Hotel. Songs of the Emerald Isle will be presented by performers, and clog dances, as well as the dances of colonial America, will be presented.

The artists who make a weekly appearance on the sacred musical program on Father Francis Hurney's Washington Catholic radio hour from the Immaculate Conception Church, will present a concert at the church auditorium at 8:30 p. m. The mothers' club of St. James' Catholic Church, Thirty-seventh street and Rhode Island avenue, will celebrate the day with a card party.

Beatrice Lillie, famous comedienne, now starring in Bernard Shaw's new play, "Too True to Be Good," will help the National Press Club in its celebration. Lee Morse also will entertain.

"Patrick, Saint and Poet," will be the subject of Henry H. Clement at the Women's City Club at its St. Patrick's Day dinner today. A musical program will also be presented.

A St. Patrick's Day party will be held tonight by the South Carolina State Society in the ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. A number of tables of bridge have been arranged by Mrs. Charles M. Galloway.

Guests will include the South Carolina congressional delegation and officers of the Army and Navy from that State. A program of dancing and entertainment will feature the evening.

A. F. Prescott Rites To Be Tomorrow

Father of Montgomery Attorney Will Be Buried in Rockville Cemetery.

Funeral services for Alexander Fullerton Prescott, father of State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, of Montgomery County, Md., will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the Colonial funeral home in Rockville, Md. Canon Arthur B. Rudd, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Rockville, will officiate. Burial will be in Rockville Union Cemetery.

Mr. Prescott died suddenly, following a heart attack at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Prescott, Chevy Chase, Md., Tuesday night. He was a native of Chicago and was 65 years old.

In addition to State's Attorney Prescott, Mr. Prescott is survived by four daughters, Mrs. E. Cecil Allnut, of Rockville; Mrs. Edmund Jones, Mrs. James Morrison and Mrs. Gordon Daisley, of Washington; two other sons, Alexander E. Prescott, jr., of Edgemoor, and William H. Prescott, and a sister, Mrs. W. Harry Beard, of Rockville.

Frank A. Johansen Dead at Age of 49

Funeral to Be Saturday for Veteran Employe of Railroad.

Frank A. Johansen, a lifelong resident of Washington and for many years chief clerk of the passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died yesterday in Emergency Hospital following a brief illness. He was 49 years old.

Mr. Johansen had been connected with the railroad for more than 25 years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha E. Johansen; a son, Edward B. Johansen, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary C. Poss.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the residence of his brother, Edward H. Johansen, 3310 Cathedral avenue northwest. Following requiem mass at St. Patrick's Church at 10 o'clock, interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Joan Bennett Wed To Markey, Writer

Ceremony in Los Angeles Is Attended by Notables of Screen.

Los Angeles, March 16 (A.P.).—Joan Bennett, film actress, and Gene Markey, screen writer, were married in Los Angeles today, thereby creating for a city accustomed to taking its news of film celebrities' weddings from nearby Arizona or Nevada towns, a chance to see a real dyed-in-the-wool movie marriage.

Press and public alike were invited and the invitation was accepted.

Those who saw Presiding Judge Lewis R. Works, of the District Court of Appeals, perform the ceremony in a flower-decorated room of a fashionable hotel were few, but the invited public that saw the couple leave for an unannounced destination by motor was almost as numerous as at a world premiere starring the bride.

De Valera Hopes Irish Will Break Boundaries

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 16 A.P.).—President Eamon de Valera declared tonight that he hoped to see "the unnatural boundaries between north and south Ireland broken down."

The president expressed this hope in an interview in which he set forth his views on public problems. He asserted that the oath of allegiance to King George would be removed at the next session of the Dail; that no more land annuities would be paid to Great Britain, and that the public safety act would be suspended at the next session of the executive council.

Smith Firm Owes Millions, Is Claim

Receivership Granted for Commonwealth Finance Corporation.

Wilmington, Del., March 16 (A.P.).—Thomas F. Malloy, of Baltimore, Md., and Edwin R. Cochrane, a Wilmington attorney, today were named receivers in chancery court for the dissolved Commonwealth Finance Corporation, of New York.

The receivership was granted on application of William G. Albrecht, of Baltimore, who alleged in his bill of complaint that he and other large stockholders of the corporation have discovered that several million dollars is due the corporation from the F. H. Smith Co., of New York and Washington.

The corporation was dissolved several years ago and Albrecht said appointment of receivers was necessary before any legal action could be undertaken on behalf of the corporation. The corporation had about 15,000 stockholders in various parts of the country, principally in the Middle West.

Gibraltar Jury Unable To Clear Girl's Death

Gibraltar, March 16 (U.P.).—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Elizabeth Cook, of Boston, who died several weeks ago aboard the S. S. Chinese Prince, today reported there was insufficient evidence to determine the cause of death.

Miss Cook's death was surrounded with mystery due to the fact that she had received a telegram falsely announcing the death of her fiance. The analysis of doctors who performed an autopsy showed the condition of the stomach normal.

AID FOR HOME BUILDERS.

Consideration of the President's recommendation for the establishment of home loan banks is now being given by congressional committees. This bill is receiving the hearty support of building and loan associations throughout the country. The United States Building and Loan League, now 40 years old, representing over 6,000 of the leading associations, has presented its case to the House committee on banking and currency through its president, William E. Best.

Investing members in building and loan associations in the United States today number 10,000,000, and in addition 2,000,000 are paying for their homes on the building and loan plan. Their representatives feel that they are an increasingly important unit of the financial structure of the Nation and that the Home Loan Bank measure would provide for them in a manner similar to the aid extended to other financial groups.

The resources of building and loan associations have reached a total of $7,790,000,000, of which 80 per cent is invested in mortgages, nearly all of which are on homes. That the investors in these institutions represent small savers is shown by the fact that the average savings account in building and loan associations is only $720.

In common with all financial institutions the building and loan associations have found the depression and unemployment impair the ability of many individuals to save systematically, and likewise cause them to draw heavily upon their reserves. This situation has developed the need of a home-financing reserve system, which will not only meet the present emergency, but serve permanent needs as well. It is believed that the provisions of the Home Loan Bank bill are well adapted to the placing of resources at the disposal of home-financing institutions and will lead to lower costs of mortgage credits, a higher percentage of loans to responsible home purchasers, and ultimate elimination of the costly second mortgage. Loan association officials are of the opinion that this strengthening of their institutions will immediately and permanently benefit small savers and purchasers of homes.

AGITATION FOR BEER.

Foes of prohibition in both the House and Senate are preparing to take full advantage of their increased strength, which was manifested in the House vote on Monday. Their first objective is an amendment to the Volstead act, permitting the sale of beer. The wet bloc in the House is mustering its strength to force a vote on the Hull-O'Connor bill, which would permit the sale of 2.75 per cent beer in grocery stores and similar establishments, but would forbid the operation of saloons. A subcommittee in the Senate has agreed to report favorably an amendment legalizing 4 per cent beer.

The wisdom of these moves, even from the standpoint of the wets, is open to serious question. So long as they make an open fight against the eighteenth amendment the wets are on a solid footing. The people have a right to decide for themselves whether the liquor traffic shall be handled by the Federal Government and the States, acting concurrently, or be left entirely within the hands of the States. But when the wets set out to nullify the eighteenth amendment while it remains a part of the Constitution they weaken their own cause.

The eighteenth amendment prohibits the manufacture and sale of intoxicants. It does not merely give Congress authority to enact such prohibitions, but it forbids Congress to legalize intoxicants for beverage purposes. In accordance with that amendment Congress has decided that any drink containing more than one-half of 1 per cent alcohol is intoxicating. Now Congress is asked to multiply by eight the percentage of alcohol that may be contained in approved beverages.

It is a question as to how far Congress can go in drawing the line between intoxicants and nonintoxicants. If the next Congress should legalize 4 per cent beer, what is to prevent the following Congress from legalizing 8 per cent beer and 10 per cent wine under the pretense that they are not intoxicating? Under this theory there is no end to the steps that might be taken to nullify the Constitution. As a matter of fact, 4 per cent beer is intoxicating for some people if consumed in large quantities. No declaration by Congress can change that fact.

In this day of lawlessness Congress ought not to temporize with the fundamental law. When the eighteenth amendment was passed it was unquestionably the intention of Congress and the States that the use of all alcoholic liquors should be prohibited. The amendment was not intended to draw a line between liquors that produce different degrees of inebriety. When the people decide that prohibition is not what they want they can change it. In the meantime the nullification by Congress of this or any other part of the Constitution could have only a demoralizing effect upon the people.

SOAKING THE MOTORIST.

The formula laid down by the Bureau of Efficiency for taxing motorists in the District of Columbia is a great shock to taxpayers because of the previous disposition of the bureau to analyze such questions fairly. The bureau recommends that motorists be required to pay all the cost of street work, beyond the Borland law assessments, all the cost of traffic administration and half the cost of bridges. Besides this they would be required to pay a regular property tax on automobiles, which would be used to defray general expenses of the District.

Creation of a special highway fund, as advocated by the bureau, is objectionable for two principal reasons. In the first place, it would relieve Congress of all responsibility for the extension and maintenance of streets in the National Capital. The entire cost of this work would be covered by the gasoline tax, and fees for motor vehicle registration, operators' permits and title fees, in addition to the assessments against property owners on streets that are improved. Congress would pay nothing for the magnificent streets which are maintained in Washington for the benefit of American citizens throughout the country.

In the second place, any special highway fund that does not include all the taxes levied upon motor vehicles is merely a sham, to cover up the fact that automobile owners are being taxed beyond reason. The people of Washington pay about $470,000 per year in the form of a property tax on their automobiles. This would not be used to defray the expenses of traffic control or street construction. Motorists would be subjected to special taxes to supply their own specific need for good streets and highways, and to "general" taxes to maintain schools, police protection, &c. This pyramiding of taxes on motor vehicles has reached outrageous proportions.

The strongest argument against the proposed 100 per cent increase in the gasoline tax is that the sum it would raise is not needed to provide ample revenue for traffic control and street maintenance. This tax was brought forward by the Mapes committee for the sole purpose of shunting on to the shoulders of Washington motorists the burden of supplying Uncle Sam's share of the District budget.

One constructive suggestion in the Bureau of Efficiency report is that the proposed weight tax be applied to trucks only. Wear and tear on the streets caused by heavy trucks justifies a special tax against them on the basis of weight. But there would be no excuse for the imposition of such an extra tax on passenger automobiles merely for the purpose of raising general revenue.

The toll levied against motorists in the bureau's formula would be less drastic than that assessed by the House bills. Even so, the bureau's analysis refutes its own arguments for the 4-cent gasoline tax by showing that such a levy is not necessary. If all funds derived from taxes against automobiles are devoted to the highway and traffic departments, and Congress pays an equitable share of this expense, there will be no occasion for "soaking the motorist" with a 100 per cent increase in the gasoline tax.

ALIEN CONTROL OF RADIO.

The Senate committee on interstate commerce has under consideration a proposed amendment of the radio act which makes more certain that aliens shall not obtain control of station licenses. The amendment was recommended by the Radio Commission and has been passed by the House. Existing law already prohibits the transfer of a station license to an alien, foreign government or corporation having any aliens on its board of directors. The proposed amendment provides that there shall be no such transfer to aliens "indirectly by transfer of control of any company, corporation or association holding such license."

An effort is made to eliminate the quoted language from the bill on the ground that a large American corporation operating in the international field is virtually compelled to have aliens on its board of directors. It is intimated that this corporation, notwithstanding its partly alien directorate, is an American company, and that monopoly conditions would ensue if it were shut out of the field because of its alien directors.

The law clearly contemplates retention of radio communications in American hands, and public sentiment upholds this policy. Radio is an important agency of national defense and should not be subject to alien control or influence. Certainly it seems proper to tighten the law so that radio licenses shall not be indirectly controlled by aliens through holding corporations.

If monopoly should develop by reason of reserving the radio field to Americans the monopoly should be smashed. There is a law with which to prevent monopolies. It is a poor argument to suggest that there should be a loophole for alien control of radio stations so that monopoly can be prevented. All Americans should have equal opportunity to develop and control radio communications, and no one but Americans should control them.

WHAT MAKES A CRIMINAL?

The National Probation Association, in its year book recently published, states that haphazard employment, blind alley jobs and long periods of idleness are important contributing factors to crime and delinquency.

The association includes in its membership juvenile court judges, probation officers, psychiatrists, criminologists and others concerned with the treatment and prevention of crime in the United States. Charles Evans Hughes, jr., is president of the organization.

"Economic stability and security," the year book states, "are two of the greatest safeguards to orderly life. The experiences encountered in 1931 have not only made social workers, business men and economists conscious of the havoc which lack of security can bring to all classes, but have made them realize that something must be done to eliminate widespread unemployment in the future. Unemployment and inadequate wages are paid for by each community in terms of dependency, delinquency, disease and related social problems."

Five causes of crime are listed in the year book. They are: Lack of a sufficient regular family income to insure health and at least a minimum of decency and comfort; inefficient and dishonest standards of government; lack of vocational guidance and clinical facilities in the schools; lack of proper recreation facilities; and inability of the church to hold the young people of today.

Few critics will quarrel with these conclusions, but it may be hoped that the subject will have further study at the hands of authorities competent to analyze it to its uttermost roots.

La Bruyere once said that if poverty is the mother of crimes, want of sense is the father. He suggested that there is a psychology of wickedness. It must be plain to every one that there are desperately poor people who do not for that reason become thieves, murderers or kidnapers. The thought of violence is as unnatural to them as it seems to be characteristic of other persons. There must be a criminal type, a variety of human creature who easily succumbs to temptation, who hesitates at no risk and who is capable of no remorse.

What besides hardship prompts a poor man to steal? What besides the treason of dishonest officeholders instigates a man to cheat? What besides ignorance and disease precipitates forgery and arson? What besides the lack of comfort and ease, pleasure and happiness in a human life causes open warfare on age-old institutions of social peace and order? What besides the unpopularity of the church leads to murder and abduction?

In other words, what makes a criminal? Eminent psychologists have attempted to answer. Hereditary taints, opportunity, the success of others, they say, are in part responsible. Shakespeare observed: "How oft the sight of means to do ill deeds makes ill deeds done." Napoleon spoke of the contagion of crime as being like that of the plague.

"We want a state of things," said Emerson, "in which crime will not pay." The pity of the present crisis seems to be that crime does pay. It must be the business of society to make the risk superior to the chance of gain.

The National Probation Association is doing a good work, and the organization deserves public support. But there must be a further search for the elements of the special problem with which the association deals.

HONOR FOR BARGAGNI.

Washingtonians are familiar with the public-spirited work Sergt. A. J. Bargagni has done for the last nine years in promoting the annual firemen's parade, a Labor Day event in the Capital. This parade has become an outstanding yearly festival which attracts national attention. Last year, it is estimated, more than 200,000 persons witnessed the procession of fire companies which came here from various sections of the country.

Sergt. Bargagni has done more than this, however. He has served for 31 years in the Fire Department with an unblemished record. In recent years he has been active in directing the firemen's training school for the department.

Tardily enough, a movement has been started to confer some recognition on this veteran for his contribution to the public welfare. Various citizens' associations have recommended that he be made an honorary battalion chief. It is understood that Sergt. Bargagni wishes to retire, and it is hoped that the title can be conferred upon him coincident with his retirement.

The Washington Post is heartily in accord with any movement to honor this gallant fireman.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY, 1776

George Washington Bicentennial Bulletin.

St. Patrick's Day is a notable occasion in its own right, and will be celebrated as the birthday of the patron saint of Ireland wherever loyal sons of Erin gather. To those in the United States the day will be especially remembered for its connection with an important event in the history of this country, and also for the fact that it was twice recognized by George Washington during the Revolutionary War in his orders to the Continental Army.

When the British army evacuated Boston on March 17, 1776, Washington won his first victory as commander in chief of the American forces. In recognition of St. Patrick's Day, on which that important event occurred, the general ordered that the countersign for the day should be "St. Patrick."

The second time the Continental Army observed this day was in 1780, when the orders from the commander in chief for March 16 read:

"The General congratulates the Army on the very interesting proceedings of the Parliament of Ireland and of the Inhabitants of that Country which have been lately communicated; not only as they appear calculated to remove those heavy and tyrannical oppressions on their trade but to restore to a brave and Generous People the ancient Rights and Freedom and by their operation to promote the cause of America—Desirous of impressing on the minds of the Army, transactions so important in their nature the General directs that all fatigue and working parties cease for tomorrow the 17th—a day held in particular regard by the People of that Nation. At the same time he orders this he persuades himself that the celebration of the day will not be attended by the least rioting or disorder. The Officers to be at their quarters in camp and the troops of each state line are to keep within their own encampment."

The parole for the day was "Saints," and the countersigns were "Patrick" and "Shela."

These circumstances, the evacuation of Boston on St. Patrick's Day and the recognition of the anniversary by George Washington, make the birthday of the patron saint a timely occasion for programs in honor of the first President and commemorating the friendship that has existed between the American and the Irish people since the founding of this country.

Getting Rougher.

POST HASTE.

How come that the new German republic, with half our population, counted more voters last Sunday than we did in the last presidential election, and the result was known five hours after the polls closed?

What we mean—North Dakota is taking two days to count her primary vote and the inhabitants of the State number only 682,448.

Senator Johnson says there has been a $2,000,000,000 depreciation in the $3,000,000,000 invested in foreign securities. A number of Americans whose foreign and domestic investments are off three-fourths would like to get the senator's list.

Japan adopts a Shanghai peace plan in principle. But her principal interest is in Manchuria.

The safest bet in Tuesday's primaries was that Mayor Hoan, of Milwaukee, would be renominated. He has again made his city famous with a budget surplus.

Canned beans that used to be cheap at 10 cents are now six for a quarter, but packing centers say they can not stand a tax of a minute fraction of a cent.

Huey Long may be the Kingfish in Louisiana, but he is encroaching on the Andy copyright in the Senate.

Opponents of a sales tax as oppressing the poor, but who favor a beer tax, talk as though only millionaires were expected to drink beer.

A sales tax would collect a few cents a day on every-day purchases. A tax on beer presupposes a new and additional outlay for the beer itself many times the amount of the tax. Where would this money come from if not from reduced purchases in other lines?

Uncle Eben says it is easier to eat your cake and have it than to spend the same money for two different things.

TULIPS.

Last spring we had a tulip bed
And when the blooms were done,
And all the foliage was dead
We dug up every one.

We put the ugly bulbs aside
And kept them till the fall,
Though several months ago they died
We're going to plant them all.

Though now we can not see one sprout
Or find the bloom within.
Again will bud and leaf come out
When springtime rains begin.

'Tis strange though tulips seem to die
We're sure they'll bloom again.
But when death comes to men we sigh
And think that hope is vain.

First Step in Teaching Brotherly Love Is to Believe in It Yourself

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE of America's great industrialists said to his colleagues a few days ago: "America's great need today is the old-time religion."

That is true. It is true for reasons not apparent to the thoughtless and the superficial. But how can an ignorant man learn without a teacher?

Now, as always, the people hunger for religion. Now, as always, proof of their hunger is found in the too-eager gullibility that makes them easy prey for the charlatan and the faker.

If people now seem indifferent to religion, it is not because their hunger has grown less but because they ask for bread and are given a stone.

Of what value to soul-hungry men and women is the moralizing of a prim and precise gentleman who regards them as social inferiors?

Religion has become a matter of magnificent buildings, comforting lectures, good music, nice clothes, proper behavior, a self-satisfied sense of superiority and a determination to rule by force of law—all of it regimented and organized in the manner of big business.

That isn't religion. It is merely complacent respectability that mistakes its own approval for the approval of God.

The religion people crave is not a code of morals.

Do the heart-hungry desire love? Indeed they do not. They hunger for some one to love. One who is loved by scores and yet unable to give love in return is heart-hungry still.

The soul-hungry desire a God to worship. They yearn for the blessed assurance of a Father who knows and cares about their sorrows and delights in their love and trust.

Given an unquestioning belief in such a Father, they can be content with their lot. They can find joy in unselfish service and believe in the brotherhood of man.

But the teacher who makes them believe must be an unselfish man who desires nothing for himself. He must devote his life to the doing of good. He must be humble, sincere and free of ambition.

Thousands of nominal Christians who know Gandhi only as a myth regard him as a messiah because their own religion has lost the virtues he seems to possess.

There is no lack of followers when a leader appears. A return to the old-time religion awaits only the coming of a teacher whose freedom from selfishness will prove his sincerity and whose love of man will prove his understanding.

PRO AND CON

Garner vs. Roosevelt.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Speaker Garner's nomination depends upon the stopping of the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt will be in the lead. He has been in the lead for a long time. Opposition to him has had time to form. It looks now as if he would be stopped. But no one of these candidates who have taken an active part in stopping him, who have opposed him in primary elections, is likely to be nominated if he fails to obtain the necessary two-thirds. The candidate who will win in that case will be some one who starts with only a few delegates, like John W. Davis, who throughout most of the long Madison Square Garden convention had only the delegation from West Virginia. And if Mr. Roosevelt is stopped, Mr. Garner will be the most likely nominee.

The Marble Heart.

New York Times.

Since Gov. Smith went into the real estate and banking business, has there been a gradual petrifaction of that once melting heart? Does he show a disposition to sacrifice himself for the good of his little Democratic brothers? Yesterday the list of delegates at large pledged to his support was issued by the chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic State committee. If his mistaken friends are not mistaken, they will conquer in the April primaries. That New Hampshire defeat has stirred Mr. Smith's fighting Irish blood. The heat in his head makes him cold to remonstrances and entreaties. When the eyes of a gentleman sparkle with the delight of a beginning shindy, what skills it to appeal to the aural or the cardiac court?

Liberal Mr. Brookhart.

Kansas City Times.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, has introduced a bill calling for a Government appropriation of "upward of $2,000,000,000" for a national system of roads. The country is getting a national system of roads with the limited expenditures now made by the Government in cooperation with the States. Granting that it could use more roads and that building of them would be an aid to employment, it is neither feasible nor financially possible for the Government to launch out to the extreme the Iowa senator, along with others at various times, has proposed. Perhaps, though, this proposal is to be taken as the senator's contribution to a program of economy at Washington.

Referendums.

There is a Nation-wide prohibition referendum every two years in the congressional elections. When, if ever, voters of three-fourths of the States want the eighteenth amendment repealed, resubmission will be achieved in a hurry, because they will fill Congress with men pledged to resubmit.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Rooting Out Socialistic Activities of the Government No Easy Job.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I don't think the average citizen has any idea as to what a big job the reorganization of the Federal bureau system really is. I doubt whether the view of the average congressman is at all clear on the subject. And even the President may find the job more than he can handle. Of course, I am thinking now of a worth-while reorganization.

It will not be enough to coordinate activities and combine bureaus where there are wasteful overlaps, although something of that kind seems to be the big idea of the bureau fixers. That might get rid of a lot of red tape and make the departmental machinery run smoother, besides saving some millions of dollars. And the professional efficiency engineers, if given a free hand, maybe can make a good job of it.

But the big job is to get rid of activities whose work is unnecessary. By this I don't mean activities such as those of the Bureau of Standards or our navy yards.

The kind I am thinking about are activities which to me seem somewhat socialistic. They duplicate work which in the case of education, for instance, is as well if not better done by experts outside the National Government; undertake to instruct the farmer in regard to every little detail of farm work, and tell the housewives of the country how to cook old-fashioned gingerbread, serve meals, scrub the floor, bathe the baby and keep little Johnnie's hair combed according to a psychometric formula.

These activities are out of place in a Government like ours, and they should be rooted up without fear or favor. And a start should be made at once. If not, it will not be long, the way the history of a nation is measured, until the mainspring of Uncle Sam's Government will be bureaucracy, or I am no Democrat.

It would be a good thing for America and give them a fresh start in politics, if the Democrats in Congress would take off their coats to tackle the public service reorganization job along the line I have roughly tried to suggest.

If the President is thinking along that line, the Democrats ought to join him by way of making good as genuine exponents of Democratic doctrine. If he only plans a half-way technical reorganization of the departments, they can best get back at him by insisting that the deadwood and superfluous outgrowths of the Government service be got rid of root and branch. What is needed is the spirit of Gen. Jackson in his fights with greedy banking interests and the heresy of nullification. Oh, for an old-time Democratic bugle blast against bureaucracy!

HICKORY.

Origin of the Word "Kodak" Discussed by Mr. Andrews.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with the career of the late George Eastman, accounts of which I have been reading, I find no explanation of the name he adopted for his portable camera—"Kodak."

Hence these lines. It is an adaptation of two syllables of the word "Dakota," and the undersigned, having been a citizen of that region since 1888, desires a modicum of credit for his State and for its share in the development of an immense industry.

How did it come that Mr. Eastman took two syllables of the name of the Territory to christen the pocket camera? He did not make the selection. It was made by a Dakota farmer and citizen named Huston or Houston, who lived a mile or so south of the little town of Hunter, in Cass County, N. Dak. I knew the man well and visited at his farm home many times. He, I understood, invented the camera which bears the name "Kodak." A newspaper review of Mr. Eastman's work sustains this: "There is a misconception that he (Mr. Eastman) also invented the camera." It was Mr. Huston who honored himself and his State by using the first two syllables of the Indian word, "Dakota" (meaning federated tribes), as the name of his invention. Combined with the film, which was Mr. Eastman's contribution, Mr. Huston's camera set the entire world to snapshooting.

St. Paul, you may recall, boasted of being the inhabitant "of no mean city." We, from the prairie States, are not a little proud of their products, attainments and contributions to the advancement of the industry, invention and development of our country. JOHN ANDREWS.

Mr. Barnes Says "Took-son," Rather Than "Too-son," Is Right.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently in your columns A. L. B., who claims the Arizona city as his home, took some radio announcer to task for his pronunciation of the name Tucson. If A. L. B. had made sure he was right before he wrote he would have learned that practically all the dictionaries, geographies, atlases and gazetteers give both pronunciations as correct.

As a mattert of fact, up to about the year 1888 or 1890 the name was universally pronounced Took-sawn, with a strong nasal turn to the second syllable. Later, newcomers got to calling it Too-son, which has become the common but by no means correct usage. The old-timers who know its origin invariably use Took-son or sawn.

The word comes from a Papago Indian name for a Papago village and spring at the base of a black hill across the valley from the city, which is today known as Sentinel Peak, but which the Indians knew as "Styuk-son," or "zone"—"at the foot or base of the black hill." From this Papago Indian village the present city took its name. WILL C. BARNES.

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hope Return to New York Home After Short Visit to White House.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER have had as their house guests former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Walter E. Hope, of New York, who came for the farewell dinner given by President and Mrs. Hoover for the new United States Ambassador to England, Andrew W. Mellon, on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Hope returned to New York last evening.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson were the guests of honor at a dinner given last evening by the Hungarian Minister and Countess Szechenyi. There were 38 guests.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick Jay Hurley flew yesterday to Chicago and will fly back tomorrow. He will be guest of honor at the St. Patrick's Day banquet tonight of the Irish Fellowship Club.

Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given today at the Shoreham by Mrs. Charles H. March.

The French Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel, left yesterday by plane for Chicago and St. Louis. He will return to Washington on March 24. Mme. Claudel entertained a small company at tea yesterday afternoon at the embassy.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, who was to have returned to Washington the first of the week from a short stay in New York, has been obliged to remain there longer as the guest of the Polish consul general, because of illness.

The Chilean Ambassador, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal is the guest in whose honor Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim will entertain at dinner on Friday evening, April 15.

Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon was the honor guest last night at a dinner in the presidential suite of the Willard given by Senator Jesse H. Metcalf. The dinner was given in recognition of his long and distinguished service as Secretary of the Treasury.

Among those invited to attend this affair were former President Calvin Coolidge, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, the Speaker of the House, Mr. John Nance Garner; Mr. Justice James Clark McReynolds, Mr. Justice Owen J. Roberts, the Secretary of the Treasury, Ogden L. Mills; the Secretary of War, Patrick J. Hurley; the Attorney General, William D. Mitchell; the Postmaster General, Walter F. Brown; the Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams; the Secretary of the Interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur; the Secretary of Agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde; the Secretary of Commerce, Robert P. Lamont, and the Secretary of Labor, William N. Doak. Some of these guests were absent from the city and were therefore not able to be present.

Mr. Thomas Davis Lee To Wed Miss Sue Randall.

Mr. and Mrs. David Judson Randall, of New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sue Davis Randall, to Mr. Thomas Davis Lee, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee, of Elkins, W. Va., and Washington.

Miss Randall is a granddaughter of the late Maj. Charles Frederick Conrad, of Winchester, Va., and Mrs. Conrad, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Peleg Randall, of Fort Wayne, Ind. She attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn.

Mr. Lee is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Kendall Lee, of Richmond, Va., and of Senator Henry Gassaway Davis, of West Virginia. He is also a nephew of Mrs. Elkins, widow of Senator Stephen B. Elkins, a former Secretary of War. He was graduated from Princeton in 1929.

Mrs. Cabot Stevens, president of the Ladies Aid of Garfield Hospital, will entertain the members of the aid tomorrow afternoon and have as the guest of honor Mrs. Feis, wife of Dr. Herbert Feis, and granddaughter of President James A. Garfield, for whom the hospital is named. Garfield Hospital had its inception a few months after the death of the President, and the late Mrs. John A. Logan had the inspiration for such an institution and was its first president. She served many years.

Miss Louise Behn Engaged to Marry.

Mr. and Mrs. Hernand Behn, of New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Behn, to Mr. Irwin Augustus Powell, of New York.

Miss Behn was graduated from the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Noroton, Conn., and studied last winter at Mlle. Boissier's School in Paris. She was presented at the Court of St. James last May and made her debut in New York this winter. She is the granddaughter of the late Mme. Lucchetti, mother of Mme. Steen, wife of the former counselor of the Norwegian Legation here. Miss Behn is also a niece of Col. and Mrs. Sosthenes Behn. Mr. Powell was graduated from Princeton in 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Ferguson, of Butte, Mont., are at the Carlton for a few days.

Herr Gerhart Hauptmann sailed last evening on the Europa accompanied by Frau Hauptmann and their son, Benvenuto, for their home in Germany.

Mrs. Bruno Walter, wife of the orchestra conductor, sailed yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner New York for Europe.

Countess Felicia Gizycka, who is visiting Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey in Middleburg, Va., will return to New York on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont are in Newport at the LaFarge.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Matthews Dick sailed yesterday from New York to pass some time in Havana.

C. Z. Klauder to Lecture On European Cathedrals.

Charles Z. Klauder, noted architect of American University buildings, will deliver the fourth lecture tomorrow afternoon in the Chinese room of the Hotel Mayflower in the series being held under the auspices of the District of Columbia committee of the national women's committee for Washington Cathedral. His subject will be "Medieval and Renaissance Cathedrals." Mrs. Frank B. Noyes is chairman of the committee in charge of the lecture of the series and Sir Willmott Lewis, Washington correspondent for the London Times, will introduce the lecturer.

Among the best-known buildings at universities which Mr. Klauder designed are the Harkness dormitories at Yale and the Holder Hall group at Princeton University. He won the gold medal of the American Institute of Architects in 1921.

The lecture will begin at 5 o'clock and will last for an hour.

Mrs. George Wales was among those who entertained informally at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

The Kentucky Society of Washington is to hold its assembly and ball for March at 8:15 p. m., Tuesday, at the Willard. At this time, the society is to be addressed by Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky. At a reception preceding the ball Mrs. Joseph Horgan, president of the society, will be assisted in receiving by Senator and Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reed, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Savage, Mrs. Allen Gullion, Mrs. Frank Henry, Dr. and Mrs. William T. Davis, Miss Amelia Weitzel, Col. George Weitzel, Maj. and Mrs. Guy Chipman, Representative and Mrs. Maurice Thatcher, Maj. and Mrs. John W. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Syme, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boyle.

Judge and Mrs. E. J. Henning have returned from their cruise to Washington and are again at Wardman Park Hotel for some time.

A number of prominent residents of Georgetown have volunteered to act as guides for the third annual tour of Eighteenth Century Georgetown on April 1 and 2 which will be held for the benefit of St. John's Church, Georgetown. The tour will include all the oldest and historic houses in that section and special visits will be made to the Dumbarton House, the home of Charles Carroll, said to have sheltered Dolly Madison during the War of 1812; the old Russian Embassy, the Decatur House and the Foxall House.

The guides as announced by Mrs. Theodore N. Gill, of 3022 P street, in charge of that work, will be Edmund M. Talcott, James Berrall, Mrs. Edward Burroughs, Mrs. Henry S. Matthews, jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Bernard Wyckoff, Robert Kean, Mrs. L. D. Nicolson, Mrs. E. O. Hurlbert, Miss Elizabeth McCain, the Rev. F. Bland Tucker, Mrs. H. G. Torbert and Mrs. Robert F. Whitehead.

Mrs. Charles S. Ramsay, of New York, has taken a suite at Wardman Park Hotel. Mrs. William A. Huff, with Mrs. John M. Horn and Mrs. Robert B. Herbert from Greensburg, Pa., are at Wardman Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Curtis Morris have moved to the Shoreham Hotel.

Mississippi Society Dances Tomorrow.

Plans have been completed for the entertainment and dance to be given by the Mississippi State Society on tomorrow evening at Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street.

Representative Will M. Whittington, president of the society, will call the meeting to order at 8:15 o'clock. Senator Pat Harrison will be the speaker for the evening, and it is expected that the entire congressional delegation from Mississippi will be present, including Senator and Mrs. Hubert Stephens, Representative and Mrs. John R. Rankin, Representative and Mrs. Wall Doxey, Representative and Mrs. Will M. Whittington, Representative and Mrs. Jeff Busby, Representative and Mrs. Ross A. Collins, Representative and Mrs. Robert S. Hall and Representative and Mrs. James W. Collier. A program of music has been planned, consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. Will M. Whittington and Mrs. Wall Doxey.

At the close of the program there will be dancing until 12 o'clock. The floor committee includes Representative Jeff Busby, chairman; Mrs. Jeff Busby, Miss Kathryn Norwood, Miss Jewell Glass, Miss Katherine Harrison, Miss Laura Collier, Miss Katherine Blount, Miss Bettie Whitfield, Miss Mary Bordeaux, Mrs. C. S. Aitchison, Mrs. Harry Fulton, Mrs. Sue Fite Ramsey, Mrs. H. O. Cutting, Miss Alma Street, Mr. James E. Lea, Mr. Thomas E. Rhodes, Mr. H. C. Danner, Mr. Otho Magee, Mr. Charles Sykes, Lieut. Col. W. A. McCain, Mr. Harry Fulton and Mr. Charlton M. Clark.

Card tables will be arranged in the room adjoining the ballroom for those who do not care to dance. Mrs. Kate Hubart, chairman of the committee in charge of the card party, will be assisted by Mrs. J. H. Brinker, Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, Mrs. Charlton M. Clark, Miss Jewell Cook and Miss Eva A. Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Park O. Beaver are again in Washington for several days, having come here from their place in Hagerstown, Md., for a visit, and they are at Wardman Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Wholean, who returned to New York from California yesterday in the Virginia, are spending a few days at the Ambassador Hotel, in New York, before going home. Mr. and Mrs. Wholean spent most of their time in Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. James Duke, who have been spending several weeks in San Antonio, Tex., where they have been visiting their son, have reopened their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Women's City Club Has St. Patrick Dinner Tonight.

St. Patrick's Day will be celebrated at the Women's City Club with a dinner, which will be followed by an entertaining program, including songs and stories of Irish lore. Mr. Henry H. Clement will tell of "Patrick, Saint and Poet." Mme. Edythe Marmion Breslus, distinguished harpist, will play the Irish harp; Mrs. Dorothy Neff Tyler, soprano, will present a group of songs in costume, and Howard A. Moore, barytone, will include among his selections some of Ireland's less known but equaly beautiful songs. Mr. Ralph F. Couch, pianist, will accompany Mrs. Tyler and Mr. Moore. Mrs. Patrick Gallagher will preside.

Members planning to attend are Miss Edna E. Mitchell, Miss Norma Burwell, Mrs. Marion S. Cake, Miss A. Louise McCrone, Mrs. Joseph R. Reynolds, Mrs. A. B. Stewart, Mrs. Bertha L. Owens, Mrs. Frank G. Stewart, Mrs. Sara P. Johnson, Mrs. J. Franklin Meyer, Miss M. Alvina Carroll, Mrs. George Perkins, Mrs. Frank Golden, Miss Loretta V. Barnes, Mrs. Iola A. Armstrong, Miss M. Grace McLaughlin, Miss Marie E. Kearney, Miss Margaret Patch, Miss Julia C. Bannigan, Miss Roberta Tull, Miss Susan Baker, Mrs. A. G. Dodge, Miss Mary E. McKenny, Mrs. Nellie G. Florence, Miss Alice A. Trefts, Miss Alice M. Heaven, Miss Adela L. Heaven, Miss Bessie P. Howlette, Mrs. Eleanor Baker Spencer, Mrs. Caroline Pratt, Miss Laura L. Tracy, Miss Margaret Norton, Mrs. Gertrude C. Notes, Mrs. Dorothy K. Butler, Mrs. St. George Teackle, Mrs. St. Clair Thomas, Mrs. Ellis Meredith, Mrs. Grattan Kerans, Miss Etta Austin, Mrs. J. M. Penny, Miss A. M. Houser, Miss Helen Brown, Mrs. Frederic I. Swift and Dr. Lydia Lothrop.

Mrs. Grace Merrill Ruckman, who is exhibiting her paintings at the studio of the District of Columbia League of American Pen Women, 1706 L street northwest, will receive informally this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Republican Club to Begin Teas on Sunday.

Under the auspicies of the membership committee of the National Capital Republican Club a series of Sunday afternoon teas will be inaugurated at the clubhouse, Sixteenth street and Scott Circle, on Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6:30.

These teas are designed to bring Republicans together in preparation for the campaign of 1932 and are sponsored by a very large number of Senators and Representatives and their wives, including Senator and Mrs. Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, Representative and Mrs. Homer W. Hall, Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Foss, Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Gifford, Massachusetts; Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Vestal, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Olga Burtness, North Dakota; Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Michener, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Englebright, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Manlove, Missouri; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Welsh, California; Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hogg, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Houston, Delaware; Mr. and Mrs. Cassius C. Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE popularity of the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts, begun on Christmas afternoon, has led Owen D. Young, on behalf of the radio interests, together with representatives of the opera house owners and operators, to reopen with John D. Rockefeller, jr., the suspended project of an opera house in connection with Radio City.

The success of opera broadcasting is said to have changed considerably the situation regarding proposals to move the opera house to Radio City. Before the broadcasts the directors of the Metropolitan were a bit pessimistic over the future of opera in New York City. However, apparently the American public is stirred by the opera music. People wrote both the opera company and the National Broadcasting Co. that they would visit the opera when in New York, or whenever it came their way on tour. In New York during the past months there has been observed at the Metropolitan an influx of new people, unfamiliar with the opera house and apparently full of curiosity and fresh enthusiasm to complete the experience of the air by seeing the spectacle.

All that is needed, according to M. H. Aylesworth, of the N. B. C., "to effect the renaissance of opera through the instrumentality of radio" is a new opera house integrated with the Radio City at Rockefeller Center.

THE proposal to provide a new opera house in Rockefeller Center has always come to a halt heretofore because Mr. Rockefeller required every part of the new center to be self-supporting. Opera has seldom been able to pay its way in any part of the world.

The broadcasting success has made it possible to present opera to Mr. Rockefeller under the new aspect of something that had an excellent chance of making its own way, if it were provided at the start with an opera house in which it would be required to pay only as much rent as it earned.

Portions of the first and second acts of "Gotterdammerung," the concluding music drama in Richard Wagner's "Der Ring des Nibelungen," will reach listeners in a broadcast from the Metropolitan Opera House over the WJZ network this afternoon, 2 p. m.

The spirit of St. Patrick will be abroad in the ether all during the day and the evening. Eamon de Valera, newly elected president of the executive council of the Irish Free State, will make his second broadcast to the United States at 3 p. m. today, when he will devliver a St. Patrick's Day message.

During the American School of the Air program, WMAL, 2:30 p. m., some of the well-known artists in Ireland will be heard in a special program of national music from Dublin. Included are Annie Fagin, harpist; Patrick Kirwan, tenor; Seamus MacAonghusa, playing the pipes; Seamus Clandillon, barytone, and the choirs of the Richmond Street Schools.

WRC is planning to rebroadcast a program from Belfast at 3:45 p. m. this afternoon. A musical program by the Belfast Symphony Orchestra, conducted by E. Godfrey Brown, with Philip Whiteway, violinist, will be featured.

THE Advertising Club of Washington will be entertained by Peggy Clarke, program director of Radio Station WJSV, and several members of the station staff, at their regular St. Patrick's Day meeting, at 12:30 o'clock today in the green room, Raleigh Hotel. Bill Dugan, who wrote the script of "Lights of New York" and other productions, will be featured with Miss Clarke.

Commander J. M. Kenworthy, for twelve years a member of the House of Commons and a noted authority on economic and naval affairs, will be heard in an address on "International Money" through WMAL at 6 p. m. today. Although he is the heir to an ancient peerage, Commander Kenworthy is one of the most active members of the Labor party in England.

A talk by Russell Morgan, president of the music supervisors national conference, and director of music in the Cleveland public schools, will be heard during the NBC Music Appreciation Hour broadcast over the combined networks tomorrow morning (WRC, 11 o'clock).

Mr. Morgan will explain the music discrimination test, a feature of the silver anniversary of the music supervisors national conference in Cleveland, in which thousands of school children throughout the country will participate.

THE guest artist with Leonard Joy's Orchestra tonight will be Bebe Daniels. The program is heard over the WJZ network, at 8 o'clock. * * * Richard Bonelli, barytone, will be soloist with Leo Reismann's Orchestra tomorrow night, WRC, 9:30 o'clock. * * * Bernice Claire, Charlie Chase and Nick Lucas will be feautred on the RKO Hour tomorrow night * * * Leonard Davis, WMAL announcer-barytone, will sing with the National Symphony Orchestra, this afternoon. * * * Alice White, screen actress, will be guest star on "To the Ladies" tomorrow night (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock) * * * NBC has announced that it will attempt to broadcast the total eclipse of the sun due on August 31 this year, from Norway, Me. * * * The Radiotone Quartet will do a new series, beginning tomorrow (WRC, 6:45 p. m.).

In cooperation with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Columbia will attempt to pick up and rebroadcast a half-hour program from a temporary studio on a train, speeding at a rate of more than a mile a minute between Washington and New York, on Sunday, March 27. The broadcast, the first of its kind attempted in this part of the country, will present Belle Baker, Jack Denny and others.

One of the regular colonial type dining cars of the Baltimore & Ohio will be used as the broadcasting studio. When stripped and fitted up technically—with the control room where the kitchen is normally located—the car will approximate a broadcasting studio. One point of pick-up will be located at Beltsville, Md., approximately 10 miles out of Washington; the other at Laurel, Md., close to 20 miles out of Baltimore.

ONE of the latest stories to come from "Dunrovin," the Crummit House, near Springfield, Mass., has to do with Frank, who, it seems, has taken to poetry.

Coming home recently, he was unable to find his latest poem. He searched the house. Finally, summoning Julia Sanderson, he asked:

"Do you think the dog has torn it up?"

Dare Interprets the Mode

Maggy Rouff, of Paris, noted for selecting unusual, rich materials and then using them sans trimming, has achieved perfection in the lines of this beige crepe frock.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Have you heard about the cunning printed jackets, some short, some three-quarters length, that are being shown in Paris? They are worn with plain colored frocks, in rough silks or light weight woolens, or rough weave cottons, and some of the jackets are lined with material to match the dress. That is giving prints a new role, I think. And the effect is delightfully chic, and very youthful, too.

Lots of cunning details trickle over to us in Mamzelles letters from Paris. Velvet sashes, for instance, and velvet belts. These are usually in strong and vivid colors, and used on lace frocks and tailleurs, yes, lace tailleurs. And used also on chiffon frocks, which somehow seems appropriate.

Then the little evening jacket or wrap in velvet is just as popular as ever, again in strong and vivid colors, or in pale colors, worn with frocks in darker shades, or black. For spring and summer, of course, these evening wraps are not very lavishly fur trimmed. The idea seems to be that one can have a number of evening wraps now, since they are less luxurious than evening wraps of yesterday. Somehow, this is a fine idea, until you go to buy one. When, alas, one finds that they cost just as much as any evening wrap ever did!

* * * *

Which reminds me of the occasional questions I get about the possible return of high shoes. The answer to all questions is no. High shoes will never return to style. Always the individual who feels she can afford it will indulge in them as a gesture.

If you simply must know why, it's because high shoes would take two or three times as much leather as pumps. And since the shoe industry has educated miladi to paying twenty and thirty dollars for her low shoes, however could they sell her the idea of paying two and three times as much for high shoes.

* * * *

How would that strike good St. Patrick? I'll bet he would approve, and I can just see a ravishingly lovely Irish lady with her fair white skin, her clear and deep blue eyes and her black hair, stepping out to do honor to St. Patrick all dressed up and somewhere to go * * * in the lovely beige crepe gown designed by Maggy Rouff, of Paris, and sketched for you by Dah-ray. This couturiere, remember I have told you, has a talent for selecting unusual, rich materials, and then using them sans trimming or fuss, in her frocks. This one was a "fantasie beige" as Mamzelle writes on the rough sketch she sent for me to copy. The sleeves and bodice seem to be gathered to the body of the dress, leaving the ends of the material out in gather-ruffles. And Easter is coming the end of this month, don't forget!

* * * *

Discreet novelty * * * that's what buttons give! Discreet and expensive novelty, usually. Which might be the reason that they are of such importance to the couturieres. And every woman knows how important buttons are to chic and the proper finish to a garment, as well as how easily a cheap or badly chosen button can spoil one. That's why we give so much time to selecting the proper button, and that's why we get so exasparated when we can't find it. And that's just what happened to me—so I just made the buttons I wanted. And not to be stingy, made you a leaflet telling you how to make a whole lot of buttons at home, different shapes and kinds and colors. The leaflet is yours if you wish to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it.

* * * *

Speaking of discreet novelty, how do you like the crystal hoops on the little spring hat I sketch in the corner? Matched with hoops and a black leather bow on beige suede gloves, my deah.

Au revoir!

PLANS ST. PATRICK'S DAY MENU.

ARE we a-wearing of the green the day? Or are we at least planning a mild sort of celebration for St. Patrick's Day? In case some of you may be planning for guests we shall try to be of some assistance by offering a brief holiday menu for the day which may be served late in the evening and constructed largely from the supplies in the "reserve" shelf.

MENU FOR FRIDAY.

Cream of Clam Soup
Curry of Cod with Rice Border
Wilted Lettuce
Lemon Crumb Pie
Tea or Coffee

Cream of Clam Soup.

2 dozen clams, in shell
1 pint rich milk
3 teaspoonfuls butter
1 pint water
3 teaspoonfuls of flour
3 teaspoonfuls celery, chopped
1 teaspoonful parsley, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste.

Make a white sauce of the flour, butter and milk. Scrub clams thoroughly, open them and wash in their own liquor. Chop very fine. Strain the liquor from the clams through cheesecloth and add it to the water. Add the chopped parsley and celery and cook for ten minutes. Add the chopped clams and cook five minutes longer. Press through a sieve and add to white sauce. Season with salt and pepper to taste and serve hot.

CURRY OF COD WITH RICE BORDER

3 pounds cod, thickly sliced
2 cupfuls hot fish broth
1 cupful milk
1½ teaspoonsful curry powder
3 teaspoons chopped onion, lightly fried
¼ cupful flour
3 teaspoonfuls parsley, minced
3 teaspoons lemon juice
½ cupful oil
1 clove of garlic
Salt and pepper to taste
Boiled rice for border

Place half the oil in frying pan, and when hot fry the cod until brown. Heat the remaining oil in a saucepan and cook the crushed clove of garlic in it. Then add the flour and curry powder and cook into a roux. Add to this the hot fish broth and milk, stirring until well blended and smooth. Add the seasonings. Place the browned cod steaks in sauce. Simmer over a slow fire for twenty minutes. Arrange the hot, boiled rice in a border on platter, place fish in the center and pour curry over it. Garnish with the minced parsley and serve very hot.

Wilted Lettuce.

Shred a head of lettuce into approximately one-inch-wide strips and place in a warm vegetable dish. Sprinkle with salt and set aside in a warm place for ten minutes. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add a half cupful of vinegar and water in equal parts, a tablespoonful of sugar and salt to taste. Heat to the smoking point, pour over the lettuce and serve immediately. It may be garnished with sliced or chopped hard-cooked egg or with pieces of chopped crisp bacon.

Lemon Crumb Pie.

1 slice of bread, one-inch thick
1 cupful of cold water
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoonful flour
1 cupful of sugar
1 lemon
1 tablespoonful of butter

Remove the crust from the bread and soften bread in the cold water. Add the lemon juice and the yolks of eggs, mixed with the sugar and flour and cook over hot water until thick. Stir in the butter, pour into a baked pastry shell and brown in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SOFT WATER AND LEAD POISONING.

A FARMER living in Vermont received his water supply from a spring. The water was carried into his home through a lead pipe. Water has passed through this lead pipe for 40 years, supplying the household with a safe and satisfactory supply. Last spring the farmer decided that this old pipe had served its time and, possibly, was leaking in places. He replaced it with a new and longer lead pipe.

Soon after this was done the family complained of some difference in the taste of the water. The farmer was very busy cutting hay and may not have acted promptly. The weather was hot and the work made conditions worse; the farmer drank an enormous amount of water. When the work lightened a bit he sent a sample of the water to the State health department and the report came back: "Water heavily charged with lead. Not suitable for drinking purposes."

The use of the water was stopped, but the farmer had already begun to have symptoms of lead poisoning. Since other members of the family had used less water they had fewer symptoms. There is no difficulty in reconstructing what had happened. This water, like many New England supplies, was exceptionally soft—soft enough for a woman to wash her hair with it. It was a very economical water to wash with.

Perhaps forty years ago it was not quite so soft, and gradually some scale had been deposited on the old pipe. This scale protected the metal of the pipe against the soft water and caused the supply to be free from lead. Doubtless, when the farmer removed the pipe, he saw this scale, but thought it a menace rather than a protection. When the very soft water came into the very new pipes it commenced dissolving lead—a way that soft water has with new lead pipes. The family developed lead poisoning before they were aware of danger.

What can the farmer do? Shall he adandon his water supply? Not necessarily. If he will add a very little lime to the water at the spring the metal of the pipe will not go into solution. Presently the new pipe will be lined with scale, whereupon he can discontinue the use of lime in the water.

The next question is as to the farmer and his family. Can they get the lead out of their systems? The answer is yes. Doubtless some lead is now deposited in their bones. The problem is to cause this to go back into solution in the blood, and then carried to the organs of excretion and removed. This is to be done so carefully as to prevent setting up new symptoms of lead poisoning. It can be done.

LOOK AT BLOOD VESSELS.

J. H. writes: I am 91 years old and am suffering a great deal from swollen and burning feet, especially at night. What is the cause? What can I do to help myself?

REPLY.

The probable cause is disease of the blood vessels of the legs. If these were examined the cause might be found. The examination should include the heart and kidneys. Bathing the feet in hot and cold water alternately may be of service.

COLD HANDS AND FEET.

Mrs. R. H. writes: I suffer with icy hands and feet almost continuously. Knowing that poor circulation must be the cause, I've attempted to remedy the matter by doing brisk exercises, followed by hot and cold showers. I also walk a great deal, but nothing seems to help.

REPLY.

Exercising and taking hot and cold showers are excellent measures. I presume you wear loose, warm gloves, shoes and stockings, and dress properly. If so, you are doing about all I know to suggest.

NO DANGER.

P. C. writes: I have been told that it is harmful for an older person to sleep with a young child. I am a woman of 31 and sleep with my little daughter, who is only 9 years old. Is there any harm to this? I am perfectly healthy.

REPLY.

None.

PETROLEUM JELLY.

N. D. writes: Is petroleum jelly harmful to the hair?

REPLY.

No.

TRAINING IS NEEDED.

Mrs. T. writes: Could you tell me why a child of 4 years cries all day long? I have tried spanking him, but it does not seem to do any good. He plays out of doors every day. He eats and sleeps well.

REPLY.

This child should have a thorough physical examination, unless this has been attended to. Probably there is nothing physically wrong. If so, the problem is one of behavior and the need is for training. Probably what is needed is that the child be left alone. If no one listens when he cries he will stop.

Culbertson on Bridge

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

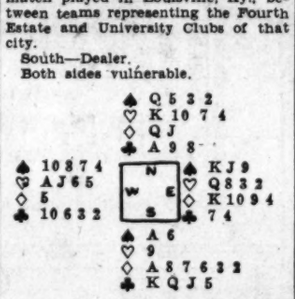
A SQUEEZE PLUS AN END-PLAY.

DUPLICATE Contract has been making vast strides in popular favor. Perhaps this is in a measure due to the depression, because Duplicate offers the substitution of competition between players in place of stake. However, Duplicate Contract is a fine game in itself and really requires no explanation whatever for its tremendous popularity. The Interclub and in some cases Intercity competition fostered by Duplicate brings to light many interesting hands and furnishes to the Bridge analyst much interesting material.

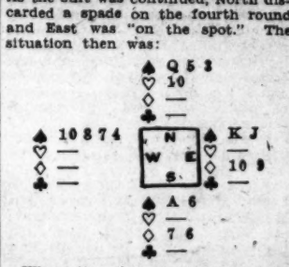
The hand below was the dramatic climax of a team-of-eight Duplicate match played in Louisville, Ky., between teams representing the Fourth Estate and University Clubs of that city.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



At all four tables the final declaration was three notrump with North the Declarer. When East selected the fourth best heart, for an Opening lead, North was confronted with a rather difficult problem and only one of the players was able to make his contract. In reaching this result he had to make both a squeeze and an end-play.

West won the Opening lead with the Ace of hearts and returned the Knave. The Declarer, from the Opening lead, was able to read the division of the heart suit and to see that without trouble he could make 8 of his required 9 tricks. He had four clubs, two diamonds, one heart and one spade. The game trick appeared not too remote in the diamond suit, but the distribution of his own and the Dummy hand warned him that the distribution of this suit, as of the heart suit, might be unfavorable. North refused to win the second round of hearts, but won the third with the King, saving his last heart as a card of exit in order to place East in the lead at the end, to lead spades in the event that it should become necessary to make the spade Queen to fulfill his contract. East covered the diamond Queen, forcing the Ace in Dummy, and when North returned to his own hand with the diamond Knave, West's club discard disclosed the complete distribution of the opposing hands. North then led his Ace of clubs and followed with a small club to Dummy's King. As the suit was continued, North discarded a spade on the fourth round and East was "on the spot." The situation then was:



When the club 5 held the trick and North discarded the spade 2, East was forced to choose between unguarding the spade King and thus allowing Declarer to make his contract by taking both the Ace and Queen of spades, or to surrender one of his three high cards. In the actual play he elected to discard the heart Queen. The Declarer then stuck him in with a diamond and won the last 2 tricks with his spade honors.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Duplicate Contract is a splendid game and offers an opportunity for the substitution of competition for any form of a stake.

Four-Legged Chicken Born.

Kingston, N. C. (U.P.).—A four-legged Rhode Island Red chick, its legs distributed like those of a quadruped, was exhibited at the hatchery of C. T. Flowers. It was one of a brood of 80. Three of the legs are normal, and one a little shorter than the others.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me why some authorities recommend transplanting stocks into pots before planting the seedlings in the open.

MAUDE F. E.

Some varieties of stocks, such as Beauty of Nice or the Wonder of Antibes, require a long season in which to develop, so these plants must be of good size at planting-out time. If handled in the ordinary way, they require too much time to recover from transplanting.

How often is it necessary to transplant peonies? ANN M. F.

Peonies must be left undisturbed for several years. Dividing and transplanting should not be done oftener than once in eight or ten years.

Earl W. T.—As a rule, larkspur seed more than one year old will not grow.

My lily-of-the-valley, which has bloomed most beautifully in pots, is over. What shall I do with the bulbs and when should I plant them in the open? Must I wait until October?

MRS. SAMUEL C. G.

After potted lily-of-the-valley roots have finished flowering, set them aside in some cool portion of the cellar until spring, when you can remove them from their pots and plant them in your garden.

My hyacinths and tulips are about over. How long must I continue to water the plants and when must I plant them in my garden?

MRS. THOMAS F. W.

All bulbs should be kept in active growth until the tops die down before you place the pots in the cellar. This means they must be watered until the leaves are yellow. Do not plant them in your garden until the autumn.

I am anxious to attempt to grow some lupine from cuttings. Is this practical? If it is, how do I proceed and when? MRS. PHILIP K. K.

Lupines are easily propagated from cuttings which should be started in the spring. Cuttings can be made by using the rather hardened wood, or side shoots. Keep them shaded until roots develop, and keep them rather moist.

Please tell me of a suitable place in which to plant roses. Also do the hybrid teas bloom continuously?

A NEW GARDENER.

Good roses can be grown in any sunny position; they should have full exposure to the sun at least two-thirds of the day; if possible, they should be sheltered from north winds and be planted away from trees or strong-growing shrubs. Remember, roses are gross feeders and are unwilling to share their food with other plants. Hybrid teas bloom continuously throughout the summer and autumn until frost.

When can I plant forsythia and lilacs? THOMAS G. J.

Deciduous shrubs should be planted in spring as soon as frost is out of the ground and it is workable. This gives them a chance to make some root growth before hot weather comes. You may plant them up until the first of May, but it is better to get them into the ground much earlier.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

RULES FOR HAPPY MARRIAGE.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD:

I have just read the letter signed "Mother," and this letter, and your answer made me want to write to you.

Think of fourteen children. And a husband that rages and swears! She has my sympathy, as best I know how to give it, for a woman with a kind, understanding husband, hardly knows how to sympathize with one who hasn't.

I thought the first of your letter was just a little too hard on her, but reading it through one finds a hint of sweetness and understanding.

As to a child being in bed at 8 o'clock, I think that would be a very sensible hour for a young school child to retire. They probably get up early, are up all day, so they surely need all the rest and quiet they can get. I have two small children and I see that they get plenty rest and sleep. When they were younger they were asleep by 6 o'clock. They never failed to sleep all night and had two good naps during the day besides. Now the oldest is nearly 7 and the youngest 4, they go to bed between 7:15 and 7:30 o'clock. They sleep well, play all morning, have their lunch, a bath and nap of two hours each afternoon. Do you think the child welfare booklets give a better schedule?

My knowledge of child training has not come from these booklets, pamphlets, &c. It has come from my mother and my husband's mother, who both raised a family of healthy normal children. I do not say these articles are not important and valuable. They certainly are—especially for those who have no one to tell them these things, and to help them to understand how to go about rearing and training a child.

I read a great many articles on child welfare, and I know there is valuable information to be gotten out of them. But most of my information and help has come from those two wise, beautifully trained mothers.

As to a cross, raging husband, I do not think any "book idea" will help. Neither do I believe advice from any one else will help. Those things are up to husband and wife. It is much the way they start out together. When I was married my mother said, "Marriage is what you make it—it is a give and take proposition—you can make it happy or you can make it miserable." I think that is good advice for a young couple, don't you, Frances McDonald?

Work together, play together, ask each other advice about everything. You don't have to agree about everything and you don't have to quarrel about it. Each one may express their ideas and opinions, and then they can be discussed quietly and sensibly. Where there is love, real honest love, any obstacle can be overcome. We all have our faults, so let's try to find them in ourselves and make an effort to correct them, instead of always finding them in the other one, and asking some one else to correct them.

A HAPPY-GO-LUCKY WIFE.

SUICIDE IS CHARGED TO POLITICAL PLOT

Bronx Official Accused of Oppression That Drove Woman to Death.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—William J. Flynn, commissioner of public works in the Bronx, was accused before the Hofstadter investigating committee today of persecuting a business man until his wife committed suicide and the man himself attempted to take his own life.

Louis H. Willard, building contractor, brought some of the spectators to tears by testifying that Flynn caused Mrs. Willard to kill herself and him to take poison as the result of five years of badgering over his attempts to build a public garage.

"I lost everything—my investment and everything I held dear," he said with his voice breaking. "Mrs. Willard, my wife, on this account took it so much to heart that she said, 'Here, you can't beat that dirty dog,' and she committed suicide, and the one who brought that about, that state of affairs, is that yellow dog sitting over there."

Flynn Denies Charges.

Flynn, suave and collected, sat with his derby hat in his hand. After an hour of Willard's testimony he took the stand and denied he had used his political power or public position to prevent the builder from improving his investment.

Under urging of Samuel Seabury, counsel to the committee investigating New York City government, Willard said he had purchased a plot of land in the Bronx in 1923 for $126,000 and applied to the board of standards and appeals for a permit to rezone the property so that he could build a two-story garage.

Flynn blocked his efforts at every step, he said, and explained his opposition by the statement that "whoever gets in will make a fortune." Willard lost his original investment at first, he added, and then his home was foreclosed as his resources dwindled.

Flynn Built Opposite Site.

Waiving immunity, the Bronx official said he had opposed Willard's operations before the board of standards and appeals in his capacity as a citizen and a resident of the neighborhood, not as commissioner. Mr. Seabury brought out in his examination of Flynn that the commissioner later bought from the William Waldorf Astor estate property across the street from the Willard plot and built 91 single-car garages.

After the present investigation has been concluded, Mr. Seabury is expected to subpena Mayor Walker and question him as to his bank account and brokerage operations. The mayor's former financial agent, Russell Sherwood, already has been fined $50,000 for failure to appear for interrogation, but is still missing.

Bank Chief Is Reported Ill and Hiding in Hills

Little Rock, Ark., March 16 (A.P.). A special dispatch to the Arkansas Democrat from its correspondent at St. Joe, Ark., says A. T. Hudspeth, fugitive head of the collapsed chain of banks in northwest Arkansas, is hiding in the hills near there and is seriously ill.

The dispatch says he is being cared for by friends, awaiting an opportune time to return to Harrison and surrender on indictments for the failure of his banking chain.

Four Guards Wounded In Prison Disturbance

Ionia, Mich., March 16 (A.P.).—One guard was accidentally shot by a companion today and three others were stabbed in an attempt to subdue an unruly prisoner in the Michigan State Reformatory here.

Milme Patrick, 40, reformatory guard, is in a Grand Rapids hospital with a bullet wound in his back, received when Frank Leland, deputy assistant warden, opened fire on the prisoner, Walter Sanders, a Negro, who had refused to go to work.

EFFICIENCY BUREAU BACKS INCREASE IN GASOLINE TAX

Capper, of the Senate District committee.

The cost of constructing and maintaining bridges would be shared equally by the highway fund and the general revenues.

Unfavorable reaction from motorists to the bureau recommendations was heard almost immediately. Thomas J. Keefe, general manager for the American Motorists Association, charged the bureau had "fallen in step with others who are seeking to relieve the Federal government of its just contribution toward District expenses."

Attack on Program.

He declared the attempt to saddle the entire cost of highways upon motorists by doubling the gasoline tax "grossly unfair and vicious." He said his organization plans to disclose "ulterior motives" behind the recommendations.

The bureau estimated revenue under the rewritten bills at $4,057,000, plus returns from motor vehicle personal taxes, which amounted to $440,180 in 1932 and $62,095 so far this year.

Revenues from the two Mapes bills would have reached $6,490,000. The major reduction would take place in auto weight taxes, which would drop from $2,900,000 under the Mapes plan to $467,000 under the bureau revision. Returns from the 4-cent gas tax, approved by both House and bureau, would be $2,900,000, the bureau estimated.

Hearings Open Next Week.

On the basis of the three Mapes bills reported to date by the bureau, Senator Capper will open hearings on the Mapes tax program before his Senate District committee next week. The fourth Mapes tax bill, providing a local income tax law, may be in hand at that time. Director Brown is rewriting this measure in detail, bringing it more closely in line with the Federal income tax law.

Justifying its support of a 2-cent gasoline tax increase, the bureau pointed out that two States have a 7-cent tax, four have a 6-cent tax, ten have a tax of 5 cents or more and seventeen have a 4-cent tax. The average State gas tax is .041 cent a gallon, it argued.

"This indicates that a tax of 4 cents a gallon would not be unduly burdensome provided it did not yield revenue greatly in excess of the amount chargeable to motor vehicle owners as their share of the costs of highways and related projects in the District," Director Brown said.

Excess Pointed Out.

Later his report showed that revenues estimated under the bills as drawn by the House would run $2,000,000 in excess of the requirements of the program for highways and related projects. Even with a 2-cent gasoline tax, he said, the two Mapes bills would yield annually a surplus of $500,000.

"However," he reported, "the motor fuel tax of 4 cents as proposed in the Mapes bill, would distribute more equitably the major portion of the tax burden chargeable to motor vehicles, provided it is supplemented by nominal registration fees plus surplus weight taxes for those classes of vehicles that cause the greatest damage to the highways, the weight taxes to be so graduated as to encourage the use of other than the most destructive types of equipment."

The bureau defended its plan to make Washington motorists bear the entire cost of street work, with the single exception of the Borland law assessment, by attributing increased road building activity to new demands of automobile traffic. Then it attempted to justify retention of the personal property tax as follows:

"The principle that the motorist should continue to be subject to all forms of general taxation is commonly recognized," it stated.

Practice Held General.

"No instance is known where the motor vehicle owner has been relieved of his income or real property taxes on account of any special motor vehicle taxes levied upon him.

"The one exception which has been noted is the personal property tax on motor vehicles. A few of the States have exempted the motor vehicle owner from a personal property tax on the motor vehicle while continuing to tax all other forms of personal property which he possesses."

The bureau added that it thought there was no more justification for exempting the motor vehicle owner from the personal property tax on his vehicle because it is subject to special taxation than there would be to exempt a restaurant owner from the personal property tax on his equipment because he is subject to a special license tax to cover cost of inspection.

Weight Tax Formula.

The bureau devised a specific formula for determining the weight tax on solid tired vehicles in excess of 4,000 pounds and under 20,000—the tax equaling the $1 registration fee plus "such amount as may be needed to assess as a surtax on such solid tired vehicles the amount apportioned to them on account of the special damage they do to the streets and highways and the added construction costs."

The bureau cast about to find a substitute for the gasoline tax where electrically propelled vehicles were concerned. It proposed an additional tax of $18 for solid-tired electric passenger vehicles, and $54 for solid-tired electric commercial vehicles, within the 6,000-pound limit.

Under its plan, solid-tired motor vehicles weighing between 2 and 3 tons would pay a total tax of $10; between 3 and 4 tons, $17; between 4 and 5 tons, $26; between 5 and 6 tons, $37; between 6 and 7 tons, $50; between 7 and 8 tons, $65; between 8 and 9 tons, $82; between 9 and 10 tons, $101; between 10 and 12 tons, $301, and over 12 tons, $501.

Other Scale Modified.

Running parallel with this scale, electric solid tired vehicles would be taxed from $64 to $555.

The bureau modified its scale for pneumatic-tired vehicles weighing 10 tons gross or less, so as to tax them approximately one-third of the weight tax on the corresponding solid-tired vehicles. A formula was worked out to substantially reduce the tax on pneumatic-tired trucks in excess of 10 tons. For example, a pneumatic-tired truck weighing between 10 and 12 tons would be taxed $49, compared to $301 charged for a solid-tired truck of similar size. Pneumatic-tired trucks weighing from 12 to 14 tons would be taxed $56.50, and over 14 tons, $86.50.

Parallel with this scale, pneumatic-tired electric automobiles over 6,000 pounds would be taxed from $60.50 to $140.50.

Key Now Boomed For Higher Office

May Run for Governorship or Senate After Recall Victory.

Atlanta, Ga., March 16 (A.P.).—Having triumphed in yesterday's special election over opponents who started a recall movement after he criticized prohibition, Mayor James L. Key is considering proposals that he make the prohibition issue Statewide in a campaign for the governorship or the United States Senate.

That was disclosed today by Luke Arnold, the mayor's executive secretary. He said "the mayor's many friends are urging him to place the issue before the people of the State at large. When the opportunity presents itself Mayor Key may make the race either for governor or for United States senator."

In the recall election the mayor polled a majority of 5,463 votes in the heaviest casting of ballots Atlanta had ever seen.

Mount Vernon Highway Is Permanently Opened

The Mount Vernon Memorial Highway was opened to permanent travel yesterday and at the same time it was announced that the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks would police the road.

However, the lighting poles and equipment for night driving are not yet ready and probably will not be completed for several weeks. Until yesterday the road was only open Saturday afternoons and Sunday during daylight.

Expulsion Likely For Five Colleges

Board of Review Scores Schools' Athletic and Financial Status.

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools today recommended that five colleges be dropped from the accredited list in the report of the board of review.

They were: West Virginia Wesleyan College, at Buchanan, W. Va., because of "faulty standards and athletics."

Ouachita College, Arkadelphia, Ark., because of "financial standards and undesirable athletic conditions." College of Emporia, Emporia, Kans., because of failure to meet financial standards. Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa, because of financial standards. New Mexico Normal University, Las Vegas, N. Mex., because of undesirable athletic conditions.

Richmond Policeman Admits Theft in Store

Richmond, Va., March 16 (A.P.).—John Page Hall, for sixteen years a member of the Richmond police force, and John I. Black, a night watchman for several Broad street stores, today pleaded guilty in hustings court to larceny of merchandise from a large department store.

Judge Ingram said he will pronounce sentence March 23, at which time he will hear evidence in the case of George T. Gilliland, another suspended police officer, who is charged with aiding and abetting.

The Age of FAT Need No Longer Be Feared

Soon after 30, multitudes of people gain excess fat. Many at earlier ages. A great reason lies in a weakened gland, which largely controls nutrition. Food that should create fuel and energy goes to fat.

Since this discovery, doctors the world over feed this gland factor to the over-fat. Slender figures all around you are due to this method now.

In Tablet Form

Marmola prescription tablets present this new-day method in ideal form. A famous laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Those slender figures, now so common, are not due to starving.

Every box contains the formula. So users know, and doctors know, just how Marmola acts. You are taking in Marmola what the best physicians use.

Fight fat in this modern way. Combat the cause. Take Marmola—four tablets daily—until weight comes down to normal. As the fat goes, watch your vim come back. Then tell your friends what did it. Don't wait longer—start this right way now. At all druggists.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Don't Neglect Kidney and Bladder Irregularities

If bothered with bladder irregularities, getting up at night and nagging backache, heed promptly these symptoms. They may warn of some disordered kidney or bladder condition.

The SHELTON

Home of the famous roof pool

at 49th and Lexington NEW YORK

Will your business take you within the Grand Central zone? If so, think what it means to spend more time in your room . . . Get up an hour later in the morning without hurrying—take an invigorating plunge in the huge pool. Visit the Shelton Manager, let him show you that living costs have really come down. Rates from $50 per month upward. A room for as little as $2.50 daily.

Club features at the Shelton (free to guests) are as follows: Swimming pool; completely equipped gymnasium; game rooms for bridge and backgammon; roof garden and solarium. Restaurant and cafeteria service at reasonable prices.

Her Friends Try to Help Her . . . but she won't Listen . . . she Doesn't Care

"What am I going to do . . . I'm so nervous I could simply scream." How often have you felt this way yourself?

These Hysterical Women!

CRYING . . . sobbing . . . laughing! Tears in her eyes one minute . . . smiling the next! What a state to be in! She has no control of herself . . . the slightest thing drives her to distraction.

She looks old, haggard. She is irritable, unreasonable. Her friends try to help her . . . she won't even listen. She has reached the point where she doesn't even care.

How pitiful it is to see her suffering . . . when it is so unnecessary!

If she would only give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a chance to help her . . . how well and happy she could be.

This simple remedy has benefited 98 out of every 100 women who have reported using it.

Don't think that your troubles are any different. Don't think that this medicine won't help you. It can! Give it a chance and watch those headaches and backaches yield to its tonic action.

The new tablets are so easy to take. They slip into a handbag as neatly as a compact. And what relief they give during those "trying times"!

But whether you prefer the Compound in tablet form or in liquid form, at least, try it! Let it prove that it can do for you what it has done for others. See for yourself what blessed help it can really be.

A TONIC!

What I Mean!

DOES the end of a busy day find you tired out—sometimes too exhausted to sleep? We can fix that!

Before you go to bed, step into a hot shower or tub—and soak. The warm water relaxes tired muscles and nerves, and sends you to bed and to sleep—in condition to get full benefit from your rest.

The secret is plenty of hot water whenever you want it. That's exactly what a modern automatic gas water heater supplies. You never have to adjust it, look at it, think of it. The tank is always kept full of water at the temperature you have selected, and gas is used only when needed.

You'll find bathing, cleaning, cooking easier and more pleasant with such a gas water heater in the house. Let your plumber or your Gas Company tell you what it would cost—and what it would do—in your particular home.

BUREAU OF INTERIOR ABOLISHMENT URGED

Senator Lewis Would Merge It With Department of Agriculture.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, critic of administration reorganization policies, seized opportunity during debate on Interior appropriations yesterday to propose abolition of the department under discussion, urging consolidation of its functions with the Agriculture Department.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, the Shipping Board and the Federal Trade Commission might likewise be thrown in the discard, he told the Senate in response to a Republican challenge to name bureaus he would abolish.

"This Government has disposed of the public lands to such quantity and degree that now there is no longer the need for the Interior Department," he said. "There should be promptly a consolidation between the Agriculture and the Interior Departments in the name of the land department." He estimated this step would strike off 15,000 employes.

The attack gave a fresh turn to the economy debate that has marked Senate consideration of the Interior Department appropriations bill. Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, withdrew his amendment for a 10 per cent cut in appropriations, but said he will move today to recommit the bill with instructions to the committee to make the cut.

Reapportionment Arguments Heard

(Associated Press.)

Reapportionment tangles started to unravel yesterday in the Supreme Court.

With substantially all of the Minnesota congressional delegation present, including Senator Shipstead, and many congressmen from other States, the highest court heard oral argument in the Minnesota reapportionment case.

In this the State courts refused to prevent the enforcement of a reapportionment act which had been vetoed by Gov. Olson, and which had not been passed by the Legislature over his veto.

Williamson and Hoover Confer on Work Merger

(Associated Press.)

After a conference yesterday with President Hoover, Representative Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, said he had gone over plans to consolidate Government construction under a public works department.

"We feel that large economies can be made through placing under one head the construction projects now being carried on separately by about 30 separate agencies," said Williamson, who is author of a bill to this end. His bill has the indorsement of President Hoover.

Anticrime Parley To Be Held Here

Hoover Informed of Plan of National Board to Find Cure.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was informed yesterday by the National Crime Commission, seeking new methods of combatting underworld activities, was planning a national anticrime convention here either this spring or next fall.

J. Weston Allen, of Boston, chairman of the commission, said the President expressed interest in such a convention.

Allen said prosecuting attorneys, police authorities and deans of law schools from all parts of the country would be invited and that all phases of crime and its prevention and prosecution would be considered.

MELLON TO REOPEN BRITISH DEBT TALKS

worth of American agricultural and industrial products. The economic and financial changes of the past year have immensely increased the burden of her payments to us. The series of events through which Great Britain was forced off the gold standard are too recent to require enumeration.

"All debts to Great Britain from foreign governments except reparations payments, which are not being collected at all this year, are payable in sterling. Her debts to us are payable in gold dollars. The combined effect of these unfavorable factors results in an enormously increased burden for the people of Great Britain.

"When the British debt settlement was made it was estimated that its present value at a 4¼ per cent interest rate was 80 per cent of the total amount due prior to funding. If the amount to be raised in pounds sterling to meet the obligations to us in dollars is increased by 47 per cent—the difference between the pound at par and the pound at $3.315—it becomes apparent that from the standpoint of the British taxpayer, he is asked to meet not only the obligation as established by our Dent Commission, but an amount considerably in excess of such obligation."

Although Congress resolutely declined to bring to life the War Debt Funding Commission to determine the capacity to pay of the various debtor nations, Ambassador Mellon still believes that some investigation of the economic factors which they face, should be made in the interests of debtor and creditor.

He will very probably bring to the economic plight of European debtors of this country, a harmonious, well-thought-out plan of action which will relieve them of a portion of their indebtedness to us and at the same time maintain the ratio between European debt payments and the American tax rate.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE heavy advance sale for George White's "Scandals" made it expedient yesterday to open an extra box office at the Washington Auditorium, where this big, star-studded revue will open on next Sabbath evening for a week's run, barring Good Friday's performance, when the hall is chartered by the National Geographic Society. The two box offices, supervised by George Morley, of Impresario White's New York office, will be in operation eleven hours a day.

The flood of mail orders—which, incidentally, chalked up a total first day's return approximately equal to the tremendous advance sales that signalized the coming of Flo Ziegfeld's "Hot-Cha!" and Miss Katharine Cornell's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street"—came as no surprise to Mr. White. He knows what he has, and has a bundle of past records to go on. For instance, in Boston last week, "Scandals" piled up a tremendous "gate", in the Boston Opera House, and this week, in Philadelphia, is doing likewise in the 4,300-seat Metropolitan Opera House.

"Scandals," by the way, is booked into the week stands only on this tour. It will trek via Chicago to the West Coast, arriving in Los Angeles in July for the Olympic games. Most productions that undertake this jaunt break the long jumps with a succession of one-night stands. George White, however, will neither book nor brook any of these, for the comparatively simple reason that his opera can not play them. It is too big for those small stages!

Remind me to write to Estelle Taylor, confined to her bed these many weeks since suffering serious injuries in a motor car accident, in reply to the friendly telegram that came from her while the M. P. T. O. A. banquet at the Mayflower was in full blast Tuesday night. Many of her friends from the Hollywood film colony were present, and I dare say she would be interested in hearing about it. A good scout, and courageous, Estelle.

Afterthoughts on the gala evening of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, since you have brought the subject up: It is the unanimous opinion of those who have followed such things through the years that this year's convention in point of personnel, achievement, decorum and all the other essentials must be written down as the most successful and most universally applauded in the history of the industry . . . This, of course, is in large measure due to the efficient work of the local committee in charge, consisting of A. Julian Brylawski, Harry M. Crandall, Sidney B. Lust, William B. Herbst, Hardie Meakin, Rodney Collier, A. Lichtman, Maurice Davis, Nat Glasser and Carter Barron . . . The subcommittees, with a personnel too numerous for individual mention, also did their share, and right nobly, at that . . . Conrad Nagel, when he got going, forgot that he had promised that his speech—one of the best of the evening—would be short . . . Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, over from Baltimore, held court, as usual, on the dais that was the speakers' table and signed menus until they both suffered violent attacks of writer's cramp . . . Mrs. Norman Kal lost her nerve completely while bidding Ben Lyon au revoir . . . Harold Flavin decided, midway of the speeches, that the radio up in his room was more fun, so retired from the arena to take off his shoes and lie down . . . Meyer Davis whipped his large orchestra into real musicianship during the two numbers he personally conducted, throwing an expansive party later in suite five-hundred-and-something . . . Harry M. Crandall is all steamed up over his latest adventure in showmanship, "Pantheon de la Guerre," a painted panorama of the World War that it took an army of artists five years to execute, some of the scenes encompassing a perspective of 22 miles . . . He may be a good showman, this Crandall fellow, but he certainly is a terrible guide to your seat at a banquet . . . Sam Galanty, that high-strung Southern gentleman in local charge of Columbia Pictures, on the other hand, is one of the most helpful pilots to the fullness of a large evening that I know . . . It's funny how many people you know at a rout of this kind; they bob up from everywhere and all call you by your first name . . . Of all the movie stars introduced Clive Brook—pronounced Clyve and not Cleeve—received the biggest hand, although none was slighted . . . Quite a rumpus was stirred up when Chairman Brylawski chopped the RKO-Pathe special film about midway of its length, but not until after The Post had been well pictured . . . The celluloid could have run its length without boring anyone, at that . . . Senator J. Ham Lewis, of Illinois, gave Conrad Nagel an earful of advice after his speech and then transferred his attention to a group of Helen Morgans perched on a grand piano not otherwise in use at the moment . . . Eddie Dowling wasn't as "hot" as usual as a master of ceremonies, surrendering the "mike" to Julian Brylawski about halfway through the program . . . The dancing would have been swell, if they had cleared some floor space and there had been any dancing!

The National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D. C., Hans Kindler, conductor, will terminate its first full concert season of 1931-32 with its eighth and final symphony concert at Constitution Hall this afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. This performance once again will enlist the chorus of 100 voices of the Washington Choral Festival Association, recently heard in concert with the orchestra in the presentation of two short choral works at Constitution Hall.

This final 1931-32 concert, however, will be notable for its presentation of a major choral work—Handel's magnificent Dettingen Te Deum, composed in 1743 especially for the celebration at St. Paul's Cathedral, London, of the triumph of British arms over the French at Dettingen, that same year. Leonard Davis will be the barytone soloist of the chorus and the occasion will mark Conductor Kindler's first atttempt to present a choral work of major magnitude.

It might be well to offer the faithful a reminder that the "week" begins tomorrow night at the Belasco Theater, when "Everybody's Welcome" opens a three-performance engagement, with matinee on Saturday.

"Everybody's Welcome," in case you haven't heard, is a musicalized version of "Up Pops the Devil," boasting at least three widely popular song hits in "As Time Goes By," "Even As You and I" and "Lease on My Heart."

The cast is a distinguished one, led by Frances Williams, Oscar Shaw, Ann Pennington and Harriette Lake. Then, too, there is a fast-stepping chorus that is said to be not the least of the musical comedy's lures.

The new week's attractions in the cinemagogues will be as follows: Palace, Miriam Hopkins and Jack Oakie in "Dancers in the Dark," and Loew's "Whirligigs" revue; Earle, Winnie Lightner and Loretta Young in "Play Girl," and vaudeville; Fox, Peggy Shannon and Theodore Von Eltz in "Hotel Continental," and Panchon & Marco stage revue; RKO-Keith's, Eddie Quillan, Maureen O'Sullivan and Mary Nolan in "The Big Shot," and vaudeville; Rialto, Walter Huston and Harry Carey in "Law and Order;" Columbia, Ina Claire, Joan Blondell and Madge Evans in "The Greeks Had a Word for Them;" Metropolitan, William Powell and Evelyn Brent in "High Pressure."

The members of Panchon & Marco's "Modern Minstrels" idea, current at the Fox, are earning their coffee and cakes this week. Having appeared Tuesday night at the M. P. T. O. A. banquet, they are appearing tonight at the Army and Navy Club as first aid to an elaborate observance of St. Patrick's Day.

High Government officials, including Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War in Charge of Aviation; the Turkish Ambassador, and numerous others of note will be guests of honor.

Members of the unit who will entertain are Tyler Mason, famous comedian; Esther Campbell, whistler; Bruce Jordan, yodeler; Three Page Boys, rhythm dancers, and the Twelve Sunkist Beauties.

Something of the importance in which the St. Patrick fete at the club is held may be gathered from the fact that the "Modern Minstrels," due to leave town tonight, are being held over until Friday morning for this especial occasion.

But then, the Army and Navy always did swing a big club, as you might say!

Walker Is Hour Late As Dolly Sister Weds

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Dancing Rozika Dolly, of the Dolly Sisters team, became a third-time bride late today when Mayor James F. Walker officiated in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel at her marriage to Irving Netcher, son of a department store owner. The ceremony was at 5 p. m., an hour behind schedule because of the customarily belated but smiling appearance of the dapper mayor, who promised to marry them last fall when he met them in Europe.

The bride wore an afternoon frock of almond green crepe, with hat and shoes to match. Her flowers were orchids. Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Nate B. Springold, in whose Tower apartment the wedding took place

Mrs. Elmer O. Leatherwood is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic William Wile will arrive in New York on March 23 on the S. S. Bremen after passing five weeks at the Geneva conference. They have also been visiting in Paris and London. They will return to their home on Sixteenth street March 25.

Spanish Ball Limited To 300 Guests.

The Spanish ball to be given on Easter Monday evening at the Mayflower under sponsorship of Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., has been limited to 300 guests.

An entirely novel idea in dancing is promised by Francis Perry and Muriel Craven, young Southern dancers, who will present the Cuban habanera for the first time in Washington at the ball that evening.

Mr. Binford Valentine will be the referee for the "bull fight" between Mr. John Wheeler and Mr. Edward Devereux.

Several large dinner parties already have been planned to precede the ball.

Commodore Herbert Hartley, of Opelika, Ala., former captian of the S. S. Leviathan, is at the Willard.

Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton has returned to her apartment at the Shoreham after passing three weeks in the South.

A very attractive program of entertainment has been arranged for the annual St. Patricks Day dance of the New England States Society which will be held at the Willard tonight. Mr. Billy La Salle will be master of ceremonies, and Miss Mary Eller, Miss Betty Johnson, Miss Joan Garnham, Mr. Hal Potter, Mr. Walter Potter, Miss Marguerite Schiltz will furnish a program of dances. A musical program has been arranged as well with a number of local people entertaining, among whom will be Miss Gladys Gibson, Mr. Lee O'Neill and Miss Willa Semple.

Another son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. William Moffett has received his rating as a naval aviator at Pensacola, Fla. Young Ensign William A. Moffett, jr., son of the chief of aeronautics, is a full-fledged flyer, and has been assigned to the airplane carrier, U. S. S. Lexington.

An older brother, Lieut. George H. Moffett, previously passed the flying course at Pensacola and is now in training at Annapolis for the United States Olympic boxing tryouts.

Mrs. Harry Norment, who has been in Palm Beach for several weeks, rejoined Mr. Norment in their home on Wyoming avenue yesterday.

Miss Jenny M. Fisher, of Kansas City, is the guest of Mrs. William C. Ruff and Mrs. J. D. Robinson.

NATS' 3-RUN RALLY IN 7TH DEFEATS ORIOLES, 6 TO 3

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Biloxi, Miss., March 16.

WHAT ball players do of an evening after the ball game is closely akin to the motorman's day off. They talk baseball. Sammy West won the story telling championship from close competition tonight as he regaled the squad grouped in the Biloxi Hotel's vast lobby with a true story that had as it's goat Leon "Goose" Goslin, late of the Nats.

West went back to the season of 1927 when the Washington Club was training at Tampa to pull the prize of the evening. George Sisler had just joined the Washington Club and had reached third base in an exhibition game, with Goslin on second.

Suddenly Goslin set sail for third on an attempted steal and was greatly embarrassed to find Sisler already occupying the base, the Goose's boner resulting in the third out. Goslin, deep in his chagrin, tramped to left field to assume his position. The late Joe Cantillon, former Washington manager, was visiting the team and was seated on the rail of the clubhouse as Goslin sauntered past.

Cantillon, one of baseball's most famous wits, hailed Goslin, patted him on the back, consoled him with, "I don't blame you, boy, you had a great lead."

A week later in an exhibition game in Washington with the Boston Braves, Goslin got a big lead on the pitcher and stole third cleanly only to discover that Sisler again was occupying the bag. Goose didn't blush. He laughed out loud.

It was the habit of Kurke's wife on his arrival home after the ball game to inquire how many hits Kurke had made that day. Kurke would always answer her by raising one finger, or two fingers, or three, as the case might be, without the effort of an audible reply.

Kurke had had a poor day at bat, popping up three times and striking out twice. He came home visibly perturbed.

"How many today?" his wife asked him. Kurke spoke out loud. "Listen, you," he said. "You tend to the cooking. I'll tend to the hitting."

Joe Judge is still wondering what will be his fate with the Nats this season, despite the assertions that the first base job is open to either him or Joe Kuhel, depending upon their respective performances in the exhibition games.

The Nats have played two games and Judge has languished on the bench throughout both. On Saturday and Sunday the team is scheduled to travel to Mobile to meet the Louisville Club and Kuhel is the only first baseman scheduled to make the trip. Judge will remain behind to play with the second team, which meets the Biloxi Club here on Sunday.

During the major portions of the daily morning workouts, Kuhel has occupied first base. Substitutes have been sent in for the regulars in the outfield, behind the plate, at third base and on the mound, but Judge has not yet tasted action. If it is to be a fight for the position, Judge is anxious for an opportunity to participate.

Or, as this column stated two weeks ago, the issue at first base is a closed one with the Nats' management definitely pledged to Kuhel over Judge.

Sam Rice, who came to the Nats with Judge 18 years ago, has taken a long lead over the competition for the first string utility outfield

EVERETT RUSSELL STARS AS MAROON SCHOLASTICS WIN

United Grays Bow, 33-31, in A. A. U. Thriller.

Olmsteds, St. John's and Clifton Barbers Also Win.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

SOMEWHERE back in the star-spangled history of local basket ball there might repose a better game than was played at Tech High last night, but when the 33-31 victory of Tech High's Maroon Scholastics over the United Typewriter Grays becomes a matter of history it will certainly share equal eminence with the greatest games ever played here.

Tech's sensational victory, which sent it out into the quarter-final round and skyrocketed its stock in the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament, sponsored by The Washington Post, capped a night of thrill-packed play, which saw the ranking No. 1 team of the 145-pound division, Business High, go down in a startling upset, 35-32, at the hands of Olmsted Gril. In another feature conflict, the St. John's Victors won over the 130-pound A. Z. A. team of the Jewish Community Center, by the margin of 17-16, while the Clifton Barbers easily upset the Y. M. C. A. Big Five, 32-21, and the Brookland Eagles were even more ruthless, beating the Georgetown Boys Club 100-pounders, 39-13.

Grays Leap Into 10-0 Lead.

Tech, with its zone defense riddled by the superb pivot play of Oscar Sells and the shooting of Bob Fuchs and Reds Olsen, all three veterans of the American University team this year, trailed 10-0 before it commenced a comeback march that brought 500 fans to their feet in vociferous acclaim. Ten straight points it reeled off, led by superb play on the part of Everett Russell, and raced neck and neck with the Grays to the half mark, at which time the Scholastics held a 19-18 lead.

Sells, with his Pinetzki arms weaved high over his small foes, personally sent the score to 24-19 in the Grays' favor at the start of the second half, only to see Carrol Daly and Waverly Wheeler tie it up at 24-24, and Russell send his team ahead for keeps at 26-24 with still ten minutes left of the game.

Spectacular rough-and-tumble play marked the final ten minutes. The Grays, buttressed by Brown and with Sells taking 95 per cent of the balls off the backboard, pulled up to 28-29 with two minutes to go when Russell, activated by a competitive fury rarely seen, looped in two one-hand shots that prostrated the patrons and gave Tech a 33-28 lead, which was whittled down to 33-31 by Brown and Olsen as the whistle ended this beautifully played tussle.

SIX BATTLES TONIGHT IN A. A. U.

Griffiths-Fort Wash., Potomac Boatmen Play D. and H.

ANOTHER volume production night of basket ball is in prospect tonight at Tech High in the District A. A. U. tournament, sponsored by The Post, with six games on tap, including two of the choicest conflicts of the joust, the Griffith Consumers vs. Fort Washington game and the meeting between the champions of the Community Center League, the Delaware & Hudson Five and the Potomac Boat Club.

A semifinal berth in the 130-pound division will be gained by either the Dixiana Barbecues or St. Stephen's, who meet at 8 o'clock, while either the Jewish Community Junior girls or the Benning Sextet will eper the final round at the conclusion of their game at the same time. Other games feature stiff contests between 100 and 115 pound clubs.

Soldiers Face Test.

The Consumer-Fort Washington game represents the sternest competition either club has been called upon to meet in the tournament. The Griffs won their first tournament game, 41-21, from the Naval Reserves, while Fort Washington beat off the stubborn Logan A. C., 39-34, with a pyrotechnical display of shooting at opportune moments.

The game will bristle with individual stars, including Lilly, Peck, Timmons and Lyles, of the Griffs, and Privates Morris and Uhrinak, of the Soldiers. Morris sank the most spectacular shot of the tournament to date, when he potted one from a sitting position in the Logan game.

The 10 o'clock game, between and among D. & H. and the Potomac Boat Club, is liable to steal tonight's show. Big, powerful clubs both, they promise to stage a bang-up exhibition of how the game should be played. The scholastic team of the Potomac Boat Club won the unlimited tournament last year, but this year the club is represented by a new lineup and despite an early season victory over the Saks Clothiers must be rated no higher than a slight underdog in face of the suddenly risen stock of Delaware & Hudson.

French Stars Defeated in Tourney

Bell Downs Borotra; Mangin Winner Over Boussus.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, March 16 (A.P.).—They turned out the lights on the Frenchmen in the National Indoor Tennis Tournament today, assuring an all-American final the last of the week.

Berkeley Bell, Gregory Mangin and Julius Seligson formed a committee of three that eradicated the foreign threat abruptly and thoroughly.

Bell, the diminutive firebrand from Texas, attended to the great Jean Borotra, France's second ranking star and defending champion, 6—2, 6—4, in a spectacular quarter-final match that kept the crowd in a tumult.

Mangin, pride of Newark, N. J., turned back Christian Boussus, third ranking Frenchman and prospective Davis Cupper, 6—3, 6—4, and Seligson, somewhat overweight New Yorker, subdued Antoine Gentien, 6—3, 6—4, both in the fourth round.

Seven Americans Survive.

The sudden overthrow of the French dynasty that has reigned over this Nation's indoor courts in four of the last seven years left seven Americans to fight it out for the crown that slipped from Borotra's fingers.

George Lott, jr., of Chicago, advanced by defeating Eddie Jenkins, jr., of New York, 8—6, 6—4; Frank Shields, of New York, erased Eugene McCauliff, of New York, 6—4, 6—4; Sidney Wood, jr., New York, won from Harold Gerkin, New York, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4, and Frank Bowden, New York, outlasted Lincoln Halderstadt, New York, 3—6, 6—4, 6—1.

Quarter-final pairings send Lott against Seligson, Wood against Mangin and Shields against Bowden. Bell, still a lap ahead of the field, encounters the winner of the Shields-Bowden match in the semifinals on Friday. Mangin and Bell, as a result of their superb play today, have been established favorites to reach the finals.

Bell, improved both in physique and court finesse, played probably the most dazzling game of his career in subduing the 34-year-old Borotra. He had everything. He looked like material for anybody's Davis Cup Team, despite the fact he was ranked only No. 10 in the United States last year.

Bell's Smashing Attack Factor.

In adding to a service that left the veteran Frenchman gasping, Bell employed a smashing drive that could not miss. Borotra's attempts to crowd the net were disastrous, Bell passing him with equal facility either from forehand or backhand. Only in the second set, when he pulled the score up to 4-all, did the Basque appear in Bell's class, and that didn't last long.

Bell's overwhelming victory enabled him to square accounts with Borotra, each with two wins in four engagements. Bell beat the Basque in the national championships in 1930, and Borotra took him twice last winter, in the finals of the indoor and in the international team matches.

Mangin, who teams with Bell in doubles, was almost equally impressive in eliminating the southpaw, Boussus. His service was chain lightning and his driving from either side too potent for Boussus to match. His play, in fact, belied his No. 11 ranking in this country.

Seligson simply knocked them back too long and too accurately for Gentien, who is not one of France's best.

The Frenchmen fared equally poorly in doubles, Borotra and Boussus taking a beating from an American pair, William Aydelotte, of Schenectady, and Perrinne Rockafellow, of New York, in a third round match. The scores were 4—6, 6—3, 7—5. Rockafellow and Aydelotte were the fourth seeded American combination.

Keefe, Ex-Red Catcher, Found Dead in River

Cincinnati, March 16 (A.P.).—His fortune depleted since ending his baseball days, the body of Pat Keefe, former Cincinnati Reds catcher, was found today in the Ohio River. Keefe had been living recently in a shanty boat. The coroner believed the old-time athlete lost his balance and fell in the water.

Ready to Play

BISHOP'S HIT WINS FOR MACKS

Drives in Two Mates in 6th to Defeat Cards, 6 to 3.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Max Bishop, the last man at bat in the 1931 world series, couldn't puncture the St. Louis defense last October, but he came through today with a booming blow while the bases were full and clinched the final game for the spring series between the Athletics and Cardinals.

The Athletics, aided and abetted by the loose fielding and pitching of the world champions, won 6-3. The Cardinals' only victory was in the 10-inning game that opened the series a fortnight ago in Miami.

Bishop's Blow Breaks Tie.

Bishop's decisive wallop came in the sixth inning with the score tied at 3-3 and Sylvester Johnson on the mound for the Cardinals. With perfect support Johnson would have retired the side in order in the frame, but a boot by Delker on Miller's grounder and a muff by Watkins, on Madjeski's high fly, followed by a pass to Cain, filled the bases. Bishop's line single to left tallied Miller and Madjeski.

As a parting salute, Bing Miller rapped one of Paul Derringer's curves to the trees in right center in the seventh inning and galloped around the bases for a home run, the final score of the game.

The Cardinals squeezed three runs off the delivery of Eddie Rommel, the old knuckle-baller, in the first four innings, but were easily pacified in the last five frames by the speedy stuff exhibited by Merrit (Sugar) Cain, stocky young right hander from Harrisburg, Pa. Cain yielded only three hits, including a triple by George Watkins that was wasted in the seventh.

Roebuck Ready to Climb Mount Pinetzki Tonight

Turner Risks Damage to Stage at Auditorium as Man-Mountains Collide; Grobmeier, Stein on Card.

MOUNT LEO PINETZKI, the hefty Himalayan of rassle ranks, was shipped to town yesterday in sections and is being assembled by derricks and rivet guns today. The job, although a terrific one, is expected to be completed by about 10 o'clock tonight when he will clank down from his reinforced dressing room at the Washington Auitorium and attempt to practice several indignities upon the sensitive chassis of Tiny Roebuck. The latter has other plans.

The boys amount to 530 pounds, the greatest weight the Auditorium ring has been called upon to hold. They have met twice before, and both meetings resulted in victories for Pinetzki, who has not lost in this country since stepping over the tariff wall three months ago. The last time it took Pinetzki 30 minutes and an illegal blow with one of his hammy hands to dispose of Roebuck.

It should be something of a spectacle, and is likely to develop into a good wrestling match. Roebuck weighs 250 pounds, is 6 feet 3, and has enormous arms, but he is a babe in arms compared to the incomparably big Pinetzki, beside whom Primo Carnera is a slightly oversized Singer Midget. Even more striking than his

Ruth Signed At $75,000 For Year

Babe Accepts $5,000 Cut as Talkies Record Act.

Club and Star Say They Are Satisfied With Terms.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—To the accompaniment of sound effects in a garden setting of tropical beauty, the great man of baseball, George Herman (Babe) Ruth, magnanimously accepted a $5,000 salary cut today and signed a one-year contract for $75,000.

For the sixth time in the thirteen years he has been with the New York Yankees, the Babe put his signature to a document that keeps him in a class by himself among ball players and assures him for 1932 the same salary paid the President of the United States. Col. Jacob Ruppert, the Yankee owner, won his point about signing Ruth for only one season, but went halfway to reach a compromise on the figures.

The club's original offer was for $70,000 for 1932 only. The Babe had rejected this and countered with a demand for the same salary he has been getting for two years, $80,000, unless the Yankees would give him a two-year contract.

Both Say They Are Satisfied.

Both declared they were thoroughly satisfied with the agreement, which cut Ruth's salary for the first time since he became a Yankee in 1920. His first salary with the club, $20,000, was quadrupled within 11 years.

On no previous occasion of the sort has the home run king forsaken the hold-out ranks with more flourish. The Babe has yielded his fountain pen on a contract in hotel rooms and in a brewery. Shortly before noon today he and Col. Ruppert went through the formal business in the flowered, pretentious patio of the Royat Hotel, where the Ruths are living.

They sat in tapestried chairs before a carved table, decorated with a bowl of petunias. Behind them was an old wishing well, into which they dropped coins and wished luck for Ruth and a pennant for the Yankees.

Babe Part of Country Squire.

Before the ceremony, for the benefit of the cameras, the Babe, in natty striped trousers and sport coat, escorted friends about the premises with the air of a country squire. Afterward he was host at a luncheon before going to the ball park to play in his first exhibition game against the Boston Braves.

"Well boys, I am glad this is all over," remarked the Babe, doing his very best to bear up under the reaction of his long vigil as a hold-out. "I am pleased with the terms. I think the cut is fair enough in times like these, even though I had a great year in 1931. The Yankees have always treated me very fair and I always give them my best. The pennant race ought to be a breeze for us this season."

"Babe, I wish you success for this year, and for many years to come," the colonel remarked for the sound picture recording machines. "I hope and believe that with you and the young talent we have on the club, the Yankees will win the pennant."

$757,500 Paid Ruth By Yanks in 13 Years

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Including his new $75,000 contract for his thirteenth season with the Yankees, Bab Ruth will have collected $757,500 in salary from the New York Club.

1920.....	$20,000	1927-29..	$70,000
1921.....	$30,000	1930-31..	$80,000

Tom Armour Enters Miami-Biltmore Golf

Coral Gables, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Tommy Armour, of Detroit, entered the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore golf tournament today as a favorite to win the top prize of $2,500.

He was one of eight professionals and three amateurs who filed late entry, bringing the field to 86. The first round of the 72-hole medal competition starts Friday.

Armour, British open champion, teamed with Ed Dudley, of Concordville, Pa., and Boca Raton, Fla., to win the international four-ball tournament here last week. Dudley also entered the Miami-Biltmore tourney today.

MILSTEAD TO WRESTLE.

Milford, Conn., March 16 (U.P.).—Century Allen Milstead, former all-America football player of Yale University, signed a contract to wrestle for three years under the management of Harry Van Hoven, of Baltimore, at Milstead's home here today. Milstead will wrestle in the so-called Jack Curley ranks.

Lloyd Brown's Sore Arm Deemed Serious

Special to The Washington Post.

Biloxi, Miss., March 16.—Apprehension crept into the Nats' training camp for the first time this season when Lloyd Brown, southpaw pitching mainstay, came down with a sore pitching arm deemed serious enough to necessitate an X-ray.

Brown hurt his elbow when he suffered a fall in practice a few days ago and the soreness has persisted. The X-ray pictures today revealed no evidence, however. Brown will be withheld from the exhibition games for the next week and until improvement is shown.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

St. Petersburg, March 16 (A.P.).—With Babe Ruth playing his first exhibition game of the season, the New York Yankees came from behind to defeat the Boston Braves, 8 to 5, in eleven innings today.

Frank Crosetti, Pacific Coast rookie, led the Yankees' attack, however, coming through with a single, a double and a triple. The Babe failed to get a hit. He was called out on strikes twice, got on base twice as the result of a base on balls and an error, flied out once and grounded out his sixth time at the plate.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—The first string Browns, through the tight pitching of Blaeholder and Cooney, defeated the Yannigans, 2 to 1, in a seven-inning practice game here today.

Jack Kloza, recruit outfielder, suffered a badly bruised hand when struck by a ball pitched by Blaeholder and was unable to continue in the game.

New Orleans, La., March 16 (A.P.).—Eddie Montague's home-run clout over the left field fence in the fourth inning with Luke Sewell on base, gave the Cleveland Indians a 7-to-6 win over the New Orleans Pelicans today. Eddie's homer was the first of the Indian Exhibition series.

Today's game was also the first in which the Indian pitchers have not held the upper hand. None of the three Tribe hurlers proved effective. The Pels gathered three runs off Belve Bean in the sixth and two more in the seventh when Monte Pearson walked four men and then cut loose with a wild pitch.

GULFPORT, Miss., March 16.—The Nats snatched another ball game away from the Baltimore Orioles this afternoon by the simple expedient of grouping four hits and a base on balls for three runs in the seventh inning that wiped out Baltimore's lead and sealed the victory for Washington by a score of 6 to 3.

The Nats supplied the knockout to the Orioles for the second day in succession without benefit of the regular outfield which was sojourning in Biloxi after a long workout this morning. Heinie Manush, Carl Reynolds and Sammy West were excused from the competition by Manager Johnson, but the team as composed this afternoon was able to muster again 13 hits off the best pitching that the Baltimore club could summon.

Beryl Richmond, leading twirler of the International League; Ken Holloway, former Detroit Tiger ace, and Harry Smythe, another of the Oriole mainstays, twirled three innings each and each yielded at least one run with the climatic attack in the seventh staged at the expense of Smythe.

Weaver Pleases Johnson.

Manager Johnson was given a pleasing eyeful by big Monte Weaver, erstwhile Oriole and now a valued member of the Nats' pitching staff, who stole the show from a hurling standpoint this afternoon. Weaver sandwiched his three innings of toil between similar stretches by Carl Fischer and Mike Delaney, and to be brief in his praise, it may be said that he set the Orioles down with no hits and no runs and left the game without a ball being hit out of the infield off his delivery.

Only nine men faced Weaver, who was winding up in midseason form and flinging his fast ball down the alley in true workman-like manner. There was not the semblance of a hit by the Orioles as Weaver bore down upon them with his high-hopping smoke ball. His 1932 debut in the Nats' spring exhibition season was a complete success and justified the confidence of Johnson, who already accounts him as a regular member of the staff.

Seven hits were the allotment of the Orioles off the Nats' pitching, with five debited to Carl Fischer, the southpaw whom Johnson is placing great dependence upon this season. Three runs the Orioles gained off Fischer in the first three innings to establish themselves in a 3-1 lead.

Mike Delaney, given the 5-3 lead to protect in the last three innings, acquitted himself creditably. This right-handed youth, with no previous experience in organized baseball, gave the Orioles a hit in each of the seventh and eighth after two were out and set them down in order in the ninth.

Myer Safe on Swinging Bunt.

A bunting attack brought victory to the Nats in the seventh. Buddy Myer led off the inning, with the Nats one run in arrears, by making first safely on one of his copyrighted swinging bunts. Sam Rice walked after attempting to bunt and Boyle filled the bases with a safe bunt down the third base line. Myer scored while Cronin forced Boyle, and Dave Harris brought Rice home with a clean single to center. Bluege's hit to left field scoring Cronin.

LADY LEGS SCORES UPSET IN FEATURE AT TROPICAL PARK

Heavily Backed Bacciocco No Better Than Second.

Buddy Ensor Puts Up Great Ride on the Winner.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—J. L. Johnston's filly, Lady Legs, with Buddy Ensor in the saddle, made her first start since winning a cheap race at this track March 3, and surprised a big crowd by scoring an easy victory over some good sprinters in the Biltmore Claiming Purse here today. The daughter of Upset, only horse to beat Man o' War, swept past the flag pole with a three lengths advantage over the heavily backed Bacciocco, to return $44.20 for a $2 ticket.

Whileaway annexed third money, beaten three parts of a length for the place award. Lady Legs ran the five and a half furlongs distance in the fast time of 1:05 flat.

Lady Legs Rushes to the Front.

Ensor and his mount outbroke the field and immediately rushed into a lead of open daylight over Single Star and Bacciocco. The latter did not get into his best stride until leaving the back stretch, when he moved up to supply chief contention. The gelding could not threaten Lady Legs although hard ridden, the winner being well under control. Whileaway closed very fast to beat Single Star.

Red Face, which J. Edwards acquired for $1,000 yesterday in the paddock sale, made an auspicious beginning in his new silks by registering a nose victory over Princess Zelda in the fifth race, paying $23.90 and earning $600 of his purchase price. Lawyer, the choice, lost the place by three parts of a length. Alfred Robertson scored a double by guiding home the winner in clever fashion. He rated his mount close behind the two leaders, Lawyer and Princess Zelda, to the middle of the bend. Then Red Face responded to urging and took the decision in the very last nod.

Lucky Dan Takes Feature At New Orleans.

New Orleans, March 16 (A.P.).—Lucky Dan, never better than third in five starts since October 12 at Latonia, came through with a half-length victory in the one-and-one-sixteenth-mile feature at the Fair Grounds today. It was his fourth start of the winter season.

Ridden by Gilbert Elston and carrying the silks of Mrs. A. Luzader, the 5-year-old son of Lucky Hour ran in third place to the head of the stretch, moved up into second and then outgamed R. H. New's Frumper in the run for the judges stand. R. C. Thatcher's Reverberate was third.

Despite his inconsistent performances, Lucky Dan was well backed in the mutuels, paying $7.20. He ran the distance in 1:47 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RESOLD, $6.40, $3.20, $3.10; NORMAN, $18.70, $8.80; PANCOAST, $4.10.

RESOLD raced on the outside of the pacemakers from the start and was carried very wide entering home stretch. He finished with great courage and outgamed NORMAN in final drive. Latter broke well and was a keen contender all the way. He hung at end after carrying PANCOAST and VANDEROO along at a fast clip. PANCOAST, very fractious at post, unseated his rider in one of his lunges. VANDEROO stopped under a drive.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. Combination race. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:14. Off at 3:14½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALLENS, $3.00, $2.90, $2.90; BLANKET BAY, $8.50, $5.80; CLARINDA, $19.60.

ALLENS broke from the outside and went to the front with a rush. He was taken in hand after opening up a commanding lead first furlong. BLANKET BAY saved ground all the way, but was driving at end to stall off CLARINDA. MONTGOMERY MAID was gaining at end. LADY ARA was on the outside in middle of track all the way. NARDO stumbled just as the break came and unseated his rider.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. Combination race. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:45. Off at 3:46½. Winner, J. W. May's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHARLEIGH, $3.50, $2.90, $2.60; HARUM SCARUM, $4.30, $3.00; CHIEF'S CAMILLE, $2.70.

CHARLEIGH, rated along with ROSE TOURNAMENT until rounding the far turn, where he moved into an easy lead, drew away entering home stretch, but had to be hustled along at end. HARUM SCARUM, outrun first half, worked his way up next the inside rail. He closed strong. ROSE TOURNAMENT, speedy but a nonstayer. BLOND KNIGHT ran well for five furlongs.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:14½. Off at 4:18. Winner, J. L. Johnston's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADY LEGS, $44.20, $9.70, $4.30; BACCIOCCO, $3.00, $2.80; WHILEAWAY, $10.90.

LADY LEGS outbroke her field and drew away first furlong. She raced in hand all the way. BACCIOCCO broke slowly and Hanford immediately went to work on him, but was never able to get to the leader and had to be hard ridden at end to stall off WHILEAWAY. Latter closed in resolute fashion. SINGLE STAR tired.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Bird of Prey. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:48. Off at 4:52. Winner, J. Edward's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RED FACE, $23.90, $10.00, $4.30; PRINCESS ZELDA, $5.10, $3.40; LAWYER, $3.80.

RED FACE, outrun first half, moved up on the outside rounding the far turn and fought it out with PRINCESS ZELDA and LAWYER all last furlong. He was up in the final stride. PRINCESS ZELDA, rated under slight restraint first half mile, responded full of courage when called on, but faltered right at end after disposing of LAWYER. Latter set a fast early pace, but huge when put to a drive. GRIFFIN, poorly handled, was messed about and in trouble all the way.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:22½. Winner, F. E. Moore's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HOMEWORK, $49.50, $17.20, $11.50; SPANFAIR, $4.10, $2.70; PARTIES, $8.20.

HOMEWORK went to the front rounding first turn, but was taken in hand when LUCKY RACKET rushed to the front and raced in hand until straightened out for the final run, came again under punishment and was up in final stride. SPANFAIR, taken back off the early pace, moved up on outside with a rush rounding far turn, but hung last sixteenth. PARTIES closed stoutly on inside.

SEVENTH RACE—About one and one-quarter miles. Purse, $900; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:51. Off at 5:52. Winner, J. E. Fletcher's ch. g. (6), by Fair Play—Speedy Girl. Trained by J. P. Mayberry. Value to winner, $675; second, $150; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 3-5, 1:39 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR BILL, $10.90, $4.20, $3.80; WAR SAINT, $4.30, $3.80; GARLIC, $3.90.

FAIR BILL reached contention earlier than usual, moving up fast after leaving back stretch. WAR SAINT broke fast, had the speed of the field, raced INFERNO LAD into early submission and held on gamely in final drive. GARLIC, badly outfooted for six furlongs, gained rapidly when in his stride, but faltered under extreme pressure last sixteenth. INFERNO LAD and BATTLING ON stopped.

—Tropical Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

TROPICAL PARK, Miami, Fla., March 16.—Tropical Park features the juvenile handical for 2-year-olds, at a half mile, tomorrow. The best 2-year-olds in winter racing have been entered. C. V. Whitney will send a pair to the post—CAPSHEAF, which set a new record for a half mile on Tuesday, and SLAPSTICK, a first starter, which has worked fast. The entry looks much the best.

CAPSHEAF ran a half-mile in 0:48 flat, and led all the way. IPRAL is consistent, and has equaled the old record, one-fifth of a second slower than the mark set by the Whitney juvenile. MEANY should hold the others safe. NEWS REEL, which has been running well in Havana, has been given top weight by the track handicapper, but this will be his first start at the Gables Association track.

FIRST RACE—PRINCETON, beaten as favorite several times this winter, should need a good alibi if he fails in the opener. BOB BLACKBURN, whose last race found him second to The Heathen appears next best of the large field. BARN DANCE, second in his last start to Morden, should be as good as third.

SECOND RACE—JACK HOWE has the speed of the second. He is not consistent always, but in his race at this distance he won over THE HEATHEN in 1:05 3-5. THE HEATHEN will meet him again, and should again be the contender. MAE SWEEP will not have to improve over her last race to get the third money. She was second to Calgary Kay last out.

THIRD RACE — MY PURCHASE should repeat. The colt won his last start from Jambalaya. PANCHO LOPEZ is the dangerous contender. JAMBALAYA will have BAY ANGON to beat for third money.

FIFTH RACE — GLENSIDE should lead the field home after having finished third to Coady Tuesday at a longer distance. SALISBURY should be the contender, and on his best races has a good chance to win. KENSINGTON outclasses the others. There will be no pronounced favorite in the 7-furlong dash.

SIXTH RACE—BIRD OF PREY is best. WANDERING GOLD should have little difficulty in getting second, but he runs in and out. PLAY BILL has a chance to show.

SEVENTH RACE—SILVERY has the call for the final. SCARLET BRIGADE, best at this route, can hold the others safe.

ANNADALE NINE TO MEET.

The Annadale baseball team will meet next Tuesday at the home of O. J. Downs. All players and any candidates for the team are requested to attend.

25 EASTERN GRIDMEN DRILL

Guyon, New Coach, Plans Month of Spring Work.

COACH CHUCK GUYON led 25 Eastern High football players out on the field yesterday, the first step in a spring training program which will last nearly a month, and Guyon's first touch of football coaching since he was relieved by Mike Kelley in 1928 after six years of mentoring the Eastern gridders.

Guyon has been handed a group of gilt-edge scholastic gridmen in the Mills twins and Francis Cleary, erstwhile Gonzagans. He retains from the 1931 team that club's outstanding player, Capt. Campbell, a lineman.

Next Year's Outlook Bright.

During the period between 1921 and 1928 Guyon's football teams failed to win a high school series, but threatened several times. Eastern has not been blessed with very outstanding grid talent in recent years, but its chances next year appear quite bright.

Continued cool weather has been hampering scholastic sports in general. Tech, Business and Western have been working out baseball batteries in their respective gymnasiums. Western track prospects appear a little brighter than usual this year, particularly if high school faculty advisers rule a 5-4-3-2-1 division of points in the interhigh meet.

The Western Stadium will be used later this week, if the weather warms, by trackmen and gridmen, under Dan Ahern, and baseball under Cliff Moore.

St. John's held its initial football practice yesterday on the Monument Grounds under the eye of Paully Byrne. A squad of 35 was present.

Hap Hardell's illness has cut down track at Tech, but the old marster of the track and grid games is expected back in harness by next Monday.

The board of high school faculty advisers will meet next week, with a view to outlining plans for the interhigh track meet and the naming of officials for the baseball series, which will again be played at Eastern Field.

Meet With Navy Plebes Considered.

Also up for deliberation is the proposed track meet between the Naval Academy Plebes and a combined high school team, picked from the winners of places in the several events within the high school track meet. A recommendation has been made, approved by Navy, whereby the first five finishers in each event in the interhigh meet shall be named as members of the team, a recommendation which would gain enthusiastic support from the minor figures in local high school trackdom.

Government League Fives in Title Fray

The second half title of the Government Basket Ball League, sponsored by the Federal Employees Union, will be at stake tonight when the Investigators and Bolling Field fives clash at Bolling Field at 8 o'clock. The winner will meet Census, first half champs, in a play-off series for the league title.

Special to The Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 16.—Frank Shore, defending junior champion from Washington, easily triumphed today in the second round of the Evening Sun-Fifth Regiment Junior and Boy Indoor Tenis Tournaments at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

Seeded first, Shore defeated Robert Colbert, Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, 6—2, 6—0.

Another Capital junior also advanced in second round play when Morgan Jacobs, Western High School, turned back Kenneth Myers, Baltimore City College, 6—0, 6—1.

RECORD A. A. U. SWIM FIELD

District Aces To Seek Titles

Rote, Lawrence, Alvarado Among Stars to Compete.

68 Entered in Event Tomorrow and Saturday.

A DECISION upon the order of events and the selection of meet officials was made yesterday by the District A. A. U. swimming committee, whose annual D. C. indoor tank championships will be decided tomorrow and Saturday nights at the Shoreham Hotel.

A last-minute rush of entries yesterday boosted the list to 68, the largest field ever to compete for the titles. In the field are such stars of the local tank world as Max Rote, of George Washington University, expert sprintman; Onalene Lawrence, diver and backstroke ace of the Washington Swimming Club; Constancio Alvarado, of the Ambassador Swimming Club, former Philippine Olympic breaststroke artist; Rita Augusterfer, speediest of the local girl swimmers, and a host of lesser lights of the past and present.

Three Finals Scheduled Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night will be given over largely to heats, preliminary runs having been scheduled in the sprints and breaststrokes. Three final events end tomorrow night's array of competition, the 220-yard women's freestyle, the women's fancy diving and the 300-yard men's medley relay.

Saturday night, of course, lists all finals. Activities start at 8 o'clock each night.

Order of events:

Full Card Named For Bolling Field

Cordovano to Wrestle on George-Meyers Program Next Monday.

Star wrestlers will show at Bolling Field Armory Monday night when the Bolling Field Athletic Association features another card of five events.

Thwarted by the weather in two previous starts, Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn nevertheless is crashing through with an exceptionally colorful line-up.

Karl Pojello, graceful Lithuanian, too, may experience difficulty in his co-topliner with Ivan Vakturoff. The big Russian boasts plenty of power and is exceptionally willing and aggressive.

The ticket sale starts today at Goldie Ahearn's, 500 Ninth street, and Hoya Inn, 1300 Thirty-sixth street.

Despite the caliber of the card, it has been decided to admit ladies with male escorts free save at ringside.

FRATER FIVE COPS.

The Fraters defeated the Temple A. C., 31-21 in the feature game of the Alexandria Senior League last night. In the other games the Central quintet defeated Columbia Reserves, 19-15, and the Boy Scouts triumphed over Friends, 23-19.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

It takes 291,875 "coppers," or one-cent pieces, to equal a ton in weight, which makes a ton of "coppers" worth about $2,800 more than a ton of copper.

Just as the silver in a dollar is worth less than 28 cents, the copper in a copper cent is worth far less than its face value—only about four-hundredths of a cent.

A one cent piece (not penny; a penny is English, and worth 2 cents), is 95 per cent copper—which makes a nickel contain more than a "copper."

A nickel weighs 77.16 grains, and is 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel. A one cent piece weighs 48 grains, and is 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent tin and zinc. Thus, a nickel contains 57.87 grains of copper, while a cent contains only 45.6 grains.

Hank Severeid caught 1,441 base ball games in the major leagues, and 1,000 in the minor leagues. No other catcher in organized baseball has equaled this record.

There have been innumerable instances of fish choking themselves by trying to make meals of fellows a bit too large for them. But here's one case that happened by accident. Near Harrodsburg, Ky., in December, 1931, C. N. Riker and D. W. Brummette were watching two large black bass gobbling up a school of minnows. Suddenly in the wild rush, there was a commotion—with wide open mouths, the bass collided head-on. The result is shown above. Brummette managed to hook the bass, and found three minnows in the mouth of the smaller one.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

FOR the first time since its organization in 1927 a woman is slated to hold office in the National Duckpin Congress, and it may be a Washington woman. It will all come about through the succession in office system employed by the congress.

J. H. Williams, of this city, will step down as president and be succeeded by B. W. Stonebraker, first vice president, of Roanoke, Va. C. G. Spottiswood, of Lawrence, Mass., and C. W. Eissele, of Baltimore, will move up from second and third vice president, respectively, leaving the latter office vacant. Either Charley O'Connell or Al Fischer will give up their directorship to assume the position, and a lady will get the job as director.

Lorraine Gulli and Bronson Qualtes, both of this city, are seen as the strongest candidates for the position. Mabel Shaw, Baltimore; Lillian Frisk, Hartford, Conn.; Christine Kirk, Bridgeport, Conn.; Louise Hamilton, Boston, and Myra Rannacher, Taunton, Mass., may bid for the office.

For a time the absence of a woman on the board of directors threatened to disrupt the calm demeanor of the association. It was the old argument of taxation without representation, or words to that effect. Twenty-five per cent of the teams entered in the national tournament last year were comprised of women, and this year the percentage may be greater. Women are directly responsible for the growth of the duckpin game, although they are outnumbered on the alleys by the men. The election will occur at the annual meeting to be held the second week of August at Hartford, Conn.

The Hecht Co. and Hartford Council, Knights of Columbus, are the latest entrants in the tournament. Receipt of their entries was announced yesterday by George Isemann.

Howard's 599, which was just 4 pins better than Deck's score, enabled him to win first prize in the Tennis Players Bowling League sweepstakes at King Pin No. 2 last night. Boyd was third with 594, Krause fifth with 593, and Gross sixth with 571.

On adjoining alleys the Five Greeks worked overtime collecting pins enough to sweep their match with Union Wallpaper in the King Pin Business Men's League.

Farnum's Bowling Shoes took a pair from Takoma Park in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike. The winners rolled a set of 1,757, which included a 603 game. Charley Lyons' 154 game and Mag Wood's 387 set were high.

George Virts, 19 years old, of 830 Shepherd street northwest, paid dearly for a strike at the Petworth Alleys last night. Virts fell after rolling the ball, knocking his right leg out of joint. Firemen from a nearby engine house and an ambulance from Emergency Hospital were summoned. After several minutes of deft manipulating of the limb the leg was restored to its proper position. "Well, I won," said young Virts, reclining in an easy chair at home, "but from this out I'll be satisfied with spares."

Yerkes' 137 and Clarke's 865 topped the scoring in the Bankers League at Arcadia. Washington Loan No. 2 rolled a 567 game and American Security and Trust No. 2 compiled a set of 1,643.

Paul Hart's new season record of 386 for three games and his 143 game copped the prizes in the Georgetown Church League at the same alleys. Peck No. 1 led the teams with 583 and 1,629.

D. C. Shooters Meet Orioles on Saturday

The third match of the year between the Washington Gun Club and Oriole Gun Club, of Baltimore, will be fired Saturday at the Benning range. Each team has won a victory, and the locals are hopeful of taking the deciding tilt.

New York's Stewards Shelve Ensor's Papers

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Buddy Ensor, veteran jockey who has been making a sensational comeback on Southern tracks, today was denied, temporarily at least, a license to ride in New York State.

The stewards of the Jockey Club, governing body of racing, voted to lay his application for a jockey license on the table pending a report.

A resolution was adopted tightening the ban on jockeys or trainers who take part in "outlaw" racing. It read: "On motion duly seconded, it was voted that the stewards at all meetings be, and hereby are, requested not to grant temporary jockeys or trainers licenses to any jockey or trainer who has participated during the year 1932 in half-mile track racing other than on such half-mile tracks as are duly licensed by a State racing commission or other recognized turf governing body, or racing conducted by a bona fide State, county, or other fair association for a period not exceeding five days.

DIXIANAS STILL AT IT.

SWANN NINE MEETS.

Members of the Swann Service baseball team will meet at Fourteenth and Girard streets tonight at 9 o'clock before leaving for a meeting at Manager Huston's home. Players are requested to bring last season's suits with them.

HANDBALL BLANKS READY.

Entry blanks for the District of Columbia A. A. U. handball tournament, which will be contested next month, may be procured at the Y. M. C. A. All matches will be played on the Y court. The tournament will open April 2 and continue until April 9. Jack Schwartz, Jewish Community Center, singles champion, and Channing S. Walker and William McLean, doubles champs, will defend their laurels.

munity Center, gaining the decision.

St. John's led, 13 to 7, at the half, but the A. Z. A. gradually closed the gap between the two and Levin knotted the count at 16 to 16 with a running pot shot. For three minutes there was no further scoring. Each team shot frequently and more than once the ball missed its mark by a hair's breadth. In one of these scrimmages Referee Enright called the ball out of bounds, and an A. Z. A. player forgot himself and let slip a word which caused the referee to call a technical foul on the team. Fred Scheele made good on the free toss, winning the game with less than a minute of play left.

Brookland Eagles Win From Georgetown Boys

A rally in the second half enabled the Brookland Eagles to trounce the Georgetown Boys' Club, 39 to 13. The victory advances the Eagles to the quarter-final round in the 100-pound class. All of the members of the winning team had a hand in the scoring, but Trainor and C. Robbins were the leaders in this respect. King shone for Georgetown.

Olmsted Grill Downs Business High, 35-32

Staving off a desperate rally in the waning moments of the game, Olmsted Grill scored one of the most stunning upsets of the tournament when it eliminated Business High School from further competition in the 145-pound class with a 35-32 victory.

Business led, 8-3, at the termination of the first quarter, but Dantzig, Olmsted center, rallied the Grillmen and they quickly overtook their rivals in the second half, tying the score at 8-8. Olmsted never relinquished the lead after Mike McNally put it out in front, 11-10, with a pot shot from the side.

The Stenographers brought the score to 31-28 in the final period, but Ed Wills put the game on ice for the Grillmen with a pair of pretty shots to bring his team's score to 35. Esenstad raised Business' total to 32 with a long shot just as the final whistle sounded.

Y. M. C. A. Is No Match For Clifton Barbers

Leading all the way, the Clifton Barbers experiences little difficulty in disposing of the Y. M. C. A., 32-21, in the unlimited class. The victory advances the Barbers to the quarter-final round of the tournament.

With Gleason and Keesey potting shots from all angles, the eventual winners were soon out in front by a comfortable margin. The score at the half was 15-7, with the Y. M. C. A. on the shorter end. The latter made a game, but futile rally in the final half, raising its total to 21 before the uprising was stemmed by a counter attack of the opposition.

ALEXANDRIA VOTERS PUSH COUNCIL PLAN

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The meeting of voters of Alexandria, called to convene in the George Mason Hotel last night in the interest of the council at large plan, so-called, was attended by approximately 100 persons, and was presided over by John U. Reardon, with Nelson T. Snyder acting as secretary.

The presiding officer named a nominating committee composed of Hannan Norris, chairman; Robert E. Knight, James Armstrong and Wallace Lindsey, to name an executive committee which would formulate plans for the campaign to be waged in favor of the plan to elect seven members of the city council, all from the city at large, rather than nine members, six of whom should be from the six voting wards. The committee named consisted of Taylor Burke, chairman; Harrison Emhardt, Robert M. Colvin, Harry Hammond, George E. Garrett and William T. Wilkins. This committee was later empowered to name a finance committee, it being stated by Mr. Burke that not less than $400 would be required to finance the work of the committee in circularizing the voters and explaining the advantages of the council at large plan.

Addresses were made by Capt. T. M. Hamilton, E. C. Davison, Richard B. English, Frank W. Noxon, City Attorney Carl Budwesky, former Mayor Carroll Pierce and others. Mr. English said he was seeking information as to the advantages offered by the two plans of city government. Mr. Budwesky, on behalf of the city council, explained some of the points brought out by Mr. Davison and others, particularly with regard to the tax situation in the annexed territory.

An elaborate program in connection with the celeration of St. Patrick's Day will be given at the Lyceum in Alexandria tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Washington and Alexandria talent will participate, and the proceeds will be for the benefit of St. Mary's Catholic Church. The affair will be in the form of a tea.

The Alexandria city council, at a special meeting Tuesday night, went over the proposed city parking and planning ordinance with Engineer Irving Root, and decided to hold a public hearing on the subject on a date to be decided upon as soon as the governor signs the amended city charter, which it is understood will be on March 22, this meeting being for the purpose of hearing any complaints that may be registered against the proposed ordinance, as well as any suggested changes.

The George Washington Chapter, Reserve Officers Association, completed its organization with 33 charter members, at a meeting held in Gadsby's Tavern, Alexandria, Tuesday night, and received its charter with appropriate ceremonies.

Lieut. Col. Jarvis Butler presided, and gave a brief outline of the purpose and plans of the organization; Maj. Bennett A. Molter, national secretary, outlined the object and functioning of the association, and Maj. Harley G. Dagley, U. S. Cavalry, spoke on cooperation from the Army.

Mrs. Nettie E. McLane, aged 44 years, wife of E. R. McLane, died on Tuesday night at her home, 51 East Linden street. Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters and three sons, Joyce McLane, Janet McLane, Edwin McLane, Clarence McLane and Earl McLane; her mother, Mrs. C. J. Wilkerson, of Proffet, Va., and several sisters and brothers. The funeral will take place today at Spring Hill Church, Albemarle County, Va.

Work Is Reported By Hospital Board

Woman's Group Holds Its Monthly Meeting in Sandy Spring.

Special to The Washington Post.

Sandy Spring, Md., March 16.—The monthly meeting of the Woman's Board of Montgomery County General Hospital met as guests of Mrs. Lionel C. Probert for luncheon with the hostess presiding over the business meeting. The report for the month showed that the visiting doctors included Doctors Cloman, Riley and Williams, of Baltimore; Doctors Nichols, Herbert, Sando and Zept, of Howard County; Doctors Hartley and Linthicum, of Rockville; Doctors Barbor and Broschart, of Gaithersburg; and Dr. Warren, of Laurel.

The number of patients admitted at the hospital for the past month was 86; 38 operations were performed; 88 X-ray pictures were made; 15 accident cases were treated, and 209 laboratory examinations made.

Mrs. William Mobley, of Chevy Chase, and her committee reported 1,180 surgical dressings made. Mrs. J. Janney Shoemaker's committee folded 3,600.

St. George's Club Meets Tonight.

The Men's Club of St. George's Episcopal Church will meet tonight in the parish hall at 8 o'clock. Dr. Walter A. Wells will speak on "Unusual and Little Known Activities of George Washington."

Wieman to Assist Crisler at Princeton

Princeton, N. J., March 16 (A.P.).—Elton E. (Tad) Wieman, former Michigan football player and coach and for the last two years first assistant to H. O. (Fritz) Crisler at the University of Minnesota, has been signed as assistant to Crisler in charge of football at Princeton University.

The announcement was made today by Dr. Charles B. Kennedy, chairman of the board of athletic control.

Wieman was signed to a three-year contract, as was Crisler as head coach, and will take up his duties April 4 when spring practice begins.

'Feminist Move' Crushing Mother-Love Among Ducks

"Bachelor Girls" of Species Are Mimicking Males and Female Parents Are Leaving Care of Young to Mates, Smithsonian Workers Assert.

(United Press.)

Mother-love among ducks is apparently being crushed by a "feminist movement."

This theory was advanced yesterday by Herbert Friedmann, curator of birds at the Smithsonian Institution, as an explanation for strange and wondrous phenomena reported by observers of wild duck families in many places. For instance:

Two well-known American species, the redhead and canvassback, building "dumping nests," in which the eggs are laid and at once deserted.

The black-headed ducks of the Argentine lay almost all their eggs in the nests of such birds as swans and hawks, leaving the unsuspecting host mothers to hatch the babies.

Among the ruddy ducks of North America and Europe, one female will try to trick another of the same species into hatching her eggs by laying them in another nest, according to Friedmann. After the young are hatched, the mother pays little attention to them. The fathers have to take care of the ducklings. Sometimes they even give a mother's care to neglected families other than their own.

Moreover, Dr. Alexander Wetmore, of the Smithsonian, reports that unmated female ruddy ducks commonly mimic the males. Dr. Friedmann conjectures that this indicates the emergence of a sort of "bachelor girl" duck who prefers to lead her own life without being bothered by home, husband or children.

Such a "feminist" movement could be possible only under special circumstances which permit the young to be hatched and raised without a mother's devotion. Otherwise it would mean the extinction of the species, but apparently the female ducks, says Friedmann, are able to have careers of their own without bringing this catastrophe on their kind.

Friedmann believes this is due to a special quality of the duck egg itself. In those species where there is the greatest "feminist" activity, experiments show the eggs can be hatched with little attention.

"Whether this quality in the egg has developed because of the increasing dissatisfaction of the mother with her sex role or whether it came first and tended to break down the mother instincts is unknown," says the Smithsonian.

BUDGET IS ADOPTED BY FAIRFAX BOARD

General County Levy Raised 10 Cents to Create Emergency Fund.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

Adopting the annual county budget for the next fiscal year with minor changes, the Fairfax County board of supervisors yesterday abolished the proposed county road levy of 80 cents on the $100 property valuation and increased the general county levy 10 cents to create an emergency fund. The action means that the individual taxpayer will receive the benefit of a reduction amounting to 80 cents from last year and 70 cents under the proposed budget for next year.

This action was brought about by passage of the Byrd bill by the State Legislature last week. Under this act the State highway commission will take over the maintenance of all county roads, unless the people of a county vote to exclude themselves from the provisions of the act prior to July 1.

In event the present county highway plan is continued by the voters the supervisors agreed that the emergency fund raised by the 10-cent levy would be set up for road purposes. This fund, combined with the county's share of accumulated gasoline taxes, delinquent tax collections and other road accounts would create a balance of approximately $100,000 to carry on road work until taxes are collected in 1933. Manager Larkin told the board if the program adopted some time ago in connection with road work could be carried out to completion without interference of the new Byrd law, all county roads would be improved and at the same time the county road levy would be reduced 10 cents each year for the next five years, after which no road levy would be necessary. The roads could all be maintained at that time by the county's share of the gasoline tax.

Other changes made in next year's budget yesterday by the board before it was finally adopted included a $500 reduction in the item of election costs.

Dr. F. W. Huddleson, county treasurer, appeared to ask that the district levy for Dranesville district road bond issue sinking fund and interest be increased so as to pay adequately the annual interest on this account. He stated that for several years the amount levied, due partially to delinquent taxes, had failed to meet the interest. A deficit of approximately $7,000 will exist in this fund, accumulated over several years, when the payment of interest is made in July. He asked the board to relieve him of this situation. The board voted to advance the fund from the road account to meet the obligation and to increase the Dranesville levy 15 cents for the next two years, instead of the 30-cent levy next year alone. The bond issue road levy in this district will total $1.05 for the next two years as the result of yesterday's action.

Fairfax Postpones Bicentennial Fete

Pageant to Be Held on July 18, Anniversary of Famous Resolves.

The Fairfax, Va., George Washington Bicentennial celebration committee, meeting last night at the home of George B. Robey, decided to change the date of the local celebration and pageant from May 14 to July 18, and to invite the organizations of the entire county to participate and make it a county celebration.

July 18 was selected because it is the anniversary of the signing of the famous Fairfax resolves, signed in 1774 at Alexandria, then the county seat of Fairfax County. These Resolves were drafted by the county's most noted citizens, George Washington and George Mason, who is best known as the author of the Virginia Bill of Rights. They protested the tyrannies of England on the Colonies and a number of them are embodied in the Declaration of Independence.

A pageant will be held on the courthouse green at Fairfax depicting the Fairfax convention and the signing of the Resolves, all the characters being dressed in Colonial costumes. Other famous events in the county's history will also be portrayed.

Registration Set in Hyattsville.

The voters in Hyattsville who desire to vote in the town elections in May will have a chance to register on April 11. Registration for all four wards will be held in the Municipal Building. April 18 has been set by the town council as the date for revision. Herbert J. Moffatt has been appointed judge and Mrs. Edward S. Hislop was named clerk.

DR. ELLICOTT IS DUE TO GET HEALTH POST

Expected to Be Named Today by Commissioners in Montgomery.

Dr. Valcoulon LeMoyne Ellicott, of the Baltimore Health Department, today probably will be named county health officer for Montgomery County, Md., by the Montgomery County commissioners at their meeting in Rockville, Md. He has been recommended for the appointment by Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, of Bethesda, Md., former president of the board of county commissioners, and Dr. H. H. Riley, chairman of the State board of health, of which Dr. Perry also is a member.

The position includes a deputy health officership of the State and supervision of the recently completed laboratory at Rockville, which is said to be one of the best in the State. It pays a salary of $4,500 a year.

Dr. Ellicott is well known in Maryland for his work while epidemiologist for the Baltimore health department, especially for his research work in the recent outbreak of psittacosis or parrot fever, which alarmed the whole country and barred parrots from the U. S. Navy. He conducted extensive researches into whether the fever is transmissible from person to person. He also has conducted other researches into causes of epidemics.

Dr. Perry stated last night he considers Dr. Ellicott one of the best qualified men available for the post. Dr. Ellicott married Miss Mary P. Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarendon I. T. Gould, whose father is well known in Baltimore Republican circles.

2 Fined $200 Each On Liquor Counts

Capital Resident Pleads Guilty to Charges in Hyattsville.

Pleading guilty to transportation and possession of 20 half-barrels of beer, Victor Juliano, of 2105 Fourth street northeast, was fined $200 in Hyattsville police court yesterday. He was also fined $5 for speeding. Analysis of two samples showed one of them contain 3.55 per cent and the other 4.15 per cent of alcohol.

The trial of Raymond Watts, son of the Hyattsville jailer, on charges of receiving stolen money, was continued until State's Attorney Alan Bowie can investigate the case. Watts, who is the son of L. C. Watts, was said to have received money from Harvey Parker. Parker was accused of burglary and breaking and entering H. L. Howard's filling station, but his case also was continued.

Herman E. Grimm, who told Judge J. Chew Sheriff he had been in court before and even corrected the judge on the location of the court at that time, was fined $200 when he pleaded guilty to charges of transportation and possession. He was arrested by Policeman Ralph Brown with fifteen cases on the Riggs road. A charge of speeding against him cost an additional $5.

Federation Meeting Postponed.

The executive committee meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation scheduled for tonight has been postponed until tomorrow evening. The meeting will be held at the home of the president, Robert N. Anderson, Lyon Village, at 8 o'clock.

St. Patrick's Day Dance Set Tonight.

A St. Patrick's Day dance will be held tonight by the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department at its new fire hall at Cabin John Park, Md. The dance will be the first public affair in the new dance hall. The firemen will hold elections tomorrow night at the fire hall.

Jury Dismissed in Robbery Case.

A jury in the Circuit Court of Arlington County having deliberated several hours over the case of Clerks Alsbrooks, of Washington, colored, charged with highway robbery, failed to reach a verdict and was dismissed by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. Alsbrooks was remanded to jail awaiting a new trial.

Marlboro Music Fete April 1.

The spring music festival of the Marlboro, Md., school will be presented on April 1 at Trinity Hall, under direction of Miss Maud Gibbons. Miss Mary Bennett and teachers of the elementary school. A flower pageant, choral singing, solos, duets, dances and instrumental music are on the program.

Minstrel Show Begins Tonight.

The Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department will hold its twelfth annual minstrel show in the auditorium of the firemen's hall tonight, tomorrow and Saturday nights at 8 o'clock.

TWO ARE ARRAIGNED IN 'HI-JACKING' CASE

Chief Deputy's Son and Aid Waive Preliminary in Prince Georges.

Deputy Sheriff Newton James and Tom (Honey) Garrison, son of Chief Deputy Tom Garrison, of Prince Georges County, waived a preliminary hearing when arraigned in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday on charges of "hi-jacking." They agreed to stand trial on charges of possession of liquor in police court, but asked that this case be continued until the circuit court has disposed of the hi-jacking charges.

The pair are charged with holdup and robbery and conspiracy. Another warrant accused them of receiving $44 for the release of a load of liquor and two colored men. According to Policeman Ralph Brown, this $44 was part of $250 demanded for the return of the contraband.

The owner of the liquor and the two colored men were in court yesterday to testify against James and Garrison, but were not called. The liquor, which was seized last Thursday was later stolen from Garrison's garage.

Montgomery Police Code Proposal Up March 23

The proposed police code for suburban Montgomery County, Md., will be discussed at a meeting of representatives of civic and municipal bodies of the Bethesda district and the public improvements committee of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, which will be held at 8 p. m., March 23, at the Montgomery County Building in Bethesda.

The meeting is being held under auspices of the chamber of commerce and has been called by E. J. Murphy, chairman. County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, in charge of Bethesda district, and Capt. Joseph C. Ciasel, of counsel to the county commissioners, have been invited to attend.

Teachers to Get Plea to Aid Idle

Prince Georges Instructors to Be Asked to Give One Day's Pay.

Letters asking teachers in Prince Georges County schools to give one day's pay to charity will be sent out soon by the Association Charities of Hyattsville, according to Judge Retta Morris, president of the organization. An intense campaign for contributions from persons other than Government workers also will be initiated.

The drive is made necessary by a serious shortage of funds. Last week $400 was paid to unemployed men who were given jobs on public improvements, this being the largest weekly pay roll of the winter. The approach of spring has not brought any decrease in the number of appeals for aid, Mrs. Morris said.

Work being done by jobless in the Memorial Park in Bladensburg will be finished shortly, and the force will be moved to Magruder Park in Hyattsville, where an extensive plan of improvements has been made. Later the men will be put to work on the Hyattsville High School's athletic field.

Roy Braden Is Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting

Roy S. Braden, manager of Arlington County, was principal speaker yesterday at the weekly meting of the Arlington County Kiwanis Club. He spoke on "Community Interest," and was introduced by John F. Webster, chairman of the program committee.

Edith Reed, at the piano, and Blanche Arison, with a guitar, provided music. A delegation from the Washington Chapter of Kiwanis attended the meeting. Amos C. Crounse, president of the Arlington County Kiwanis, presided at the meeting.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

INTERVIEW WITH AN AVERAGE AMERICAN ON A DEPLORABLE SITUATION.

Q.—WHY are police departments?

A.—That's what I've been wondering, too.

Q.—Does the training of a State police force end when the boys learn to ride motorcycles?

A.—You took the words out of my mouth.

Q.—How much information must an American police force, detective bureau or constabulary (Federal, State or municipal) have about a crime before it can get even a remote idea of who the criminals were and which way they went?

A.—You'd be surprised.

* * * *

Q.—Don't you think the pursuit is somewhat slowed up in most cases by the desire of the investigating authorities to get into all the group photographs?

A.—"Somewhat slowed up" is putting it mildly. A modern search doesn't even get into first speed until all the flashlight powder has been burned up.

Q.—There used to be a basic theory held by capable investigators that officers hunting criminals should keep their faces and features fairly secret. Whatever became of it?

A.—Everybody's wondering.

Q.—Why does the Nation, the State and the city now tolerate the fact that so few investigating agents begin work on a crime until they have cooperated completely in the relatively unimportant work of getting their photographs in the hands of all the news agencies.

A.—You explain it; I'm muddled enough. I heard a report that 58 detectives quit the Lindbergh case last week because they weren't satisfied with the way they screened in the news reels.

* * * *

Q.—Don't you think it might help in avoiding cold trails if police, sleuths, district attorneys, mayors, governors, &c, agreed to pose for their pictures after the crime had been solved instead of before?

A.—I think it would be wonderful, but will America stand for it?

Q.—If old-time detectives frequently solved baffling murder mysteries, kidnapings, &c., with nothing but a strand of hair to work on, don't you think it odd that our modern sleuths are so slow doing anything with a clew as big as a stepladder?

A.—Not when you stop to consider that when the police arrived there was nobody on the stepladder.

* * * *

Q.—HOW do you react to the spectacle of the country's most notorious beer runner and tax dodger offering to help restore a stolen baby to prostrated parents if the Government will lighten his prison term?

A.—Having been an observer of the American scene for the last decade, nothing makes me sick.

* * * *

Q. Who do you think may head our Department of Justice, our Secret Service, our police and our constabulary of 1933 if this sort of thing continues?

A. Scarface Capone, Owney Madden and Vannie Higgins would probably get the jobs, but they'd have to see that Bitz and Spitale got gold badges, too.

* * * *

Or the Try-Again President?

President von Hindenburg barely lost the German election, and will have to run again in a second poll. How about calling him the Iron Second Chancellor?

* * * *

The Flower Show is on again in New York. The usual custom of naming a flower after some national notable will be followed, and we look, the trend being what it is, for the Scarface Capone Rose and the Irving Blitz Chrysanthemum.

* * * *

Party Plank Demands.

1. A ban on "Sweet Mystery of Life" on the radio for at least 90 days.
2. No more pears at banquet tables.
3. A moratorium on all back payments on the ice box and auto.
4. Fewer lawyers who will defend anybody for a price.
5. A ban on the word "constructive" in all White House speeches.

WASHINGTON STANDS TENTH IN BUILDING

Permits in February Total $1,015,000; List Covers 583 Cities and Towns.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Washington's total valuation of $1,015,620 in building projects for February places it tenth in a list of 583 cities and towns in the country, construction statistics on which have just been compiled by S. W. Straus & Co.

Washington was also among a list of nine cities registering advances over the same month in 1930, others being San Francisco, Cambridge, Mass.; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Biloxi, Miss.; Austin, Tex.; Appleton, Wis.; Jacksonville, Fla., and San Jose, Calif. New York City headed the list.

Total valuation of building permits in the cities covered by the February survey was $45,326,719, representing a 6 per cent decline from January, 1932, when the volume for these cities was $48,225,143. The normal seasonal expected increase at this period is 9.1 per cent.

Permits issued during February, 1932, fell 59.4 per cent below the month in 1931.

As a group, the 25 cities reporting the largest volume of building permits for the month show an increase of 6.7 per cent above January, a decline of 55 per cent from February, 1931, and 50.8 per cent from February, 1930.

Ten of the cities making gains over February, 1931, were Cincinnati, Cambridge, Fort Wayne, Biloxi, Long Beach, Calif.; Austin, Memphis, Appleton, Jacksonville and San Jose.

Ideas by Employes.

Ideas submitted by employes for improving the service and operation of the Pennsylvania Railroad are making an increasingly large contribution to present-day efficiency, according to an announcement by W. W. Atterbury, president of the railroad.

After four years of operation, the railroad's bureau of new ideas is now producing approximately 2,500 practical suggestions every year. President Atterbury said that more than one-third of these ideas were found workable and adopted by the company last year.

New Bond Department.

In line with the movement on the part of many investment houses to extend their activities into the municipal bond field, Hemphill, Noyes & Co. with local offices announce the opening of a municipal bond department under the management of Winfield F. Stephens. Harry B. Parrott also will be associated with the new department. Coincident with this announcement it was stated that Stephens & Co., specialists in municipal bonds, would retire from active business.

Directors of National Metropolitan Bank yesterday declared a dividend of 5 per cent on the bank's stock payable April 15. Books will be closed for transfer of stock from April 5 to April 14, both dates inclusive.

The directorate of Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. has declared the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock of the company of $1.75 per share to stockholders of record March 21. Books will be closed March 21 to March 31, both dates inclusive. The dividend is payable April 1.

Assets of Investors Syndicate with offices here, total $47,585,595.41, showing an increase of $939,376.86 since the first of the year, according to the February 29 balance sheet of the company, made public by E. M. Richardson, secretary and treasurer. Capital, surplus and reserves equal $6,259,419.67, the report shows, a gain of $66,741.24 since the first of the year.

Short Selling on Gain Despite February Drop

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—In spite of a substantial decline in the short interest in New York stock issues in February, the percentage of "in and out" short trading was slightly larger than in January, representing 6.3 per cent of total transactions against 6.1 per cent.

"In and out" selling is that in which the stock is repurchased on the same day it is sold.

FORD DELAY BLAMED FOR DROP IN STEEL

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The slowness of Ford and other motor manufacturers to release substantial orders for steel has been a large factor in a two-point recession in the ingot output rate this week, according to Iron Age.

Production is at 25 per cent of capacity for the country as a whole.

Ford orders were placed this week for steel for 20,000 to 30,000 cars, but this represents only a small part of the contemplated production schedule for the near future, the Review said.

There has been a slight expansion in the calls for steel from the railroads and for building construction, but the aggregate of such tonnage is having no appreciable effect on mill order books or output.

Price stabilization in steel products is making progress, the Review asserted. Reinforcing bars at Chicago will be advanced $2 a ton along with merchant bars, with the possibility that Pittsburgh and Buffalo will make the same price.

Cotton Exports Show Increase for Season

(Associated Press.)

Cotton exports jumped almost 25 per cent during the first seven months of the present cotton season as compared with the previous season.

The Textile Division of the Commerce Department announced yesterday that 8,925,000 bales had been exported from August, 1931, when the cotton season opened, through February. This was an increase of 1,015,000 bales over the exports for the corresponding months of the previous season.

The Far East continues the principal factor in the larger cotton shipments. Japan took 1,695,000 bales during the 1931-32 period, compared with 732,000 the previous year.

China's takings were about three times as large as previously, but no figures were given for China.

Italy increased its takings by 97,000; but the United Kingdom took 863,000, the same as last year.

Exports to Germany and France were smaller, shipments to the latter country totaling 247,000 bales against 787,000 the previous year.

Exports for January and February were 1,890,000 bales, compared with 966,000 for January and February, 1931. The value of cotton exported during the first two calendar months of 1932 aggregated about $73,000,000, as compared with $56,000,000 for cotton exported during the first two months of 1931.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

STOCKS were heavy and sluggish, influenced by delayed orders for motor steel and poor rail earning reports for February. The Stockholm Exchange announced some Kreuger issues would be stricken from the list when trading is resumed Monday.

BONDS were off, also, with particular weakness noted in the foreign department.

CURB stocks were weak, with pronounced dips in oils.

COTTON ruled firm and practically unchanged.

STOCKHOLM TO OMIT KREUGER QUOTATION

Exchange Reopening Monday to Drop From Listings Prices of Issues.

Stockholm, Sweden, March 16 (A. P.).—The stock exchange committee announced tonight that quotations of Kreuger & Toll shares and participating debentures, as well as the company's 5 per cent loan of 1929 (its dollar loan) will not be listed when the stock exchange reopens on Monday.

M. Beifrage, director of the exchange, said today he was unable to make any definite statement regarding rumors current here that foreign speculators had been carrying on very considerable deals in Kreuger shares in Sweden.

The director said brokers of firms admitted to the bourse had loyally obeyed the request to abstain from all operations while the bourse was closed.

Before the official announcement of Kreuger & Toll suspension came today, the Swedish press said all other shares under the Kreuger banner, including match shares, will be quoted when the exchange reopens.

The stock exchange was ordered closed after Ivar Kreuger, head of the vast Kreuger interests, committed suicide in Paris on Saturday. The company at that time announced its affairs were being examined and that Mr. Kreuger's act was attributable to overwork.

The Swedish Riksdag passed a measure of temporary relief for all debtors, including the Kreuger & Toll interests.

Dividend Action Delayed By International Match

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Directors of the International Match Co. at their meeting today omitted action with regard to payment of quarterly dividends on the preferred and common stocks. The dividends are ordinarily payable April 15. Previously the company paid $1 quarterly on each class of stock.

Failure of the management to act on the dividends was ascribed by Wall street to the unsettlement growing out of the suicide of Ivar Kreuger last Saturday.

International Match Co. is one of the principal units of the Kreuger & Toll organization. All of the common stock is held by the Swedish Match Co., the main holding company for the Kreuger & Toll Match Manufacturing enterprises.

Stockholders of the American Cigar Co. have approved the lease of the company's business to the American Tobacco Co. They also approved the sale to American Tobacco of inventories and other assets.

Baltimore & Ohio Omits Dividend

Preferred Stock Earning Is Passed First Time Since 1899.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. voted today to omit the $1 quarterly dividend on the preferred stock.

Omission of the dividend was not unexpected, in view of the steady decline in the price of the stock during the past few weeks, from its 1932 high of 41. Over the last few days it has been selling around 22, with no great amount of support evident.

This is the first omission of a preferred dividend by Baltimore & Ohio since the road came out of reorganization in 1899. The common dividend was omitted in December, 1931.

In suspending dividends on its senior issue, the Baltimore & Ohio has taken the same step as Illinois Central and St. Louis-San Francisco, both of which ceased preferred stock payments this year because of the severe slump in earnings.

The board's action was announced without comment, but the decision caused no surprise in view of the heavy shrinkage in earnings and recent weakness of the shares on the stock exchange. A substantial saving toward meeting fixed charges will be effected, since 588,632 preferred shares are outstanding, requiring an annual disbursement of $2,354,528 to meet the $4 rate.

By JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer).

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Adverse dividend and trade news imposed on today's stock market a weight of evidence which Wall street, in its current mood, was unable to counterbalance with any favorable arguments at its immediate disposal.

The decline was quiet, but it also was steady, after a brief period of firmness following the opening. Events of the financial day worked in favor of a decline and optimists found themselves, for the moment, rather uncomfortably jostled.

Bonds had a very dull time of it, although a new high-grade issue was quickly oversubscribed.

The heaviness in stocks was general. Rails gave what the technicians called an unfavorable performance, yet on the average they did better than industrials or utilities. In the latter group several stocks stood out because of their reaction to specific developments. R. H. Macy lost more than 8 points on an unexpected dividend cut to $2 annually from $3.

International Match Drops.

International Match preferred lost 4½ points when its directors omitted the $1 payment, an action that had no official explanation. Kreuger & Toll was offered in substantial volume when it was learned that the Stockholm Exchange, on its reopening next Monday, would remove the issue from trading there.

General Motors slipped into new low ground under afternoon selling. U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Sears-Roebuck, Consolidated Gas and North American were off 1 or more points, together with such rails as Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and New York Central.

Turnover was slightly less than yesterday's, amounting to 1,464,264 shares.

One of the day's chief disappointments came in the weekly steel production estimate of Iron Age. This review placed current operations at a 25 per cent national average, a reduction of 2 points, which meant that the industry had settled back to a basis approximating last December's level.

Motor car demands have fallen far short of expectations, for Ford has not yet placed the large orders which seemed to be assured a few weeks ago, and other automobile manufacturers are still waiting. There is insufficient other business to take up the slack. Prices appear to be stabilized at higher quotations, but whether they have been tested there is another matter.

The Curb Market remained under moderate selling pressure most of the day and the list generally drifted lower, in sympathy with the heaviness of the big board. Trading quickened a little, the turnover aggregating 200,000 shares.

Bond & Share Prices.

The Electric Bond & Share issues were again sold in some volume. The common dipped a fraction to a new low at 7½. Commonwealth Edison sagged 1½ points to 90, and American Gas & Electric was off a fraction.

Gulf Oil's report showing a large deficit for 1931 appeared to have been anticipated, for the stock declined only 1½ points, to 26½, then closed at 27. Oils generally were somewhat inclined to sag.

A notable firm spot in the industrials was United Shoe Machinery, which advanced a point, to 40¼, the best price of the year. This company's business is understood to have held up well, in view of the good rate of shoe output over the past few months.

However, the trend in general was downward in the industrial group.

The bond market drifted feebly. Although underlying sentiment was inclined to improve mildly, the buying urge was absent in most categories and prices sagged.

REICHSBANK REPORT ECHOES 1931 CRISIS

Figures Portray Struggle; Turnover Reveals Drop of 60,000,000,000 Marks.

By LUIS P. LOCHNER.
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, March 16 (A.P.).—The annual report of the Reichsbank for 1931, issued today, reflects in figures the seriousness of last year's economic crisis as well as the efforts of Germany's leading bank to maintain the stability of the Reichsmark.

The turnover of the bank declined about 60,000,000,000 marks, as compared with 1930, to 803,736,000,000. The bank purchased 256,000,000 marks in gold from foreign countries. At the same time it lost 1,508,000,000 marks in its efforts to regulate the stability of the mark.

Its reserves in foreign countries dropped from 400,000,000 to 172,000,000 marks. Its obligations in foreign countries at the end of 1931 amounted to 428,000,000 marks, compared with only 133,855,000 in the preceding year.

Gross profits were 209,000,000 marks, compared with 127,000,000 in 1930. Net profits, however, dropped to 13,300,000 marks, compared with 14,400,000 in 1930.

A dividend of 12 per cent, the same as paid at the end of 1930, again was proposed.

In the report the bank pointed out the disastrous consequences of loss of confidence throughout the world and regretted that the government up to now had not succeeded in checking the developments of the after-effects of the World War.

Reparations payments have been proven impracticable, the report added, and it said the Reichsbank's view was that there is no other way but to abolish the system formally and with the utmost speed if the world is to be preserved from new economic and social catastrophes.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Youngstown reports say that smaller as well as the major producers of steel in that district are uniformly adhering to the higher schedule of sheet and strip steel prices adopted a few weeks ago.

The Iron Age composite prices are unchanged this week at 2.044 cents a pound for finished steel, $14.48 a gross ton for pig iron and $8.25 a ton for steel scrap.

A net loss of $23,670,052 for 1931 was reported today by the Gulf Oil Corporation. This compares with net income of $10,625,252 in 1930. W. L. Mellon, chairman of the corporation, said profits realized in each month of the last quarter of 1931 were in the aggregate "more than sufficient to offset the loss in the third quarter, with the result that the entire net loss for the year was sustained during the first six months."

Directors of Otis Elevator Co. reduced the annual dividend basis of the common stock to $2 from $2.50 by declaring a disbursement of 50 cents, payable April 15 to stock of record March 31.

Brooklyn Edison Co., subsidiary of Consolidated Gas of New York, had net income of $14,400,728 last year, equal to $11.52 a share, against $14,690,332, or $16.32 a share on a smaller capitalization in 1930.

W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co. had net profit of $236,065 in the year ended February 29 against $701,792 in the previous year.

R. H. Macy & Co., today declared dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock. Previously the company paid 75 cents quarterly.

Municipal bonds offered for sale so far this week have moved in a manner suggesting a substantial recovery in investment confidence. The week's sales will foot up the largest total for some time.

The Hupp Motor Car Co. reports a net loss for 1931 of $4,249,127, compared with a net loss of $922,765 in 1930.

DOHERTY IS NAMED IN $75,000,000 SUIT

Pipe Line Complaint Includes Also Banker's Company in Antitrust Charges.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The complaint in the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co.'s $75,000,000 suit, brought under the antitrust law against Henry L. Doherty and others, was filed today in the U. S. District Court.

The defendants are Doherty individually and as a member of Henry L. Doherty & Co.; Christy Payne, a director of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; the North American Light & Power Co. and its first president and director, Louis E. Fischer, of Chicago.

Preliminary papers were filed several weeks ago. The complaint alleges that the defendants were owners of interests which in 1930 were constructing a pipe line for natural gas from the Texas Panhandle to Joliet, Ill., with about 30 miles of distributing mains in Chicago.

It says the plaintiff in that year held a controlling interest in the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., which was constructing a line to deliver natural gas in Missouri, Kansas, Indiana and Illinois.

The complaint asserts the plaintiff wished to raise funds to complete its line by selling 800,000 more common shares, but that the defendants conspired to defeat this project by selling Panhandle Eastern Pipeline stock short on the New York Curb.

"As a direct result of the defendants' conspiracy," the complaint reads, "the plaintiff was compelled to dispose of half its interest in the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline system."

As a result of this, it continued, large sums of money which the plaintiff would otherwise have received as profits were lost.

The Standard Oil Co. and Christy Payne filed an answer denying the plaintiff's allegations of conspiracy, short selling and unfair acts.

GRAIN PRICES CLIMB ON EXPORT DEMANDS

Liverpool Wheat Premiums Over Chicago Greatest in Several Months.

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—Despite setbacks in securities, grain tended upward today, stimulated by fresh export demand.

The Liverpool wheat market went to the biggest premium over Chicago that has been reached in several months, with quotations more than 2 cents above Chicago. Recently Liverpool was 4⅜ cents under Chicago.

Wheat closed unsettled at almost the day's top, ⅜ to ⅝ cent over yesterday's finish. Corn was up ¼ to ⅝ cent, oats unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents off.

Buenos Aires also showed a gain on Chicago. The Argentine market has advanced 2½ cents on Chicago since the first of this month.

Liverpool reported broader European demand for U. S. wheat, and there were persistent forecasts that Germany soon would modify her import restrictions. About 160,000 bushels of hard winter wheat from this country were announced as constituting part of 500,000 bushels of North American wheat bought for shipment to Europe. Included was 40,000 bushels of hard winter sold to Liverpool for March shipment via the Gulf of Mexico.

Word that George S. Milnor, head of the United States Grain Stabilization Corporation, was on his way to Europe simultaneously with a leading Chicago exporter, attracted much notice. Mr. Milnor's departure was looked upon as an effort to stimulate export demand for Farm Board wheat.

In this connection, some significance was placed on disquieting reports of an adverse crop outlook in Italy and central Europe. There were also unfavorable crop advices regarding domestic winter wheat in the Southwest, notably Texas, and in parts of the Ohio Valley.

Corn and oats were responsive to wheat strength. Shipping demand here for corn was a little better.

SELLING CUTS RALLY IN COTTON MARKETS

May Contracts React From 6.95 to 6.88; Liverpool Reports Buying.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Early advances of several points in cotton today were followed by reductions on realizing combined with some local and commission house selling.

Offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering and after selling off from 6.95 to 6.86, May contracts closed at 6.88, with the general market closing steady net 1 point higher to 3 points lower.

The opening was steady, at unchanged to an advance of 4 points on some trade and commission house buying. Little Southern selling was in evidence and with offerings limited, active months worked about 4 to 7 points net higher during the early trading.

The advance extended to 7.13 for July and 7.34 for October, but at these levels met more cotton. Closing prices showed rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

The weather map showed higher temperatures and cloudy conditions in the belt.

Reports of a small spot demand in the South were coupled with indications of light offerings and a steady basis.

Liverpool cables reported covering and continental buying in that market and said there was steady buying of cotton cloths for shipment to South America and Africa.

Exports today were 36,894 bales, making 6,420,261 bales so far this season.

AUCTION SALES

THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1932—
THOMAS J. OWEN & SONS, Auctioneers,
1431 Eye Street Northwest,
Washington, D. C.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF THE VALUABLE EIGHT-STORY AND BASEMENT BRICK AND LIMESTONE APARTMENT - HOTEL PROPERTY KNOWN AS "THE NEW AMSTERDAM" LOCATED AT THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF FOURTEENTH AND FAIRMONT STREETS NORTHWEST.

Because of default in the terms and condition of and by virtue of a certain deed of trust executed by New Amsterdam Company, a Delaware corporation, dated September 1, 1926, recorded among the land records of the District of Columbia in Liber 6223 at folio 477 et seq., and at the request of over twenty-five per centum of the holders of the bonds secured thereby, the undersigned substituted trustee, by appointment of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, in Equity Cause No. 51386, will offer for sale at public auction, in front of the premises, on THURSDAY, THE 31ST DAY OF MARCH, 1932, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia:

Part of Lot 1 in Block 32, in John Sherman, Trustee's, Subdivision of land now known as "Columbia Heights," as per plat recorded in Liber Governor Shepherd folio 137 of the Records of the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia; said part of lot being the south 40 feet front on 14th street northwest by the depth between parallel lines along the south line of the lot, the full depth of the lot;

Also Lots 22 and 23 in Cyrus Mantz' Subdivision of part of said Block 32, "Columbia Heights," as per plat recorded in Liber County No. 8 folio 128 of the aforesaid surveyor's office records.

Said lots and part of lot being subject to the covenants that when a building is erected upon any of said lots, it shall not be within 30 feet of the street line, nor shall it be used for manufacturing or mechanical purposes, nor shall spirituous liquors be sold therein;

together with the improvements, consisting of the "The New Amsterdam" and all furnishings and fittings and chattels therein which the said trustee under said deed of trust is authorized to sell and convey.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price to be paid in cash on or before the 30th day of April, 1932, balance in two equal installments, payable on or before one and two years from date of sale, respectively, with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum from day of sale, said interest payable semiannually, and to be secured by first deed of trust on the property sold; or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. The said trustee will receive no bid from any one offering to bid who shall not at or before the hour of sale, or any adjournment thereof, deposit with said trustee as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in case of its acceptance, a deposit of $15,000. Either in cash or certified check on a local bank or trust company, made or endorsed payable to the undersigned trustee, or in lieu thereof, bonds of the par value of $30,000 in form transferrable by delivery, secured by said deed of trust, said bonds to have all unpaid coupons attached thereto. The deposit of any unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him immediately after the sale. In case any successful bidder shall fail to complete his purchase by April 30, 1932, in accordance with the said terms of sale, said deposit may be forfeited at the option of the said trustee. Said trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids and withdraw the property from sale.

Adjustments with respect to taxes, assessments, insurance, rentals, income from operation of property, interest, and all other adjustments shall be made as of the date of said sale, and the purchaser will continue to manage and operate said property and collect the income therefrom from date of sale to date of transfer upon the terms and conditions set forth in said deed of trust. After settlement of title said trustee will not be responsible for any bills or expenses incurred in the management or operation of said property.

Terms of sale to be complied with by the 30th day of April, 1932; otherwise, the trustee reserves the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser upon the same or such terms after advertisement of such resale to be published three times per week for two successive weeks in two newspapers published in Washington, D. C.

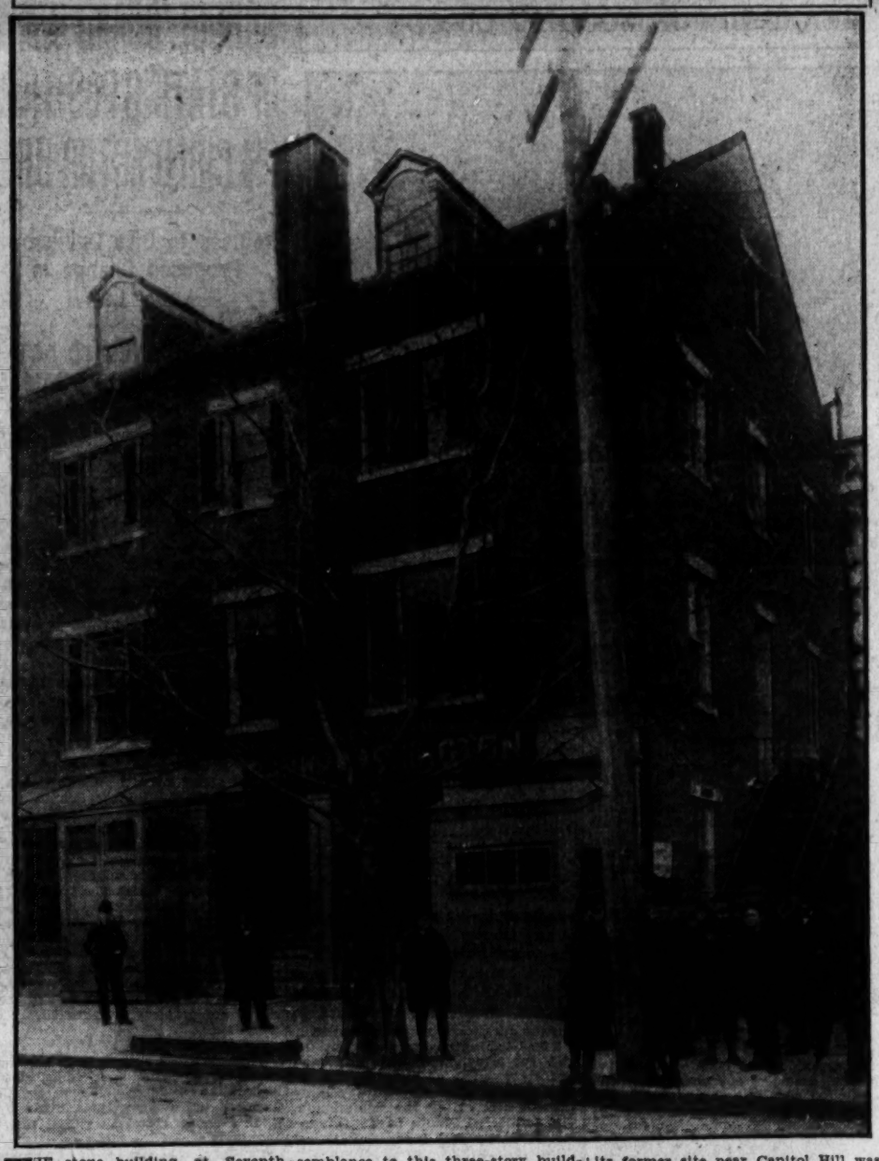
When Washington Was Younger—No. 224



THE stone building at Seventh and C streets northwest that now comprises the National Bank of Washington has little resemblance to this three-story building in 1829.

The National Bank of Washington occupied the above residence after its former site near Capitol Hill was abandoned. The present bank building was erected in 1888 on the same site.

SIMMONS PROTESTS KEEPING CITY FUNDS TO BUDGET'S LIMITS

HOLDS DISTRICT CASH, NOT FEDERAL, IS ISSUE

Chairman Cannon Asserts Subcommittee Is Bound by Instructions.

Decision to limit 1933 District appropriations strictly to budget items came over vigorous protest of Representative Robert G. Simmons, former chairman of the House District appropriations subcommittee, it was disclosed yesterday in first-day proceedings of the House finance group, released by Chairman Clarence Cannon.

"This bill should have different consideration from other bills," Representative Simmons told the committee. "We are dealing not with Federal revenues in this bill; we are dealing with District revenues, outside of the contribution which the United States makes to the District."

The Nebraska representative protested "the rule of the main committee which prevents this subcommittee exercising an independent judgment." Nevertheless, the subcommittee decided it was "instructed" to proceed under the House appropriations committee rule prohibiting new District items, increases, or reallocations of funds.

Opportunity for Hearing.

Requesting consideration of District items on a different basis from the other appropriations bills, Representative Simmons pointed out that so far as the District is concerned, the subcommittee is not "dealing with a Treasury that is in the red."

"In connection with this bill, we have repeatedly stated to the people of the District of Columbia that before this subcommittee they had their opportunity to express their wishes regarding the expenditure of money," he said. "They do not have that opportunity before the budget. They do have it, of course, before the Board of Education, and they have it before the Commissioners as I understand it. They have always been accorded that privilege in the administration of the appropriation.

"But this subcommittee, the House committee, has been the place where we have repeatedly told them that they had their opportunity to come and tell us wherein they disapproved the expenditure of their money, not Federal money, but District money. And we have always heard them, and, in the main, I think have been able to meet pretty generally the wishes of the District, wherever there has been concerted demonstration of approval of an item, or where there has been a request for expenditures not included in the bill.

District Voice Barred.

"I rather prided myself on the fact that this bill when it was finally drafted, aside from the question of fiscal relations, has almost universally been approved by the people of the District as a whole. Now, this rule shuts off to the people of the District this one and only opportunity to tell the House of Representatives how the District wants its money spent."

Chairman Cannon replied that he personally would be glad to consider additional items, but questioned the advisability in face of the full committee's ruling. He declared he was "as vitally interested in the District as any other property owner here."

Chairman Cannon further informed the committee it was instructed by action of the House to limit the Federal lump sum contribution to $6,500,000.

"Accordingly," he said, "there is this alternative; either $3,000,000 of revenue must be made up through operation of the four bills which the House has sent to the Senate, providing for additional taxation, or it must be made up out of an increase in the present revenues of the District through an increase in the tax rate on real estate or other source of income."

Mapes Program Defended.

Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas, launched a defense of the Mapes committee's tax program at opening day hearings, asking if there was "anything sacred about the citizens of Washington" that they should be exempted from a higher gasoline tax. He said the four Mapes taxation measures have been "sidetracked somewhere."

"If those bills are not passed, you are going to have your tax on real estate raised," he said. "Where is the man in the District who wants his real estate tax raised?" But you are going to have to have it."

Commissioner Luther C. Reichelderfer, Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor; William P. Richards, assessor, and Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, testified before the committee the first day.

BAR GROUP ATTACKS UNLAWFUL PRACTICE

Indorses Recommendation of Committee Seeking Passage of Bill.

Indorsing the recommendation that the Bar Association of the District, through a committee, do its utmost to procure passage in Congress of a bill restricting the unauthorized practice of the law in the District, the association, meeting last night at the Mayflower Hotel, voted to support the bill.

A committee of investigation submitted a report of the bill. It's report reads in part: "Your committee in the course of its investigation, found that the activities of many banks and trust companies in the District of Columbia were encroaching upon the prerogatives of the legal profession, and in its judgment constituted unauthorized practices of the law; that a greater part of the business in regard to the drawing of wills, trust agreements, etc., was brought into the bank by solicitous advertisements, some of which advertisements went to the extent of defining terms of law and giving their construction as to the meaning thereof."

Numerous contentions that the bill should define what constitutes the unlawful practice of law were voted down, as it was stated that the bill was sufficient to convict a person or corporation violating its terms.

"Your committee believes," the report stated, "that the practice of law belongs exclusively to the legal profession as does the practice of medicine belong to the medical profession, and that all matters pertaining thereto should be conducted by persons learned in the law and authorized to practice before the courts."

The association did not indorse legislation to increase the jurisdiction of municipal courts from actions involving the present amount of $1,000 to the limit prescribed by the new legislation which raises that amount to $3,000. The objection to the legislation as stated by members was that litigants have no appeal from the municipal court decision, and that the increased amount would be unreasonable on this account.

Another feature of the legislative project is the increase in tenure of office of judges from the present period of four years to a seven-year term.

A dinner in compliment to the local bench was announced for April 2 at the Mayflower Hotel, to be tendered by the association.

2 Administrators Of Dempsey Estate

Children of Former Coach of G. U. Boat Crew Fail to Find Will.

At the request of the five children of Patrick A. Dempsey, who died February 16, the District Supreme Court yesterday appointed the Union Trust Co. and John J. Hamilton as the administrators of the estate. The children said they had been unable to find a will.

Mr. Dempsey was well known in the District as the coach of the Georgetown crew of 1903, which placed second to Cornell at the Poughkeepsie regatta, the latter eight setting a world's record in winning the race. In 1907 he coached the Vesper crew, of Philadelphia, which won the Henley Regatta in England, as representatives of the United States. Later Dempsey coached the Potomac Boat Club crew of this city.

Mr. Dempsey owned real estate assessed at $10,320 and personal property valued at $146,943.50. The children are George A., Raymond A. and Edward A. Dempsey, and Mrs. Emily Lingg and Mrs. Dorothy Smith.

Wives of Lions Shown Spring Fashion Preview

Wives of members of the Washington Lions Club in the Mayflower Hotel yesterday were treated to a preview of spring fashions. The program had as its special feature, "What the Well-Dressed Lioness Will Wear," and models from Jelleff's contributed to the program.

Special guests were Mrs. Martin Hysong, president of the Soroptimist Club, and Mrs. John Waters, Miss Jewell Downs and Miss Mary Whiteman, all members of the Soroptimists.

Man Is Fatally Stricken At Table in Restaurant

Taken suddenly ill last night while eating dinner in a downtown restaurant, John H. Kelly, 76 years old, of 916 Massachusetts avenue northwest, was pronounced dead at Emergency Hospital, where he was rushed by the Fire Rescue Squad.

Mr. Kelly was being treated by his family physician for heart trouble, it was learned, and had been in ill health for some time.

Recognition of Soviet, Debate Topic Tomorrow

Balloting on the recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States by the audience will be a feature of the debate between Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries and Prof. Scott Nearing at the Masonic Temple tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock.

Gen. Fries will say that the United States should not recognize the Soviet government. Dr. Nearing, international Communist leader, will declare for recognition. Following the debate a question period for the audience will be allowed.

'Blizzard' Far Below Ocean Top Detailed

An account of a snowstorm 160 feet deep in the ocean and a demonstration of an underwater steel-cutting torch last night successfully exploited the experimental diving unit of the Navy Yard.

The steel-searing flame was shown in action in the swimming pool of the Y. M. C. A. by Master Diver S. A. Klappholz, as a climax to a lecture by Lieut. Lowe H. Bibby on submarine rescue developments.

Armed with an oxyhydrogen torch which was ignited below the surface by an electric arc, Diver Klappholz, attired in the suit and helmet of a deep sea explorer, cut a piece from a steel table which had been lowered into the pool.

Before his demonstration, Chief Boatswain's Mate C. A. Rogers had walked over the bottom of the tank equipped with the "lung" which the Navy developed as a means of escape for persons trapped in disabled submarines.

At McMahon Hall, Catholic University, Lieut. Norman S. Ives told members of the Washington section of the Society of Mechanical Engineers of deep sea diving and rescue problems.

In the salvage of the ill-fated submarine S-4 a diver who was working on the wreck telephoned to the workers above "it is snowing down here." They pulled him up and found that the temperature of the water was so low that ice crystals were forming in the air he breathed. It had clogged the air line and he might have died if he had not noticed the phenomenon.

Cold temperatures are now combated, Lieut. Ives said, by warming the air which is pumped to the diver and by dehydrating it so there is no moisture to freeze.

Brick Firm to Prevent Return of Squatters

Declaring that the 150 colored squatters whose shacks were burned Tuesday morning in South Washington, Va., by order of the West Brothers Brick Co., had been destroying private property, L. Perry West, president of the company, said yesterday that every effort will be made to prevent them from returning. The burning of the shacks, he said, culminated a year's campaign to drive away the hoboes.

The cold weather led to the destruction of much of the West Co.'s lumber and sheds for fires, he said, and frequently the squatters removed copper connections from high tension wires and sold them. The uninvited visitors were given ample warning to remove all their personal property before the shacks were burned, he added.

Son of Col. McFarland Injured While Skating

Earl McFarland, jr., 13-year-old son of Lieut. Col. Earl McFarland, executive to Frederick H. Payne, Assistant Secretary of War, is in Walter Reed Hospital suffering from a fractured right arm, received yesterday when he fell to the sidewalk while roller skating on Porter street near Connecticut avenue northwest.

Citizens Indorse Pension Measure

Dahlgren Terrace Group Also Hears Lecture of Zoo Director.

A resolution generally approving the Gibson bill which would provide a pension for widows and other dependents of civil service employes was adopted last night by the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association, meeting in the Crosby S. Noyes School.

The resolution was amended, however, to indicate the association's feeling that the method of raising money to pay the pensions and the effect of the financial burden on the treasury, should be thoroughly inquired into.

A resolution seeking to put the group on record as advocating a cut in milk prices was defeated. Several members spoke against the measure.

Dr. William A. Mann, director of the Zoo, gave an illustrated lecture, describing at length his expedition last summer into the wilds of British Guiana in search of exhibits for the park here.

Night Officer of Day Is New Post in Police Department

A new position in the Police Department—night officer of the day—to be filled in eight-day cycles by each of the seven inspectors and the major and superintendent, was created yesterday after a long conference of officials of the Police Department.

The action, suggested by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, was approved by all the officials. It is hoped to keep the force up to greatest of efficiency by having a ranking officer actively in charge at all times.

Hitherto, the lieutenant at detective bureau headquarters has been in nominal command of the department in the absence of higher officers. It is believed the new step will remove a burden from the shoulders of the detective lieutenant and prove a considerable incentive to better work.

SCHOOL BOARD WARY OF STATING POSITION ON CHILD ACTOR BILL

Refuses to Give Opinion on Proposed Change in Labor Law.

ALSO DECLINES TO ACT AS CENSOR OF DRAMAS

Concern Expressed It May Violate Statute Through Night School Plays.

The Board of Education yesterday refused to render an opinion on the proposed amendment to the child labor law to allow children to appear on the stage after 7 o'clock at night, as requested by the District Commissioners.

In taking this action the board upheld the opinion of its legislation committee that Congress should judge the amendment and that the board should not allow itself to be put in the position of passing on its propriety. The board's function is to enforce the child labor law, it was pointed out.

The board also disapproved being given the duty of determining whether any theatrical productions employing minors is considered offensive to public decency. However, the board members recommended that the phraseology of the last sentence of the bill be revised to read as follows: "The board or its agent may issue a permit when satisfied that the minor is receiving adequate instructions and that the health and morals of the minor are properly safeguarded."

Doubt on School Plays.

The bill in its present form has the words "shall issue" and "educational instructions." These changes are in harmony with suggestions made by S. E. Cochran, local theatrical manager, sponsor of the bill.

Concern was expressed by some board members as to whether the board is violating the child labor law in allowing minors to appear in school plays at night, and it was decided to ask the District corporation counsel for an opinion.

The report of the legislation committee, rejecting the request for an opinion, was adopted with one dissenting vote, entered by George M. Whitwell. Action was taken after a lively discussion in which it was plainly shown that the board members are extremely concerned over having responsibility for child actors.

Crane Assistants Sought.

The board recommended employment of two men to aid Jere J. Crane, assistant superintendent of schools, in field work. Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, explained that Mr. Crane is unable to attend to a great many pressing duties because of time taken up in inspecting schools under construction and performing other field work.

Decision also was reached that in future all school dedications will be under the auspices of the Board of Education. In the past various citizens' groups have been in charge of the exercises.

Examinations for stenographic and clerical positions will be held next November instead of this May, the present eligibility list to be extended to the fall, it was decided.

Dr. Ballou was authorized to proceed with the reorganization of kindergartens under a policy agreed upon last year.

19 BUS LINES AGREE TO QUIT TERMINALS

Moves to Be Made by April 1; Two Other Operators Have Obeyed Orders.

Nineteen bus line operators whose terminals are in the congested zone agreed to vacate their present terminals by April 1 at a closed meeting of the interstate bus operators with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday. The operators were summoned to the conference by the commission because they had failed to answer questionnaires satisfactorily.

The Washington Rapid Transit Co. and the Greyhound Bus Line were not represented at the meeting, as they had already agreed to comply with the order of the commission. The former will move to the Annapolis Hotel and the latter will have a depot across the street from the present location, on New York avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets.

Although the order banning interstate bus terminals from the congested zone by April 1 was adopted last August, there has been no indication until recently that any of the operators intended to obey it. The commission therefore subpenaed to the meeting yesterday all operators who had not definitely declared any action to comply with the order.

The order affects only interstate buses doing business with distant points and does not include suburban buses.

Woman Is in Hospital After Traffic Accident

Mrs. Matilda H. Button, 50 years old, of 2408 North Capitol street, is in an undetermined condition in Sibley Hospital, with a possibly fractured skull, received yesterday when she walked into the side of an automobile while attempting to cross the street at Rhode Island avenue and North Capitol street.

Mrs. Button was thrown to the street and a passing motorist took her to the hospital. George H. Meyers, 19 years old, of Hyattsville, Md., who police said was driving the machine the woman struck, was arrested and charged with reckless driving at the Second Precinct. He was released after posting $25.

Autopsy Held on Body Of Drowned Laborer

After an autopsy on the body of Edward A. Cole, 41-year-old Government Printing Office laborer, whose body was found floating in the Eastern Branch Tuesday, near the foot of First street southwest, Coroner Joseph D. Rogers last night said death had been caused by drowning.

The coroner left until today his decision as to whether the drowning was by self-intent or accidental. He said there were no marks of violence on the body. The only mysterious element is the fact that Mr. Cole was wearing an overcoat when he left home Tuesday morning. The body was coatless when found.

Bicentennial Program Slated in Chevy Chase

A colonial period program in honor of the Washington Bicentennial will be presented tomorrow night at 8 o'clock by the Chevy Chase Community Center at the E. V. Brown School under the direction of Mrs. F. K. Espenschied.

A "military parade" directed by Miss Ivy Randall will open the program, and a minuet will be presented by the junior social dancing class. Two plays will be given, "The Washingtons at Home," by the music section of the Chevy Chase Women's Club, and "Martha Washington at Valley Forge," an American historical sketch by C. A. Wood.

Victims See Policeman, Held With Brother in Holdups

Pair Not Identified as Connected With Recent Robberies or With Riedel Case; Another Suspended Officer Released in Bond on Liquor Charge.

Private Luther E. Cline, Second Precinct policeman, and his brother, Silas, both of 2025 I street northwest, were being held last night while police sought witnesses in the fatal shooting of Paul Riedel, Mount Pleasant street baker, and persons who viewed other recent holdups.

Private Claude C. Cool, attached to the headquarters garage, was released on $500 bond yesterday, after he had pleaded not guilty in Police Court on a charge of possession of liquor. He was arrested Tuesday night by members of the special squad, who accused him of delivering two half gallons of whisky in the police radio repair car.

Both Cline and Cool have been suspended. The former and his brother were arrested early yesterday, after they allegedly displayed pistols to a taxicab driver and spoke of taking the man "for a ride."

A large group of recent holdup victims last night viewed the Cline brothers. None of them identified either of the men. Harry Aitemus, one of the witnesses, who saw the killer of Mr. Riedel emerge from his shop, said neither of them resembled the men. More witnesses in the Riedel case will view the men tonight at headquarters.

The man the brothers are alleged to have discussed taking "for a ride" is William T. Griffith, a taxicab operator of Cherrydale, Va. He said he picked them up at Twenty-first street and Pennsylvania avenue about 1 o'clock and was directed to drive to the 1000 block of D street northeast.

Near the destination the men produced guns, Griffith said, and one suggested the "ride." He said he told them he had no money. After some talk they paid him off, he said, and dismissed him in front of 1026 D street northeast.

Griffith said he then went to the Ninth Precinct Station and reported the incident. The police took him for a tour of the neighborhood, but failed to find the men sought.

Later the two men hired the cab of Clarence E. Pendleton, Mount Rainier, Md., on Benning road northeast. They told him to drive to Fifteenth and H streets northeast. He said that on the way he heard a click as if the hammer of a gun was being pulled back.

At Fifteenth and H streets northeast, the cab was stopped and there was some discussion among the men. They produced the guns, Pendleton said, but did not try to hold him up. Some one phoned police and they responded, bringing along Griffith, who identified the men.

One gun was found on the seat of the cab, while Pendleton later found another on the same seat. This was turned over to police. The Cline brothers admitted the guns were theirs but refused to make statements.

At headquarters last night the Clines denied all the allegations of the two cab drivers.

GROWTH OF NATION DESCRIBED TO S.A.R.

"Evacuation of Boston" Is Topic of Address Made by Dr. R. J. C. Dorsey.

Speaking on the anniversary eve of the Boston Tea Party before a meeting of the Sons of the American Revolution at the Mayflower Hotel last night, Dr. R. J. C. Dorsey traced the growth of American independence and freedom in an address entitled, "The Evacuation of Boston."

Representative W. H. Dietrich, of Illinois, in a patriotic address before the group, told of the rise of the pioneers four centuries ago to form the thirteen colonies despite the wilderness, and told how the spirit of freedom fostered and formed the great Nation of today.

S. S. Williamson, president of the organization, presided. Miss Lucille Reeves, Mrs. Helen B. Eckman, Mrs. Ruth Kalthoff, and Mrs. Carl R. Chindbloom gave vocal and instrumental entertainment. The meeting was the first following the annual election.

Founders Day of the organization, on April 15, and the annual congress of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, to convene in Washington May 15, were brought to the attention of the members.

The evacuation of Boston by the British troops on March 17, 1776, was described last night in a radio address by Dr. J. Newton Baker, over station WJSV.

The skill and energy of Gen. George Washington, who devised methods by which the British army and fleet were humiliated and driven from Boston, has never been equaled in military history, Dr. Baker said.

"The regaining of the possession of Boston by Continental troops," Dr. Baker declared, "was the day of deliverance from famine, pestilence and the sword, and gave a new life and courage to the inhabitants who returned to their homes and the peaceful ways of honest industry."

In appreciation of his victory, Dr. Baker pointed out, Congress awarded Gen. Washington a gold medal, and for many years it was a treasured token, descending to his relatives and finally being purchased by the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Southern Society Host at Reception

Doak Is Chief Speaker at Function at Willard; Dance Follows.

"I want you to know that I feel the pulse of the South here tonight as I have felt it all through my life," William N. Doak, Secretary of Labor, told members of the Southern Society at their reception and dance at the Willard Hotel last night.

"The South is dear to all of us," he said, "and the people thereof from the tidewaters to the mountains, and from the gulf up to the reaches of the great river are bound to us with the ties of affection. This country of ours today is passing through troublous times. The hardship of things are felt, North, South, East and West, but I believe that every section of our country has the heart to bear up, and that not only will we carry on but carry through to the end that we all seek."

Representative Menalcus Lankford, of Virginia, presided at the reception, and Mrs. Lankford, Mrs. Doak, and Mrs. Ephraim Morgan, of West Virginia, were hostesses. Representative Morgan Sanders, of Texas, acted as chairman of the men's committee on arrangements, and Mrs. Joseph Beall, acted as chairman of the ladies' committee. J. Franklin Little and Miss Etta L. Taggart headed general arrangements.

2 Hotel Officials Feted By Chapter of Greeters

Charles A. Mangold, of Dallas, Tex., international president of the Hotel Greeters of America, and Miss Jennie M. Fisher, of Kansas City, Mo., president of the women's auxiliary of the greeters, were in Washington yesterday.

Members of the Washington Chapter staged a special testimonial luncheon in their honor at the Mayflower. They are both en route to the regional meeting in Baltimore on Friday of the Middle Atlantic States Charters of the Greeters. Doll M. Zerkle, president of the local group, presided. The program was arranged by Russell F. Donnelly, secretary.

Missing Man Is Dead; Relatives Are Sought

Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, of the United Hebrew Relief Society, yesterday informed The Post that Joseph Bernstein, 40 years old, who had been reported missing from his home, 1006 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, died two weeks ago in Emergency Hospital and was buried by the society in the Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery.

Mrs. Goldsmith said she was anxious to locate relatives of the dead man.

NOTE RELIEF DENIED RHEEM INVESTORS

Court Rules Ponce de Leon Issue Is Obligation of That Firm.

Persons who purchased mortgage notes on the Ponce de Leon Apartments through the firm of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey must look to that firm for payment of their notes, Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue ruled in the District Supreme Court. Notes aggregating $375,000 are involved.

Holders of notes secured by trusts on the apartment building had petitioned the court to remove a subsequent first trust for $325,000 which had been placed on the building by the New York Life Insurance Co., and reinstate their trust as a first trust. They pointed out that a second trust of $44,000 had figured in the deal, leaving a balance of $6,000 between the replacement trusts and the original first trust.

The apartment, located on upper Connecticut avenue, is now financed through the New York Life trust, and those who hold notes on the released trust, Justice O'Donoghue said, must seek redress from the bankrupt Swartzell firm. Many suits of a similar nature are pending. All revolve about released trusts, on which holders of notes on the original trust were not paid.

Frank G. Raichle Posts $5,000 Bond

Pitts' Former Attorney Is Silent When Questioned on Indictment.

Accompanied by Milton Kronheim, a professional bondsman, Frank G. Raichle, indicted Tuesday for subornation or perjury and obstructing justice in connection with the Pitts case, yesterday went to the District Supreme Court and posted $5,000 bond for his appearance in court when wanted. Raichle formerly was attorney for G. Bryan Pitts.

The law partner of former Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan came into the criminal clerk's office just at closing time. He went through the ceremony of placing his bond and immediately left.

Raichle's next appearance at the courthouse will be when he is formally arraigned on the four charges in the indictment. He was silent yesterday when questioned by newspapermen.

Discussions on Racial Problems Set at School

Religion's relation to racial problems will be discussed at the final session of the Lenten Adult School of Religion at the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tonight.

Lectures, beginning at 7 o'clock, will be given by Dr. George E. Haynes, of New York; Dr. Irving F. Wood, of Smith College; Dr. D. B. Pratt, of Howard University, and Dr. Walter Spooner.

Shot by Brother's Gun, Boy May Lose His Eye

The brother, James Sullivan, 24 years old, was cleaning a .22-caliber pistol when it suddenly went off and the slug struck Jerry in the forehead.

Bicentennial Exhibits Open Soon in Agriculture Building

Exhibits in connection with the Bicentennial celebration of the birth of George Washington are being installed in the court of the new Administration Building of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Showing the development of Government aid to agriculture from the time of the first President until the present day, the exhibit will be open to visitors within a short time and will continue until the end of the Bicentennial activities on Thanksgiving Day.

Exhibits include ones by the Biological Survey, pointing out the types of birds and hawks that are beneficial and those that do harm to the farmers, and the Bureau of Public Roads, showing maps of the Federal-aid highway system in the United States with a network of roads totaling 999,000 miles.

Other panels of interest to the public will be those of the Bureau of Dairy Industries, the Weather Bureau, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the Bureau of Plant Industry and the Bureau of Entomology.

ROOP SEES HOOVER AFTER NEW DISTRICT AID BILL IS DRAFTED

COMMITTEE CONTINUES WORK ANOTHER MONTH.

Another Cut in Personnel, However, Is Expected to Be Necessary.

Emergency action on behalf of the District employment committee, faced with the lack of funds, moved forward swiftly and secretly yesterday afternoon.

The District Commissioners held a special meeting after receiving a resolution from the employment committee asking them to seek an appropriation for public work from Congress to relieve local unemployment, and drafted a bill providing for such an appropriation.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, took the bill to the Bureau of the Budget, where he conferred with Col. J. Clawson Roop, director of the budget. Maj. Donovan and Col. Roop then obtained a hearing with President Hoover and went to the White House to confer with the Chief Executive.

Silent After Interview.

Neither Maj. Donovan nor Col. Roop would discuss their interview with the President. The President is expected to send a recommendation on the bill to the Bureau of the Budget, which in turn will transmit it to the District Commissioners.

Meantime, the District employment committee waits hopefully on favorable action on its request for a congressional fund to aid unemployment. Its steering committee met yesterday morning, E. C. Graham, chairman, presiding, and instructed its executive secretary, Paul L. Benjamin, to transmit the resolution to the Commissioners. The Commissioners called their meeting to consider the resolution yesterday afternoon, meeting with Mr. Graham, Maj. Donovan and Newbold Noyes.

Will Continue Committee.

The steering committee yesterday also completed plans for continuing work of the employment committee for another month under the remaining fund of $70,000. After this it is hoped that funds will be obtained from some other source to carry on a skeleton personnel.

To continue the committee operation another month it has been necessary to reduce its personnel 40 per cent. This cut is expected to be reduced further to 50 per cent on April 1. Aid will be given the employment problem on April 10 through employment of 1,000 men on the District spring highway program. At a later date 3,000 more men are expected to be employed.
